GOFF CALLS WRIGHT IN THE HYDE CASE

City Official Will Be Asked About Spies on Robin and His Belief in Hyde's Innocence.

MAY BE CITED TO MAYOR

Ex-City Chamberlain to be Sentenced To-day, but Likely to be Bailed Out Soon on Certificate of Doubt.

Charles H. Hyde will be brought before Justice Goff at 10:30 o'clock this morning to be sentenced for bribery, and William J. Wright, the Deputy Commissioner of Correction, will be called to the witness chair and asked by Justice Goff concerning his statement that he knew Hyde to be innocent of the crime of which he was convicted. If Mr. Wright can convince the court that there is fair reason to believe that there has been a miscarriage of justice, Hyde will be returned to the Tombs and an investigation of the facts given by Mr. Wright will be begun.

Neither Justice Goff nor District Attorney Whitman believes that Mr. Wright will be able to report any facts of sufficient importance to cause a backward step in the case. Small attention would have been paid to Mr. Wright's statements if he had not been reported as saying that he had established a spy system on Joseph G. Robin and his sister, Dr. Rabinovitch, and from information gained in this way his inference was drawn that Hyde was the victim of a conspiracy. The suggestion was not put in this brutal fashion, but this was the meaning of it. Mr. Wright denied that he had made any such statement, and so this part of a published interview with him was discarded. But Justice Goff and Mr. Whitman went over some of the other parts of the interview, and decided to put Mr. Wright under oath and to get from him whatever facts he has before Hyde was sentenced.

Mr. Wright has not denied that he expressed his belief in the innocence of Hyde. Such a statement coming from a public official closely allied with the courts after a conviction had been found left the mind of Justice Goff greatly perturbed.

Wright in Trying Position.

One strong reason for the doubt that Mr. Wright has in his possession any facts of consequence has been his failure to communicate the information to Hyde's counsel. One of the lawyers who took an active part in the trial of Hyde said last night:

"It is reasonable to suppose that if Mr. Wright got hold of anything of value to the defense he would have turned it over to Hyde's counsel without a moment's delay. This would have been the proper course to have pursued. But, so far as I have been able to learn, Hyde's counsel know no more about any facts of interest to their client than they knew when the trial was in progress."

If Mr. Wright fails to show a solid foundation for his expressed belief in Hyde's innocence it is expected the facts will be laid before Mayor Gaynor by the court and a possible recommendation accompany them to the effect that a public official who casts a doubt upon the intelligence or the integrity of a court should no longer remain in the public service. If this hint is not acted upon by the Mayor the same facts and the same suggestion, it is said, are to be sent to Gov. Dix. The term of court in which Hyde was found guilty was called by Gov. Dix, who assigned Justice Goff to preside over it. Therefore the Justice is the direct representative of the Governor.

Grand Jury to Investigate.

The Extraordinary Grand Jury will convene to-day at the same time that Hyde will be arraigned before Justice Goff. As soon as District Attorney Whitman is through with his work in the Hyde case he will tell the jurors all about the statements made by Mr. Wright and the methods of running the City Prison that permits one prisoner to be treated with more consideration than another. A bit of the alleged interview with Mr. Wright reads: "I have ordered that much latitude be allowed him [Hyde] in the Tombs. Everything possible is being done to make Hyde feel that he is not a prisoner."

In order to get all the light possible concerning the administration of the prison, subpoenas were served yesterday, requiring Warden Fallon, Deputy Warden Hanley, all of the keepers and the trusties to appear before the Grand Jury. Commissioner Whitney was ordered to appear also before Justice Goff. Assistant Attorney John K. Clark questioned a number of the men subpoenaed yesterday afternoon.

After all the witnesses have been examined the jurors may decide to visit the prison for a general inspection, and especially to look over the much talked of quarters assigned to Hyde in the building set aside for the use of the Warden, but which he refused to occupy on the ground that it was unhealthful. Many of the keepers and other attachés of the prison may be questioned informally by the jurors. They will be armed with the information gathered by Assistant District Clark, who examined about forty employes in the prison. Each of them denied that he ever had heard any conversation between Robin and his sister, and that no report of any conversation between them ever had been carried to Mr. Wright.

During all of this excitement about him Hyde remained at ease in his "rooms de luxe." A reporter was permitted to see these quarters during the day, in order, evidently, to refute the idea that Hyde was living in splendor. After saying that Warden Flynn had died in the building, the description ran:

The Hyde Quarters.

"Hyde has one room and a private bath on the second floor. There are two other rooms and another bathroom on the same floor. Hyde's room is about 8 by 12 feet, and is furnished with two straight-backed wooden chairs, a plain deal table, and a couch. The couch was put in at Hyde's expense when it was found that the cot in the room was too short for him.

"There are two windows in the room, steel barred. Outside the door is a ten-foot corridor where Hyde takes his exercise in the hours prescribed. The floor of his room is uncarpeted and there are no rugs. There are no clothes presses, and so the prisoner is forced to place his garments on the chairs when he goes to bed."

Hyde's lawyers said yesterday that as soon as the case was called this morning they would make the usual motions for a new trial and the prisoner's discharge, which they were sure would be denied. After sentence was pronounced notice would be served on District Attorney Whitman that application to show cause would be presented in Part II. of the Special Term. This order would then be submitted to Part I. and a date set for the argument on the application for a certificate of reasonable doubt. The District Attorney could demand two days' time between the two applications if he wished to, but Mr. Whitman said yesterday that he would not make any attempt

ELECTRICITY REPLACES FOOD.

Prof. Bergonie Applies New Theory to Invalid with Excellent Results.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 3.—That an electric current of 1,000 volts is equal in food value to a porterhouse steak with potato chips is the opinion of Prof. Bergonie, a Bordeaux scientist. Prof. Bergonie announced his theory early in the Fall, as already cabled to THE NEW YORK TIMES. Since then he has been carrying out experiments which fully bear out the theory that food can be replaced by electricity.

In a communication to the Academy of Science Prof. Bergonie says that diathermy, the method of applying a current of low tension and high frequency, may partly supplant food by furnishing the body with a great quantity of heat and saving the digestive organs from overwork. This current traverses the body without provoking the least pain, and, given with an intensity of from two to three amperes and at a voltage of from 1,000 to 2,500 furnishes about 1,000 calories an hour—more than one-third of the heat supplied by one's daily food.

A man of average height, but unusually light in weight, was treated by Prof. Bergonie. He used to eat a good deal of meat, but had hardly strength to walk, and always felt very cold. The professor gave the patient a course of diathermy, and after a series of electric applications lasting forty minutes each, during which time he absorbed 1,700 calories, his weight increased considerably. Now he eats less and has more energy.

Prof. Bergonie foresees the time when all troubles arising from insufficient food will disappear by a reasonable application of the high frequency current discovered by Prof. Darsondal.

PROFIT-SHARING SUCCESSFUL

British Board of Trade Says It Tends to Industrial Peace.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The Labor Department of the Board of Trade has been investigating British profit-sharing and labor copartnership schemes. The results are given in a volume issued by the department.

The first profit-sharing scheme dates back to 1829, and was initiated on Lord Wallscourt's farm. Up to the middle of the present year 299 such schemes have been originated. No details are forthcoming of three; 163 others have been discontinued, leaving 133 schemes now working. Four are forty years old, 55 per cent. are not more than ten years old, 46 are less than four years old, and 6 had their origin this year.

The report describes profit sharing as the receipt by employes, in addition to other wages, of a share fixed beforehand in the profits of an undertaking. Copartnership is an extension of this scheme, enabling the worker to accumulate his share of profits in the capital of the business, thus gaining the rights and responsibilities of a shareholder.

The number of workpeople employed by the 133 firms operating the schemes is 106,000. The profits received by workers last year represented an addition to their wages of 5.5 per cent.

More than half the abandonments of profit-sharing schemes have been due to the falling off of business, which left no profits to be shared. The experience of the firms which have tried profit sharing is that it produces excellent results in developing a higher degree of efficiency on the part of employes and brings about more harmonious relations between employers and employed.

COURT OUSTS ROCKEFELLER.

Decides That Oussani Must Deed Pocantico Land to Mission.

TARRYTOWN, Dec. 3.—By a decision of Justice Keogh, handed down in White Plains this morning, James T. Oussani must give the Catholic Foreign Mission Society a deed to the property in Pocantico Hills next to the Rockefeller estate, which he once agreed to sell them, and then refused, and also pay the costs of the action on the part of the society against him. Rockefeller purchased the property when he heard of the intention of the society to locate upon it.

On July 12, this year, Oussani entered into an agreement with the Foreign Mission Society to sell them a tract of land for the purpose of erecting a home upon it in Pocantico Hills next to the estate of John D. Rockefeller. The society was to pay $15,000 in cash and give a three-year mortgage for $30,000. On July 20 they made a formal tender of the cash and the mortgage, but Oussani refused to sell. When John D. Rockefeller heard of the agreement to sell the property to the Foreign Mission Society he at once entered into negotiations with Oussani to purchase the tract and did so, presumably, at a much better figure than was offered by the society.

The decision of Justice Keogh sets aside this sale to John D. Rockefeller, and Oussani will have to fulfill his original contract with the Foreign Mission Society.

TICKS COST $100,000,000.

Ravages of Cattle Parasite Mean Annual Loss of That Sum.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—"An important factor in the high cost of living, is the insect known as the tick, which, by attacking cattle in every part of the country, is costing the people $100,000,000 annually," said Dr. Peter F. Bahnsen, State Veterinarian of Georgia, in addressing the United States Livestock Association here to-day.

"This little insect causes every man, woman, and child in the country to pay tribute to it in dollars and cents. It directly increases the cost of all kinds of meat by the great damage it does to cattle."

Rigid enforcement of inspection laws to prevent the shipment of infected cattle from one district to another and the education of the farmer and stock raiser were suggested as remedies for the evil.

The best-known and most destructive of the eight species of cattle ticks found in the United States is the Boöphilus annulatus, which transmits the dreaded Texas fever. This disease is of particular virulence among Northern cattle that have been shipped South or that have been brought into contact with Southern cattle, infested with the parasite, that have been shipped North.

LYNCHERS NEED NOT FEAR GOV. BLEASE

If They Get the Right Man No Trial Will Be Needed.

JUSTIFIES HIS MANY PARDONS

Conference of Governors Declares for the Tempering of Justice with Mercy in Case of Convicts.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 3.—There were twenty-seven Governors present at the fifth annual conference here to-day. Gov. Harmon of Ohio presided. There were speeches of welcome by Gov. Mann of Virginia and Mayor Ainslie of Richmond, and a response by Gov. Norris of Montana.

At the session this afternoon there was an interesting discussion of "Modern Penology," led by Gov. Shafroth of Colorado and Gov. Baldwin of Connecticut, both of whom delivered very able and careful addresses. In both of these addresses there was the temper of justice, mixed with mercy. Gov. Shafroth told of what has been accomplished in Colorado by the parole system, which gives the convict the chance, by his own efforts and honor, for restoration, the idea being that men are criminal often by accident rather than design, and with a little help now and then, and within well-defined lines from the State, men who have been condemned for their offenses may be established in their own respect and in the confidence of society.

The contention of Gov. Baldwin was a little more severe, but both of these addresses, and in the free discussion that followed, was the idea that there is much to be gained for the ends of justice by tempering it with mercy.

Govs. Donaghey of Arkansas, Hadley of Missouri, Eberhardt of Minnesota, Gilchrist of Florida, Blease of South Carolina, and Brown of Georgia, all took part in the debate, and it was agreed generally that there is great opportunity for uniform action by the Governors in the promotion of justice by the administration of mercy.

Gov. Blease of South Carolina, who seemed to mistake the conference for a political mass meeting in his native State, turned himself loose, much to the amusement if not the instruction of his grave and revered audience. However, he made a speech which made its mark in the House of Governors. He was the only Governor against whom a political fight had been waged, because of his exercise of the pardoning power. In South Carolina this power is lodged in the Governor alone. His is the authority and his the responsibility, and he had exercised it without fear of consequences, and in extending clemency to those who were in prison he said he had simply carried out the Divine injunction. He went further and declared that lynchers of negro assailants of white women would go free in his State. He said:

"I have said all over the State of South Carolina, and I say it again now, that I will never order out the militia to shoot down their neighbors and protect a black brute who commits a crime against a white woman.

"Therefore, in South Carolina, let it be understood that when a negro assaults a white woman all that is needed is that they get the right man, and they who get him will neither need nor receive a trial."

Gov. Blease justified the use he had made of his pardoning power by conditions he had found in penal institutions in thee State.

"I walked through the penitentiary of South Carolina," he said, "and found it a tuberculosis incubator, where poor devils were dying at their tasks making money for other people; poor devils who had no choice but to stand and work or take the lash. Just the other day Jim Roberts, a negro from Charleston, stopped me as I was walking through and respectfully asked permission to speak to me. He told me that he had been kept in jail for twenty-two years for stealing a $27 watch.

"If you are telling me the truth you will eat your Christmas dinner with your folks at home," I told him.

"'Governor, I have no folks,' he said.

"'Any way you will eat it away from here,' I replied. And he will. Another negro had served eleven years and seven months for stealing $9. A Judge wrote to me that he had sentenced to death a man when he did not believe the man had been convicted beyond a reasonable doubt. Another wrote me that he had sentenced to death a man whom he did not believe should be put to death. He did not believe it at the time, nor does he believe it now.

"These are the errors of justice that I am trying to right with my power of pardon. I am proud of my record."

Much of the most vigorous sentiments expressed by Blease were in his defense of himself and his course, and of his charges of weak or infamous conduct on the part of the Judges of the State, some of the Judges, two of them at least, names not given, but one of whom was said to be now a member of the State Supreme Court, and the other described as one of the most highly honored of the Judges of the State, to whom all men have looked as possessing the sternest sense of justice and the largest patriotism.

Gov. Donaghey of Arkansas declared for a severe penalty for lynchers. No punishment save death, he said, would deter murderers from their crime.

"Why, it's got to the pass," he declared, "where a man is certain of punishment if he should steal a horse, but where, nine times out of ten, he is able to go scot free if he commits a murder."

Every court of appeal should be abolished, in the opinion of Gov. Eberhart of Minnesota. The jury system, he thought, was at the root of the evil of frequent miscarriage of justice. Nowadays, he declared, a man could plead guilty to many varieties of insanity and escape the consequences of his crime. Under the present jury system, he added, it was all but impossible to select intelligent men for jury service.

"I want to take off my hat to Virginia and to New York," said Gov. Gilchrist of Florida, "for I believe they have done justice in their recent murder cases. I don't believe Henry Clay Beattie could have been convicted in my State."

To-morrow the Governors will go down to an oyster roast at Virginia Beach, and there will be no further business until they get back.

The conference impressed the onlooker with the dignity of the cause that has called them together. Gov. Mann said to-day that he had never felt how near the Governors should be, and could be, to each other in the discharge of their duties, as since he had first attended these conferences, and the idea has grown so great that it must be that a way will be found to make the House of Governors a permanent factor in solving the problems of government in the States of the country.

MRS. THAW'S VISITS TO SON HAVE CEASED

Mother and Sisters Apparently Abandon Hope of Freeing the Slayer of Stanford White.

HE STILL EXPECTS RELEASE

Rejects Escape Plan and Engages New Counsel, It Is Said—Lives Now on Asylum Fare.

Special to The New York Times.

FISHKILL LANDING, N. Y., Dec. 3.—There were rumors to-day of an estrangement between Harry K. Thaw and his mother, who stood by him during his two trials and in the subsequent proceedings looking to his release. Mrs. William C. Thaw, now in her seventy-first year, fought long for the freedom of her son in the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane it was noticed that Mrs. Thaw's visits have stopped suddenly. She is in her Pittsburgh home. Only once since the White Plains proceedings, in June, has she called on her son. That visit was very short. Thaw's sisters, Mrs. George L. Carnegie and the former Countess of Yarmouth, have visited their brother only twice since he returned from White Plains. He refused to acknowledge there was a coolness between himself and his family.

In the latest White Plains proceedings, in which Thaw sought freedom, it was brought out by Evelyn Nesbit Thaw that he had written to his wife that they had "better stick to mother, as she had all the money and was easy." Also that "she was crazier than Harry, and cater to her." At that testimony an air of indignation passed over the face of the mother.

Mrs. Thaw for several years lived within a mile of the asylum, and made daily calls on her son. The hours were from 2 to 5, and she never arrived late nor left ahead of time. A liveryman had a standing order to call daily for her, no matter what the weather. She carried on each trip a basket of food, which had been prepared by a cook in her employ. The mother has given up her rooms in the Lynch home here, and has discharged the cook who prepared all Thaw's meals. He now takes the fare of the hospital and explains it is bettter than the food that was served formerly. Now and then he gets dainties, which are ordered from downtown.

Thaw's legal battle seems to have been suspended indefinitely. County Judge A. H. F. Seeger of Orange County, visits him occasionally. It is reported Thaw has engaged the Judge as chief counsel, and that when the next legal move is made it will be directed by Judge Seeger.

Thaw still is hopeful of regaining his liberty. An employe in the hospital tells that a suggestion was made to Thaw to escape, and that he was told a high-powered automobile would be in waiting at the gate to whisk him over the State line into Connecticut and thence to Boston, where he could escape on a steamer for Europe. Thaw rejected the offer, saying that when he got his freedom it would be by process of law, and that he would not be proclaimed an insane fugitive.

EVELYN THAW IS CHILDLESS.

So Testifies in Suit Brought Against Her by the Gorham Company.

Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw took the witness stand in her own behalf yesterday in the suit brought against her before Judge Lynch in the City Court by the Gorham Company for a bill of $2,041 for goods sold to the defendant between December, 1905, and August, 1908. Julius Offenbach, attorney for the plaintiffs, questioned her to bring out the fact that she had purchased the goods while her husband, Harry K. Thaw, was confined in the Matteawan Hospital for the Criminal Insane, and that, therefore, she was personally liable, as they ceased to be necessities to her station in life.

"What does your family consist of?" asked Mr. Offenbach.

"Why, what do you mean? Just Mr. Thaw and myself," answered Mrs. Thaw.

"Any child?" asked the lawyer. Mrs. Thaw lowered her eyes before answering.

"Certainly not," she replied, somewhat embarrassed.

The chief credit clerk and salesmen of the Gorham Company were called and testified to the effect that the accounts had been opened with Mrs. Thaw directly and not on the credit of her husband.

NO PATRICK BRIBERY FUND.

John T. Milliken Says He Can Account for Every Cent He Spent.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 3.—"A record of every cent that was spent in the fight for freedom of Albert T. Patrick, who was pardoned by Gov. Dix, was kept by John T. Milliken, and not a cent of it went for bribery," B. H. Milliken, a brother of John T. Milliken, said to-day, in reply to questions as to what became of the $150,000 used in obtaining the pardon.

"I know that $25,000 of the sum went into a world-wide search for Charles F. Jones, Rice's valet," said B. H. Milliken. "My brother knew that if he could find Jones he would clear Patrick of all suspicion of guilt.

"It cost my brother $5,000 to employ David B. Hill to plead for Patrick before the final court. The rest was spent in supporting Mrs. Patrick at Ossining, where she could be near her husband."

John H. Kirby of Houston, Texas, a prominent lumberman in the Southwest, said yesterday when he arrived at the Waldorf that the people of Texas were so sore over Albert T. Patrick's pardon that a Texan considered it bad form to speak to a New Yorker nowadays.

EIGHT DIE, 7 HURT, IN REAR-END CRASH

Woman and Her Two Children Among Those Killed in Pennsylvania Wreck Near Dresden, O.

HER FATHER, TOO, WILL DIE

Passengers in Last Coach of Forward Train Scalded After Locomotive of Another Cuts Into It.

ZANESVILLE, Ohio, Dec. 3.—Eight persons were killed and seven injured, four probably fatally, in a Pennsylvania Railroad wreck near Dresden, Ohio, to-night. Three of the dead were Mrs. B. A. Emerson of Zanesville and her two children. Mrs. Emerson's father, Jacob Bury, 57 years old, of this city, was on the train, and is among the fatally hurt. Mrs. Emerson was 32 years old, her son 2, and her daughter 3.

The dead:

BALBIAN, HENRY, Cleveland, manager of a Dresden woolen mill.

BLANEY, L. H., Zanesville, brakeman.

BARTLES, —, Albion, Mich.

EMERSON, Mrs. B. A., Zanesville, and her two children.

HARRIS, Max, Lodi, Ohio, traveling salesman.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN.

Just before he died Harris asked if he had any chance for life. When told there was no hope he asked his attendants to send word to Julia Rodman of Paola, Kan., to whom he was engaged. Harris and Bartles died in an hour of each other in a hospital. They were chums. Both wore Sigma Chi fraternity pins.

Mrs. Emerson was found with her head jammed through a window. Her children were dead beside her.

A Cincinnati & Muskingum Valley passenger train was following a Cleveland, Akron & Columbus division passenger on the single track between Trinway and Zanesville. The engine of the latter train broke down and a guard was sent to flag the Cincinnati & Muskingum Valley passenger, but that train was too close. The engine plunged through the rear car of the Cleveland train and wrecked it. The dead and injured were in that car. Several passengers escaped by jumping. The eral passengers escaped by jumping. Those who were injured fatally were

Those fatally hurt were:

ALTROCK, GUY, 30, Bremen; both hands scalded.

BINSEL, GEORGE, 35, Killbuck, Ohio, railway mail clerk; face cut.

BURY, JACOB, 57 years old, Zanesville; head and face scalded and badly bruised.

BRYANT, JAMES, 45 years old, Lancaster, engineer; severe cuts and scalded.

RUDRICK, WILLIAM, 40 years old, Janesville; bridge carpenter; head and face scalded.

UNKNOWN MAN; severely scalded.

Victims less seriously hurt were:

SAUP, FRANK, 32, Lancaster, express messenger; cut and bruised.

The accident to the forward engine was caused by a plug blowing out. When the other engine crashed into the rear car a few of the passengers jumped from windows. The others in the car had no chance to escape. Balbian was found on top of the engine boiler. The others were thrown in all directions.

Paul Jones, Superintendent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, made a statement in which he said the forward train was stopped by one of the air pipes breaking in the car and automatically applying the air brakes.

A letter on the body of the unidentified man contained the names of F. M. Sears and O. N. Rittenhouse. It seemed to have been written to the American Agricultural Chemical Company in Cleveland. In it the writer said he would be in a lawsuit next Saturday, his first case.

MAYOR BOYLE DEFEATED.

Newport Executive Loses to a Young Lawyer—Massachusetts Elections.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, Dec. 3.—William MacLeod, 30 years old, a lawyer, defeated Mayor Patrick J. Boyle by a plurality of 433 today in the liveliest campaign Newport has held in years. The appropriations for two playgrounds and improvements to Newport's public beach were both carried.

Mr. Boyle has held the office of Mayor in all fourteen years. He has been defeated twice.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—No upsets in the license vote occurred in the fourteen Massachusetts cities which held elections to-day, according to early returns. In all these except Taunton Mayors were elected, one of the principal fights being in New Bedford, where Charles S. Ashley was reelected for his sixteenth term.

In cities where National party lines prevailed six Republicans were successful and two Democrats. Progressives entered the fight in three of the cities, Pittsfield, Quincy and Waltham, but met with no success except in Quincy, where they elected two Councilmen at Large.

Mayor Edward H. Lathrop (Democrat) of Springfield, who sought a re-election for a third term, lost to his Republican opponent, John A. Denison.

THE ONLY REAL GOVERNOR.

Gilchrist of Florida Not Ruled by His Wife—He Hasn't One.

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 3.—Gov. Gilchrist of Florida is the only "real Governor" in the Union. He said so himself to-day.

"If there is any man here who is the real Governor of his State, whose wife does not rule instead of him," said Mayor Ainslie of Richmond, in welcoming delegates to the Governor's conference in session here, "I call on him to stand up and be counted."

Gov. Gilchrist, amid cheers and laughter, arose and was counted—alone. He is unmarried.

BIG VOTE FOR FREE LUNCH.

Los Angeles Defeats Ordinance—Commission Government Loses.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—Early returns from to-day's election indicate that the proposed new charter, providing a commission form of government for the City of Los Angeles, was defeated by a vote of two to one or more. In the first hundred precincts to report, not one cast a majority in favor of the charter.

The anti-free lunch ordinance, designed to banish free lunch from saloons, was defeated by a heavy vote.

MILLIONS FOR THIS PITCHER.

Rockefeller's Grandson Takes Lessons from Mordecai Brown.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Fowler McCormick, 15 years old, son of Harold F. McCormick and grandson of John D. Rockefeller, took up a course in baseball pitching to-day under the tutelage of Mordecai Brown, formerly star pitcher of the Chicago National League Club. The boy, who some day probably will rank with the world's wealthiest men, is being trained for pitching in Princeton University. His father is a graduate of Princeton, and it is his ambition to watch his son strike out the batsmen of Yale and Harvard, for Fowler McCormick is to enter the university as soon as he is prepared.

Brown will give his pupil two lessons each week, and when Spring comes Fowler will try for a pitching berth on the team of the preparatory school he now attends.

TAFT DODGES AN ANTHEM.

Will Pass Brooklyn Man's National Air on to Wilson.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Kurt P. Hirzorn, one of the constituents of Representative John J. Fitzgerald of Brooklyn, has written a new National anthem, "O Glorious Land of Liberty." He asked Mr. Fitzgerald to persuade President Taft to issue an executive order giving National approval to it, directing its use in the public schools and by Federal military bands. Mr. Fitzgerald handed the words and music to the President to-day.

"My constituent would like to have you indorse this as the new National anthem," suggested Mr. Fitzgerald.

"There are some matters I will be unable to act upon before the end of my Administration, and this anthem may be one of the things that I shall have to pass up to my successor," said the President.

KNOX GOING BACK TO LAW.

Friends Hear Secretary Will Resume Practice in Pittsburgh.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 3.—Friends of Philander Chase Knox, Secretary of State, heard to-day that he is preparing to return here to resume the practice of law. That the Knox family intended coming back to Pittsburgh after President Taft's term expired was forecast several weeks ago, when Alexander P. Moore and his wife, Lillian Russell, sought to buy the Knox mansion, at Ellsworth and Amberson Avenues, now occupied under lease by the family of Alvan C. Dinkey, President of the Carnegie Steel Company.

Hugh Knox, son of the Secretary, has engaged an apartment in the Hotel Schenley, where Secretary Knox has maintained his voting residence. A report is that Secretary Knox will become a partner of Willis F. McCook, an uncle of Hugh Knox's wife and the principal counsel to Henry C. Frick in this city.

SOCIAL CREED FOR CHURCH.

Commission Presents Its Views to Federal Council in Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—The Commission on Church and Social Service presented its report through the Rev. Frank Mason North to-day at the opening meeting of the Quadrennial Conference of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. It included a new "social creed" for the churches. Some articles in this creed are:

Protection of the family by the single standard of purity, uniform divorce laws, proper regulation of marriage, and proper housing.

The fullest possible development for every child, especially by the provision of proper education and recreation.

The abolition of child labor.

Such regulation of the conditions of toil for women as shall safeguard the physical and moral health of the community.

The abatement and prevention of poverty.

The protection of the individual and society from the social, economic, and moral waste of the liquor traffic.

The protection of the worker from dangerous machinery, occupational diseases, and mortality.

Suitable provision for the old age of the workers and for those incapacitated by injury.

Release from employment one day in seven.

The gradual and reasonable reduction of the hours of labor to the lowest practicable point, and that degree of leisure for all which is a condition of the highest human life.

A living wage as a minimum in every industry, and the highest wage that each industry can afford.

20,000 BURGLARIES A YEAR.

Gangs Operate in New York Undisturbed by Police, Says Frank Moss.

Speaking at the dinner of the Eastern Medical Society at the Hotel Astor last night, before 350 physicians active in the eastern half of the city, Assistant District Attorney Frank Moss declared that a recent Grand Jury investigation conducted by him disclosed that there was an average of 20,000 burglaries committed in New York City each year, not counting grand larcenies, robberies and other crimes. The city, he declared, was infested with gangs of boys utterly unrestrained by the bluecoated police and untouched by the detective department. These boys, he said, taking lessons from those who were making money easily without considering how they made it, drifted from petty to larger crimes and held back finally not even from murder.

"I spoke confidentially to an old Police Captain some time ago," said Mr. Moss, "and asked him what sort of Police Commissioner the police themselves would like to have.

"'We would like to have a real good citizen,' he replied, 'who doesn't know that he's alive—a man so honorable, so notoriously honorable, that nobody would suspect him of being able to do anything wrong; and then we other people could do our business unsuspected all we liked. Everybody in New York works his job—even the minister. The money may be dirty, but we fumigate it.'

"It is as the result of such conditions," added Mr. Moss, "that we find young boys of certain sections proudly announcing themselves as the 'Young Toughs' or the 'Young Crooks.' That has come to be their ideal."

COUNTY VOTE REPORTED.

Wilson Got 166,157, Roosevelt 98,985, Taft 63,107.

According to the report of the New York County Board of Canvassers on the result of the recent election, completed yesterday, Gov. Wilson's Electors received more votes in Manhattan and the Bronx than did the Electors of Col. Roosevelt and President Taft combined. Gov. Wilson's vote was 166,157, against 98,985 for Col. Roosevelt, a plurality of 67,172. President Taft's Electors received a total vote of 63,107. Debs's Electors received 18,124, while the Prohibition candidate received 352. The Socialist-Labor vote for President was 930.

For Governor, Congressman Sulzer received 159,699 votes, against 112,010 for Oscar S. Straus and 49,681 for Job E. Hedges. Russell, the Socialist candidate, received 14,193 votes.

Government Paper Says the Country Is Willing to Accept the Decision of the Powers.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Dec. 4.—Telegrams from Constantinople state that the armistice agreement was signed last night by the Turkish plenipotentiaries and by the representatives of Bulgaria, Servia, and Montenegro. Greece has not agreed to the armistice. The split between Greece and the Balkan States, therefore, seems to be complete.

The terms on which the armistice was granted have not been announced officially, but there is no reason to doubt the accuracy of dispatches from Constantinople and Sofia giving an outline of them. The Greek objections to the terms which Bulgaria was willing to concede to Turkey were even more plainly formulated yesterday than on Monday.

Bulgaria apparently granted the following terms:

1. The suspension of hostilities until peace negotiations are concluded.
2. The right to revictual Adrianople, Scutari, Yanina, and all the Turkish detachments which have been cut off by the allies.
3. The removal of the naval blockades in the Aegean and the Adriatic.

Greece refused to consent to the second and third conditions. The Greek view is that under such terms Turkey would be free to throw an unlimited quantity of supplies into Yanina, which town is now besieged by Greek troops, and to import ammunition, arms, coal, and food freely by sea. If the Turkish Government finally decided to renew the war, all the work which the Greeks have accomplished would have to be done over again, and Yanina might be able to hold out for an indefinite period.

The Greek Government draws attention to the services which its fleet has rendered. There is no doubt that, as it is maintained, these services have been immense. Without the Greek fleet the Bulgarians would have been exposed to the risk of a flank attack by Turkish troops from Asia Minor landing at Dedeagatch. Moreover, before the war Greece refused an offer of large territorial concessions by Turkey.

League Due to Venezelos.

Also it is generally understood that the Balkan League had its inception in the mind of the Greek statesman Venizelos, and Greece consequently feels that her voice should be heard now.

According to Sofia dispatches, Bulgaria is inclined to disregard the Greek objections and conclude peace on her own account. Such action is considered likely to make for the relief of the European tension, as a split in the Balkan Federation would leave Servia without the support of at least one of her present allies, and would consequently induce her to present a less intransigeant attitude toward Austria.

European nervousness as to the general situation is far from dissipated. No new fact of importance, however, has developed to alter the view that, with none of the great powers wanting war, it will be possible to avert it.

LONDON, Wednesday, Dec. 4.—A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph from Vienna says that official quarters there have received information that the dissensions between the Greeks and Bulgars have become serious.

Two hundred and fifty Greeks, it is added, were killed when 3,000 of their troops attempted forcibly to occupy the town of Seres, which was already occupied by the Bulgarians.

Peace Negotiations Soon.

The Times prints the following dispatch from Sofia:

"The armistice protocol contains a clause providing that the peace negotiations shall begin within seven days, but it seems doubtful whether this will be found practicable.

"It is understood that Bulgaria has abandoned her demand for railway communication through Adrianople, as, owing to the large quantity of rolling stock captured on the Dedeagatch line, there will be no further difficulty in supplying provisions to Tchatalja.

"The construction of the proposed loop, avoiding Adrianople, has been abondoned owing to inundations, and instead a road has been completed west of Adrianople to Demotica, which greatly facilitates transport.

"It is understood that Bulgaria no longer insists on the removal of the Black Sea blockade."

A Constantipole dispatch to The Times says a report is current there that certain of the powers advised Bulgaria to sign the armistice without the Greeks on condition that the campaign, if continued by Greece, should be localized in Epirus.

Discussing the question of Greek discontent, the Sofia correspondent of The Morning Post expresses the belief that the Greeks favor an autonomous Macedonia and Thrace, because in the conquered territory, while the rural population is predominantly Bulgarian, in the towns, especially near the coast, the Greeks are stronger, and the latter are carrying on a quiet but persistent agitation against Bulgarian rule in Macedonia.

"It seems likely," says the correspondent, "that just as Bulgaria had planned for herself the brunt of the war and the chief share in the fruits of victory, she must now face the chief share of the disappointment, inasmuch as the concessions Turkey may obtain for her defense of Adrianople and Tchatalja will mostly be at the expense of the Bulgarians."

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 3., (10:40 P. M.)—It is officially announced that an armistice has been signed between Turkey on the one side and Bulgaria, Servia, and Montenegro on the other side.

The plenipotentiaries met at Baghtche, on the Tchatalja lines, at 11 o'clock this morning. The allies made fresh proposals regarding the armistice, which were transmitted to Constantinople. The Council of Ministers sat until 7 o'clock in the evening considering them. The Porte tonight sent fresh instructions to the Turkish delegates.

Another conference of the plenipotentiaries was held in the evening after the receipt of the instructions from the Porte. At the conclusion of this conference the armistice protocol was signed.

The fact that Greece is not among the signatories is interpreted as meaning that hostilities will be continued between that State and Turkey, and there is considerable speculation as to what will become of the alliance agreement between the Balkan States.

It is understood that the Greeks demanded not only the capitulation of Yanina, but the surrender of the Turkish troops in Chios and Mytilene.

A dispatch from a Turkish official says that fighting continued on Sunday and Monday at Chios between the Turks and the Greeks.

A telegram sent from Adrianople to-day says there was an exchange of rifle fire last night and a slight bombardment at midnight. At the hour of telegraphing the artillery fire was still in progress on the south front, but was of no great strength. The telegram concludes:

"We will, with the help of the Almighty, persevere in defending the fortress to the end."

It has not been determined when and where the peace negotiations will begin.

Will Let Greece Fight Alone.

SOFIA, Dec. 3.—It is stated here that, Greece not being a party to the armistice, she will be left to continue the war alone against Turkey if she so desires.

It is asserted that the representatives of the allied Balkan nations have acceded to the request of the Turks that the peace negotiations take place in London.

King Ferdinand at Kirk-Kilisseh on Dec. 1 received Gen. Vaver Pasha, the commander of the Turkish column which was captured near Dedeagatch. The King returned his sword to Vaver Pasha and told him that he could reside where he chose in Bulgaria. The Turkish commander chose Sofia.

ATHENS, Dec. 3.—Surprise and annoyance are expressed by the Greek newspapers at what they term the "complaisance shown by Bulgaria in accepting Turkish proposals which are so advantageous to the Ottoman Empire."

It is contended by many writers that the complete and definite liberation of the Christians in the Near East is only obtainable by combined land and sea action of the allies against Constantinople.

It is now known that Greece from the first considered that the allies ought to reject Turkey's counter-propositions regarding the armistice and continue their combined operations in Thrace. Greece contended that, if Turkey desired to conclude peace, it could be done without an armistice.

Moreover, it is pointed out that by continuing the war the allies could have obtained better terms. Military circles here are of the opinion that, since Turkey declined to accept the conditions first proposed, it would have been better to have thrown into Thrace all the forces at the disposal of the allies and to continue the war.

VIENNA, Dec. 3.—The Neue Freie Presse asserts that the Greek Premier, M. Venizelos, has intimated to the Russian Minister at Athens that Greece would rather withdraw her navy from the Aegean Sea and conclude peace separately with Turkey on the basis of the cession of Crete to Greece than recognize the Bulgarian occupation of Greco-Macedonian districts.

Turkish Ministers' Long Meeting.

LONDON, Wednesday, Dec. 4.—Prior to the signature of the protocol arranging an armistice by the Turkish and Bulgarian delegates, the latter representing also Servia and Montenegro, there had been a long sitting of the Turkish Council of Ministers to consider fresh proposals submitted by the allies.

The refusel of Greece to sign the armistice is susceptible of different interpretations. In the first place, as a tacit armistice has been in existence for more than a week already, it is not impossible that the negotiations may have served to bring about an agreement on the general principles of peace terms, such as would promise the speedy arrangement of a peace treaty when the conference meets, as is now expected, in London. In this case the fact that Greece is standing out from the armistice protocol would not be of great importance.

In the second place, the Greek abstention may mean a serious split among the allies, arising from jealousies concerning the possession of Salonika and the insistence of the Greeks on the capitulation of Adrianople, Scutari, and Yanina.

Other points which may influence the situation are to be found in the fact that Turkey recently sought to conclude a separate treaty of peace with Greece, that Bulgaria apparently is not unwilling to enter into an alliance with Turkey, and that the allies are desirous that Turkey shall enter the Balkan Custom League.

There is a rumor in Sofia that a suggestion has been made to substitute Rumania for Greece in the Balkan League. It seems clear that Bulgaria will ignore the Greek offer to land an army in the Gallipoli peninsula and to send her fleet to attack the Dardanelles, and that the relations between Greece and Bulgaria are greatly strained, and these signs of dissension among the allies leave the situation full of dangerous possibilities.

It is reported that France is trying to persuade Greece to adopt a less unyielding attitude. It is understood that financial pressure and the exhaustion of their forces had much to do with the willingness of Bulgaria and Servia to conclude peace, and, in this respect, Greece, which gained her victories with less expense, is beter able to continue hostilities.

The Armistice Terms.

The terms of the armistice between the Turkish and Bulgarian armies as accepted by Bulgaria provide that the truce shall continue during the whole period of the peace negotiations.

Turkey is to have the right of revictualing all her besieged fortresses and all the detached bodies of Ottoman troops remaining in Macedonia and elsewhere, as well as the Turkish populations in the various parts of the theatre of war.

Turkey is to have the right of revictualing her fortresses, troops, and population by way of the Adriatic and Ionian Seas, in addition to the ordinary available routes. The allied Balkan Nations are to furnish safe conduct for the revictualing parties, and the Ottoman convoys are to be permitted to pass, if necessary, through the forces of the allies.

The blockade of the Aegean and Adriatic coasts of European Turkey is to be raised.

The terms are generally regarded as generous, but in view of the great difficulty which Turkey necessarily will find in revictualing her scattered forces their practical effect probably will not be very important.

The fact that the negotiations for the armistice were regarded as an integral part of the peace negotiations also helped Turkey to obtain more favorable terms than would have been granted under other circumstances.

Adrianople was the obstacle which threatened to wreck the parleys between the plenipotentiaries of Turkey and of the allies when they opened, and Adrianople appeared again at the end of the negotiations as the most serious hindrance to the attainment of an agreement. At the first session of the delegates the Turks absolutely refused to consider the surrender of Adrianople, and when the Bulgarians subsequently yielded to them on this point the Greek delegates held back.

The firm attitude of Turkey on the subject of Adrianople throughout the negotiations is shown in a telegram from the Sultan to King Ferdinand, to the effect that, while he (the Sultan) is prompted by the most peaceful motives, he is unable to renounce Turkey's hold on Adrianople, which all Ottomans consider as a Mohammedan sanctuary.

The bitterness of feeling between Greece and Bulgaria was reflected yesterday at the Greek Legation in London. The Minister declared that the action of the Greek fleet was "the one decisive factor of the whole war," adding: "Without the presence of our ships, Turkey would have been able to bring her best troops from Asia Minor, land them at Dedeagatch, and flank the Bulgarian armies, thus rendering their magnificent victory quite impossible."

HEROIC BULGAR WOMEN.

Despite Relatives They Have Lost They Cheer Departing Recruits.

By FREDERICK PALMER.

SOFIA, Dec. 3.—On returning here from Mustapha-Pasha I met many men wounded in early engagements who were returning to the front, thanks to quick recovery from the slight punctures inflicted by the Turkish Mauser bullets.

Even the privates understand that limiting the Turkish frontier to the narrow Tchatalja lines means a smaller army and less expense in holding the frontier, and therefore more money for economic development and permanent peace. They want, in good American language, to finish the job while at it.

At each station more women were waiting for the trains than before. Despite the relatives they have lost they were cheering the departure of the latest contingents—youths of 19 and 20, who were departing with flowers in their caps.

ADRIANOPLE TO SURRENDER?

Report That Commander Has Offered to Discuss Terms.

LONDON, Wednesday, Dec. 4.—A Sofia dispatch to the Exchange Telegram Company says that the Turkish commander at Adrianople has asked for the presence of Bulgarian delegates in order to discuss terms for the capitulation of the beleaguered town.

MONTENEGRINS ROUT TURKS.

Sortie of the Scutari Garrison Results in a Disastrous Defeat.

GRUDA, (Montengrin Headquarters,) Dec. 3.—The Turkish garrison at Scutari made a sortie against the Montenegrin left flank yesterday afternoon. The action spread rapidly all along the line and gradually developed into a pitched battle, which lasted until 5 o'clock this morning in spite of a great downpour of rain.

Although the Turks showed much gallantry, it was an unfortunate moment for them when they left the cover of their entrenchments. The Montenegrins held their fire at first, and then opened on their foes with rifles, artillery, and machine guns, decimating the ranks of the Turks.

The artillery on both sides was in action all night. The flashes of the guns were clearly visible in th darkness. Over a field telephone the General in command gave orders to the Montenegrin artillery to direct their fire on the town. The shells did great damage. Flames could be observed in several places, while the people rushed about in a panic.

When dawn broke, masses of dead could be seen at the most advanced points reached by the Turks before they retired. The Montenegrin losses were inconsiderable.

The operations against Scutari will be suspended by the signing of the armistice.

SERVIA GIVING WAY.

It Is Now Stated That She Will Accept the Powers' Decision.

BELGRADE, Dec. 3.—The Government organ Pravda prints a very conciliatory article denying that Servia insists upon a section through Albanian territory to an Adriatic port. It concludes:

"Although convinced that Europe's decision to grant Albania autonomy is contrary to Servian interests, Servia, trusting in the powers' good will, expects from them the same consideration that they extended to Austria-Hungary with respect to Bosnia and Herzegovina at the time of the Berlin Treaty.

"Servia is willing to accept the powers' decision or to refer the question to The Hague."

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—Crown Prince Ferdinand of Rumania, accompanied by Gen. Albert Robesco of the Rumanian Army, arrived here unexpectedly this morning. The Prince was the guest of Emperor William at luncheon, and in the course of to-day and to-morrow will confer with Herr von Kiderlen-Wächter, Imperial Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and other statesmen.

No announcement regarding the meaning of Prince Ferdinand's visit has been made, but the press generally asserts that it would not be wrong to consider it as a link in the recent demonstrative chain of visits of courtesy which, like the trip of Field Marshal Baron Conrad von Hoetzendorf, the Inspector General of the Austrian Army, to Bucharest, are intended to indicate to the outside world the solidarity of the triple alliance with Rumania.

The conference of Ambasssadors of the great powers, proposed by Premier Asquith for the purpose of discussing a solution of the Balkan problem, will, if arranged, be held in London.

Prince Henry of Prussia's coming visit to London is, according to the German Foreign Office, entirely without political significance.

VIENNA, Dec. 3.—A Neue Freie Presse dispatch from Constantinople says that the Russian Ambassador has informed the Grand Vizier that Russia could not recognize the independence of Albania.

At most, he said, Russia would agree to the establishment of an antonomous province under the guarantee of all the great powers.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 3.—The authorities at Yanina report that the Albanians there contemplate proclaiming independence.

Instruction is requested as to the action to be taken by the Turks should this intention be carried out.

GENEVA, Dec. 3.—Even Switzerland appears to be preparing for the eventuality of war.

The Federal Government is filling the various military storehouses with wheat and corn ordered from the United States and Canada. A large quantity, consisting of 572 carloads, is on the way to Zurich from Rotterdam, while other cargoes ordered by the Swiss Government are still afloat.

The hostilities in the Balkans have had the effect of greatly reducing Russian shipments of grain.

LONDON, Wednesday, Dec. 4.—The Vienna correspondent of The Daily Chronicle asserts that there are dissensions between Servia and Montenegro.

RUSSIAN LOAN TO BULGARIA.

Bankers Advance $5,000,000 and Are Ready to Lend More.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 3.—According to the Novoe Vremya, three Russian banks have advanced Bulgaria $5,000,000 on easy terms, and have consented to subscribe to part of a loan of $8,000,000 which is being negotiated in Paris.

SPUGS OF SOCIETY MEET GIRL WORKERS

All Sing Mrs. Bacon's Spug Battle Hymn and See Laura Jean Libbey in the Flesh.

"OKLAHOMA KATE" ADVISES

And Then Mrs. John Hays Hammond and Tim Healy Lead the Grand March to the Ice Cream.

Spug Day was celebrated last night with a jolly feminine round-up in the big auditorium on the eleventh floor of the Metropolitan Building, where several score society matrons beamed benevolence on more than 1,000 working girls, while the Consolidated Gas Company's band discoursed music free of charge.

"But don't call them 'working girls,'" warned Miss Robinson, general executive secretary of about everything in sight and stage manager of the Spug show. "They are self-respecting, self-supporting women. Oh, you mustn't quote me as saying so!"

At first it was difficult to single out the working girls. They were all as well dressed as their patronesses. In fact, all sister Spugs, patrons, and patroned looked alike to the reportorial eye. For the benefit of those who still think that the trem Spugs is the name for some strange new bug, it must be explained that the letters stand for the Society for the Prevention of Useless Giving, organized only three weeks ago at the suggestion of Miss Robinson by Mrs. August Belmont, its first President, who, however, was unable to be present last night. The anti-useless givers already number more than 1,000 divided into 82 camps in most of the principal department stores and factories of New York, Brooklyn, and Jersey City.

At 8:30 o'clock, when the gas tank band had breezed its way through the overture, Mrs. Josephine Dodge Daskam Bacon, Chairman of the meeting in place of Mrs. Belmont, rose and showed considerable athletic ability by climbing from a chair to a table and thence to to the platform, where, amid cheers, she introduced the guest of honor, Mrs. John Hays Hammond.

Mrs. Hammond's Speech.

"It gives me great pleasure," Mrs. Hammond began, in low-pitched tone. There were cries of "Louder! Louder!" from the audience. "I repeat, it gives me great pleaseure," Mrs. Hammond began again. "Louder!" "Louder!" insisted the auditors. "Mercy, I'll have to have a megaphone, one of those things the cheer leaders use at football games," Mrs. Hammond observed. "I repeat, it gives me great pleasure—" More cries of "Louder!"

Mrs. Hammond hesitated. "I shall have to adjust my glasses. Perhaps that's what's the matter. I repeat, it gives me great pleasure to be here. I am not going to make a set speech, but speak to you as one friend to another. You girls know your own side of the counter; but have you ever considered the strain and fatigue of the woman on the buying side of the counter? She goes from a home where there often has been domestic perplexity to shop, and your courtesy has often made her life brighter. None of us will see the beginning of the next century. This little span is ours; let us learn to know and understand, to make it beautiful. A perfunctory gift is not only unwise, but positively immoral," Mrs. Hammond concluded and sat down.

Then the audience sang the Spug war hymn, committed by Josephine Dodge Daskam Bacon, to the tune of "In the Shadows," as follows:

Remember
This December,
That love weighs more than gold!
Help us spread the news to young and old,
Friendship bought and sold,
Leaves the giver cold.
The right gift
Is the bright gift,
The kind thought and cheer;
Send your loving heart,
That's the greatest part,
So will Christmas crown all the year!

Laura Jean Libbey Offers Advice.

George Barr Baker, editor of The Delineator, then took the chair, and introduced Miss Laura Jean Libbey, the recognized friend of the love-lorn working girl, whose heart bleeds in print at big rates.

Miss Libbey, a symphony of white and auburn, was magnificent in a large white lingerie hat plumed with bird of paradise feathers, also a lingerie dress through which pink ribbon bows peeked coquettishly; also two pink satin chrysanthemums at her corsage. She said in part:

"My dear friends, you don't know how pleased I am to greet you. Although our hands have never clasped, our hearts have often touched. I love those who struggle for a livelihood. I know all your sorrows and tribulations, and how little the lamp of hope glows in your bosoms. I wonder how many regret that Christmas is a day of giving? Do not forget, dears, that there is such a thing as being too good a fellow. Give to those you love best if you can afford it; otherwise give a kiss to your mother, fat father, brothers, and sisters. I wish you all the merriest Christmas you have ever known."

Afterward Miss Libby gave the following exclusive message to the American working girl through THE TIMES reporter:

"Say all the nice things you can think of, and say that I said them."

Miss Kate Barnard, the idol of the Southwest, fondly known as Oklahoma Kate, was then introduced by Herbert Kaufman, who, incidentally, is the author of that little classic, "Spug, You Workers, Spug!" a printed page of epigrams, of which the following may serve as a specimen:

"No full-grown, real able-bodied male man would stultify himself by accepting a fear-inspired present from a girl in your position, and any floorwalker or buyer or foreman who'd resent your self-defense, your self-respect, and your courage is such an awful piece of pulp that his good-will and promises aren't worth a curl paper." These epigrams being heavily sprinkled with italics.

Oklahoma Kate's Address.

"The rotting nations drop from off Thy bough; only the things that dreamers dream live on," began Oklahoma Kate, and then proceeded to pitch into the present social order.

"Women are getting tired of using their pretty faces and pretty curls and pretty clothes to get men to look at them instead of at Mrs. Green or Mrs. Brown. It's a thirty-cent game. One look from the eyes of a starving child is worth several thousand men's eyes. When I heard that Anne Morgan had remonstrated with a policeman during the recent shirtwaist strike I was proud of that girl."

Miss Morgan's face was a study as she heard herself described as "that girl."

"Skyscrapers never made a great nation, nor elegant street cars, either," Oklahoma Kate added, referring to New York, and then concluded with a plea for an anti-marriage strike on the part of all single working girls until a universal eight-hour labor law should be passed.

While Miss Barnard was setting the social order to rights, Miss Morgan kindly explained to THE TIMES reporter the exact object of the "Spugs."

"We believe that the group can accomplish what the individual cannot. We do not interfere with friendly giving, but only try to do away with the graft to which the girls are exposed." Miss Morgan made it clear that useless giving did not include hand-painted silk sachet bags for Father, nor tomato-shaped red flannel pin cushions for Brother, "nor any other gifts that come from the heart."

After the speaking was over the hall was cleared of chairs, and while several hundred new members signed up and received the holly wreath Spug emblem in return for 10 cents in dues the grand march began, led by "Tim" Healy of the Fourteenth Assembly District and Mrs. John Hays Hammond.

"Come, Mr. Healy, and help me off the stage," Mrs. Hammond, marooned aloft, called out, and Mr. Healy did the honors amid cheers.

Among others who marched, in addition to the speakers, were Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Miss Laura Jean Libbey's sister, Miss Wettmore of Washington, Miss Maud Reeves Baldwin, several sheepish-looking young society blades, and W. G. Hoyt, the possessor of the only high silk hat and dress suit. After the grand march there was dancing and ice cream eating.

Wanda and Anna Roe, two typical Spug girls, said of the evening's doing:

"Oh, it's just grand. I think it's just beautiful," and that echoed the sentiments of all the others.

SNEED ACQUITTED OF MURDER

Spectacular Demonstration in Court When Jury Announces Its Verdict.

FORT WORTH, Texts, Dec. 3.—John Beal Sneed was found not guilty of the murder of Capt. A. G. Boyce.

Sneed shot Capt. Boyce on Jan. 13 in Fort Worth, soon after Sneed had returned from Winnipeg, Canada, with his wife, with whom A. G. Boyce, Jr., son of Capt. Boyce, had eloped.

Sneed claimed self-defense, and also a conspiracy on the part of the Boyces to rob him of his wife.

Boyce, Jr., was killed by Sneed in Amarillo on Sept. 14 last. Sneed will be tried on this charge in February at Vernon.

The families involved in the two tragedies are wealthy, and have had prominent parts in the upbuilding of Texas. After the elopement Sneed spent $20,000 in a chase across the continent to find his wife.

Sneed's first trial on the charge of killing Capt. Boyce resulted in a disagreement.

The demonstration by Sneed and his attorneys over the verdict was spectacular. Walter Scott and W. P. McLean, the defense lawyers, were fined for throwing their hats over the chandeliers in the courtroom.

Sneed emitted a cowboy yell, but the court refused to censure him or to fine him.

Mrs. Sneed awaited the verdict in a downtown hotel, where Sneed telephoned the news to her.

Sneed's relatives denied that Mrs. Sneed had been closely guarded in her hotel. "She has been free to come and go as she wished," they said. "She is happy over the verdict, and she loves her husband and her children."

BRIDE OF DAY KILLS WOMAN.

Called Ugly by Wedding Guest, She Says—Glad She Did It.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Dec. 3.—Elizabeth Lang, a bride of one day, to-night shot and killed Mrs. Mary Copple, who at the wedding supper last night, was alleged to have told other guests that the bridegroom had chosen an ugly and worthless woman for a life partner. Mrs. Lang was arrested shortly after the shooting. The police reported she made a full confession and expressed pleasure that she had stopped slanderous remarks. In her confession, as reported by the police, Mrs. Lang said:

"Yes, I shot Mrs. Copple. I shot her down as her two little children stood beside her, holding to her skirts. I killed her because she said that no man ought to marry me, and that my husband would repent.

"She said I was ugly. She said I was old. I killed her for that, and I am not a bit sorry for it. She was jealous of me and would have made my life unhappy."

The shooting followed a talk between Mrs. Lang and a woman friend, also a wedding guest, who had repeated the alleged remark of Mrs. Copple. Mrs. Lang went to the home of her father, told him the story of the killing, and telephoned for the police.

JUDGE HEARS ENOUGH HAWTHORNE LETTERS

Court Halts Procession of Witnesses by Declaring Prima Facie Case Made Out.

MINE AN ABANDONED HOLE

Henderson, Visiting Temagami, Found All the Machinery Shipped or Packed Up.

The procession of witnesses called by the Government to prove that they had received the most glowing letters about the Hawthorne mines and had been induced by them to invest in the worthless mines at Temagami, Canada, continued yesterday at the trial of Julian Hawthorne, Albert Freeman, Josiah Quincy, and Dr. W. J. Morton before Judge Hough in the Federal District Court on the charge of having used the mails to defraud. Each witness brought up with him a bundle of letters, which were placed in evidence, and at length the court declared that enough testimony had been adduced on this line to make out a prima facie case.

Col. Samuel E. Tillman, who had been Professor of Mathematics at West Point till his retirement from the army in 1908 was recalled in the morning and his cross examination by Thomas W. Proctor for the defense was continued. It appeared that counsel was endeavoring to show that the Colonel's correspondence with the Hawthorne associates did not betray that resentment and dissatisfaction with his bargain to which he had testified on Monday.

In one of these letters Col. Tillman asked that 4,000 shares of Temagami-Cobalt be reserved for him for a few days till he could get some ready money, and in reply Mr. Hawthorne wrote that he was sorry the Colonel could not go at once to the Diabase Peninsula to inspect the Temagami properties. These letters were interchanged in September, 1908, and in the December following Col. Tillman subscribed for an additional 500 shares of Temagami.

"Didn't Mr. Freeman tell you at this time," asked Mr. Proctor, "that Temagami had bought a controlling interest in the Elk Lake-Cobalt Company?"

"I got some Elk Lake literature before this time," said the witness, "and I talked with Mr. Freeman about it. He advised me that Temagami-Cobalt would be the most valuable of the properties, and because of this advice I subscribed for the additional 500 shares."

Col. Tillman was absolutely sure that Mr. Freeman had not shown him all the contracts and records in his office, but admitted that he might have asked for them because, he said, he wished to interest others.

"My wife," said the Colonel, "bought stock, too, and I may have told them I wanted more information."

"How long were you at Temagami?" asked Mr. Proctor.

"From Saturday to Monday morning."

"Was it a successful trip?"

"It was a very successful trip," replied the Colonel with a note of sarcasm in his voice.

The last of the letters read was dated Dec. 14, 1909, and in that the Colonel said: "I ask that my name be not included in your proposed advisory committee. I have a high appreciation of the compliment paid me in asking me to serve, and regret that I cannot see my way clear to accept membership."

The Colonel was recalled after luncheon by the Government to show that in addition to the friendly letters he had written were others of an inquiring nature to which reassuring replies were sent. He was informed that at Temagami in addition to the big strikes were "scores of minor veins packed with silver," and in explanation of the purchase of the control of Elk Lake-Cobalt by the Temagami-Cobalt Company it was stated that Freeman, a mining man, who has spent half a lifetime in Western Mexico, had obtained 160 acres at Elk Lake, and in order to keep him with Temagami it was decided to buy his Elk Lake holdings.

John H. Henderson was recalled and, in spite of the objections of the defense, was permitted to tell of a visit to Temagami in June, 1911. He found that the work had stopped and that all the machinery was being packed up or already in shipment.

"What did you see in the way of mines or mining?" asked Mr. Thompson.

"Nothing but a hole in the ground," answered the witness.

Frank M. Clarkson of Milwaukee, custodian of the safe deposit vaults of the Wisconsin Trust Company, stated on cross-examination that he had received 5,000 shares of the Hawthorne Silver and Iron Mines Company in consideration of his holding a similar amount in the Temagami-Cobalt Company.

When Miss Elma B. Martin, a nurse, was called to give much the same testimony as the former witnesses, Judge Hough said:

"It seems to me unnecessary to put in further evidence in this line. That several persons were induced to part with real money for Temagami-Cobalt Mines Co., Ltd., stock seems to be to have been sufficiently established to make out a prima facie case."

Are You a Homely Man?

¶ No man ever is, of course.

¶ All men are either good looking or they have character.

¶ Still, if you happen to be homely we congratulate you.

¶ One of the homeliest women in the world today is the most stylish.

¶ There is a fascination about her clothes which more than atones for Nature's neglect in her person.

¶ And we happened across a man the other day who has "a face to dream about and to try to carve on a pipehead afterwards."

¶ He is homelier than there is any excuse for, yet our chief recollection of him at this writing is the cut and style of his clothes.

¶ We mention this merely to show that a man of discretion may thrive on his defects.

¶ If you underestimate the importance of good clothes you do yourself an injustice—and if you underestimate the importance of Saks clothes you do injustice to both yourself and us.

ARCHBALD ON TRIAL BEFORE THE SENATE

Proceedings Against Commerce Court Judge Apparently Will Centre in Katydid Case.

FORCED INTO DEAL, IS PLEA

Accused Jurist's Counsel Explains Alleged Vacation Fund—Defendant's Son Hears Him Assailed Bitterly.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—For the ninth time since the foundation of the Government, the United States Senate, sitting as a high court of impeachment, began formal ouster proceedings to-day against an officer of the United States. In a speech that lasted two hours Representative Henry D. Clayton, Chairman of the Managers on the part of the House, set forth and explained the thirteen articles of impeachment against Robert W. Archbald, Associate Judge of the Commerce Court. In somewhat less time A. S. Worthington, Judge Archbald's chief counsel, replied for the defendant. Taking of testimony will be begun to-morrow.

As the detailed articles of impeachment had been before the Senate for more than four months, the chief interest of the day centred in Mr. Worthington's reply for the defense. He began by criticising sharply the managers for the House because, he said, they had not shown any law which the respondent had violated, contenting themselves with setting forth general accusations, many of which, even if proved, were not indictable offenses and gave no ground for impeachment. To certain of the impeaching articles he made answer in detail.

Mr. Worthington, standing by the Clerk's desk, with his back to the President Pro Tempore, told the Senate that in all the acts related of Judge Archbald the Judge had acted with proper motives. The respondent's part in the deals charged against him, said the lawyer, easily could be understood when Mr. Archbald's personal relations were set forth and the circumstances had been presented in evidence.

The charge in Article 10 of the impeachment, that Judge Archbald had accepted money from Henry G. Cannon "for the purpose of defraying the expenses of a pleasure trip to Europe" fell to the ground, said Mr. Worthington, when it was known that Mr. Cannon was a cousin of Judge Archbald's wife. Though he did not deny that Mr. Cannon was a Director in the Great Northern Railway, the Lake Erie & Western Railroad, and the Fort Wayne, Cincinnati & Louisville Railroad and was Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Pacific Coast Company, he did deny that any corporation in which Mr. Cannon was interested was likely to have cases before the Commerce Court.

The setting for the first day of the trial proper was simple in the extreme. In the well before the President's table was a semi-circle of chairs. To the left of the centre aisle sat the Managers on the part of the House. To the right sat Judge Archbald with his son, a junior member of his counsel, beside him. Next to his son was Alexander Simpson, Jr., of Philadelphia, introduced today as additional counsel, and then came Mr. Worthington. Under orders of yesterday, Mr. Worthington alone spoke for the defense; Mr. Clayton alone for the prosecution. Senator Augustus O. Bacon of Georgia, President Pro Tempore, presided. The galleries were fairly well filled, but the proceedings were of little interest to the persons in them.

Judge Archbald heard himself referred to by Representative Clayton as one who had "prostituted his high official position to personal profit," who had "commercialized his potentiality as a Judge," and who had "degraded his office and destroyed the confidence of the public in his integrity." Representative Clayton asserted the facts ascertained in the investigation of Judge Archbald's relations with coal companies and railroads showed that the Judge's "sense of morality had been deadened," and that he had used his position to induce officials of railroads that were or might be litigants before his court to grant favors to him or to consent to business deals.

It is thought the first witnesses will be Edward J. Williams, Charles F. Conn, William A. May, and J. H. Rittenhouse of Scranton, and George F. Brownell of New York, general solicitor for the Erie Railroad.

The trial is expected to centre about testimony as to Judge Archbald's alleged connection with the purchase or attempted purchase of refuse coal dumps. His attorney said it would be shown that in the first case charged against the jurist, the Katydid culm bank case, the Judge purposely had been forced into the situation by William P. Boland of Scranton, and had acted throughout as the friend of Williams, who wished to buy the property, and without thought of personal reward.

The charges arose in connection with private and official acts by Mr. Archbald, both as a Judge of the Court of Commerce and as United States District Judge for Middle Pennsylvania. He was impeached by the House after a full investigation by the Department of Justice and extended hearings before the House Judiciary Committee. The managers appointed by the House to prosecute the case before the Senate asked for an immediate trial last August, but the Senate declined to hasten its consideration of the case. Scores of subpoenas were issued last week.

The House on July 11 last adopted articles of impeachment against Judge Archbald by a vote of 222 to 1. The thirteen articles of impeachment embrace alleged dealings between Judge Archbald and railroad officials and others in regard to Pennsylvania coal or culm dumps and coal lands, contributions by attorneys and others to the Judge's vacation trip to Europe in 1910, reputed secret correspondence by the Judge with a railroad attorney concerning a pending case, and alleged attempts to have notes payable to Judge Archbald discounted by attorneys and litigants before his court.

McALLISTER SILVER STOLEN.

Robbers Get Relics of Former Society Leader at Son's Home.

Heywood Hall McAllister, son of Ward McAllister, has detectives busy looking through New York for a quantity of silverware that was stolen several nights ago from his home in Summit, N. J. Many of the articles taken by the burglars were relics and souvenirs that belonged to his father and were acquired by him at the time when he was one of the ruling spirits in the development of social lines in New York and Newport.

The intrinsic value of the silver taken amounts to less than $4,000, but its value depended largely upon its association with the doings of Ward McAllister. The storied "emergency silver set" which made its appearance at the farm dinners and fishing parties at Newport is gone with the loot. Gone, too, are some of the souvenirs of the first cotillion dinner given in Newport with Ward McAllister as host.

There were souvenirs also of the great ball given at the Academy of Music when the guest of honor was the Prince of Wales, who later became Edward VII. A few gifts made to Mr. McAllister by the late Mrs. Astor escaped the attention of the thieves, who are believed to have used an automobile to transport the proceeds of the burglary.

PAUL KELLY DISCHARGED.

No Evidence to Support Disorderly Resort Charge, Magistrate Rules.

Paul Vacarelli, better known as Paul Kelly, who was arrested by detectives of Inspector Lahey's staff on a charge that he kept a disorderly resort at 201 West Forty-first Street, was discharged yesterday in the West Side Court by Magistrate Butts.

The Magistrate decided that the police had no grounds on which to base their assertion that the house, which is known as the Noonday Social Club, was a disorderly resort.

HUNTINGTON SLANDER SUITS.

Blacksmith Sues Widow and Bride Her Father-in-Law.

HUNTINGTON, L. I., Dec. 3.—Papers were served to-day upon two prominent citizens of Huntington in suits for slander, and the balm asked for amounts to $60,000. The cases will be heard at the January term of the Supreme Court to be held at Riverhead, Suffolk County.

The first suit was instituted by Frank Kennedy against Mrs. Elizabeth Reichert, a good-looking widow residing in an attractive little bungalow in the best section of Cold Spring Hill. She is well-to-do. Kennedy is the village blacksmith. He is married and the father of several children. He claims that his character has been defamed to the extent of $10,000, owing to a report circulated by Mrs. Reichert that the blacksmith was fond of making "goo-goo eyes" at her and at one time so far forgot himself as to attempt to enter her peaceful home during the late hours of the night.

The other suit was brought by Marie Klauer Doran against Thomas Doran, Sr., and the amount asked for is $50,000. Marie is a minor and the wife of Thomas Doran, Jr., and the suit is brought in her husband's name. The junior Mrs. Doran is the daughter of a local butcher. She asserts that her husband's father and mother have been saying scandalous things about her, and it is upon these things that she bases her claim for damages.

MRS. VANDERBILT'S DENIAL.

Will Not Endow Big Sisters with $500,000, as Rumor Said.

The rumor current last Sunday to the effect that Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt was about to endow the Big Sisters Organization with $500,000 was denied by Mrs. Vanderbilt herself yesterday afternoon at a meeting of that association held in the green room on the first floor of the Fifth Avenue Building. At that meeting Mrs. Vanderbilt was elected President, Mrs. Ralph Sanger, Secretary, and Mrs. Willard Parker Treasurer. Besides these women, the directorate includes Mrs. Stephen H. Olin, Mrs. W. D. Straight, Mrs. Lewis S. Morris, Mrs. F. C. Havemeyer, Mrs. S. S. Sands, Mrs. Sara B. Mounce, and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills.

Ernest K. Coulter, counsel for the organization, deplored later the spreading of the impression that any one person had contributed such a sum to the work. "I am requested by Mrs. Vanderbilt," he said, "to make absolute denial of these reports. The publication of these statements seriously injures a very important and humane work which the Big Sisters are doing, and will prevent the enlisting of financial and personal support unless the matter is set straight."

GET GUNMEN'S HELPER.

Samuel Kramer, Who Escaped from Detention, Caught in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Samuel Kramer, who had been held in New York as a witness against the gunmen who killed Herman Rosenthal, and who escaped, was arrested here to-day.

Capt. Halpin of the Detective Bureau, learning of Kramer's presence in the city, with a squad of detectives raided a resort at 1,439 West Twelfth Street and found Kramer in bed. Kramer reached for a revolver as the police entered the room, but was disarmed. He put up a hard fight.

Samuel Kramer was arrested in an apartment in Woodward Avenue, Brooklyn, with "Gyp the Blood" and "Lefty Louie" last August. He was recognized by the employes of two furniture firms as being one of the men who had bought the goods to fit up the flat for the two gunmen, and was put in the House of Detention. The other man, who had bought furniture for the two gunmen, was Morris Goldstein, proprietor of a poolroom in East Broadway. Kramer had formerly been employed by Goldstein under the name of Joseph Lieberman.

Kramer escaped from the House of Detention before the gunmen came to trial. Deputy Commissioner Dougherty, who arrested Goldstein, said last night that there was plenty of evidence to prove that Kramer had sheltered the two gunmen. Goldstein disappeared immediately after the arrest of the gunmen and was never captured. Mr. Dougherty said last night that he had not been aware that Kramer had fled to Chicago, and that he had not telegraphed for his arrest.

GOFF CALLS WRIGHT IN THE HYDE CASE

to delay the case. He said it would not be fair to do anything to keep Hyde in jail a day longer than was necessary.

If the application for a certificate of reasonable doubt is granted, Hyde will doubtless be at once released on bail until the higher courts pass upon the case. If a new trial is denied by the Appellate Division the case will be carried to the Court of Appeals. Max D. Steuer of Hyde's counsel said yesterday he saw no reason why the case should not reach the Court of Appeals in January if it had to go that far.

If the certificate is denied Hyde will have to go to prison, but the same course would be pursued in the courts.

It was said at the District Attorney's office yesterday that Joseph G. Robin would probably be called before Justice Seabury for sentence on Dec. 24. Robin has pleaded guilty to grand larceny. The maximum punishment for this crime is ten years in prison and $5,000 fine. But Robin has been in prison two years, and the District Attorney believes that this will be taken into consideration by Justice Seabury, as well as the fact that Robin has been of service to the people in convicting Hyde and others mixed up in the Carnegie bank scandal.

VAN TUYL ANSWERS ROBIN.

No Washington Bank Dividend Now on Account of Bad Loan to Him.

In relation to the statement of Joseph G. Robin, issued from the Tombs on Sunday, to the effect that Robin thought that at the present time it might be arranged that the creditors of the Washington Savings Bank could get a 10 per cent. dividend in addition to the one of 50 per cent. already paid, if the State Superintendent of Banks were inclined to do so, the State Superintendent of Banks, George C. Van Tuyl, Jr., commented yesterday as follows:

"Since the first 50 per cent. was paid to creditors there never has been available money with which to pay a 10 per cent. dividend. It must be remembered that over $8,000 is held by the Banking Department for the first dividend of 50 per cent. not yet paid on unfiled claims.

"The department also holds $55,000, awaiting a decree in a suit between the Northern Bank of New York and the Washington Savings Bank, growing out of the juggling of mortgages between those two institutions, in which Mr. Robin was the controlling factor.

"The Banking Department, on behalf of the Washington Savings Bank, recently foreclosed a mortgage of $45,000 on the residence of Mr. Robin at Wading River, with the result that the property did not bring the amount of money loaned by the Washington Savings Bank on this residence of Mr. Robin as security, and the Banking Department was compelled to bid it in for the sum of $42,000.

"Had this security, given by the Wading River Realty Company, which was owned and controlled by Mr. Robin and his sister, proven good and sufficient, it would have added just so much additional funds with which to declare dividends to creditors of the Washington Savings Bank.

"Every effort is being made by the Banking Department to convert the remaining assets, consisting of real estate and mortgages, into cash for the purpose of paying dividends as fast as possible, which has been the policy of this department under my administration. It is likely that in the near future some dividend will be paid to creditors of the Washington Savings Bank."

HARRIMAN DIRECTORS DISCUSS DISSOLUTION

Board Hasn't Even a Tentative Plan for Meeting U. S. Supreme Court's Decree.

WALL ST. SCENTS A MELON

Expects U. P. to Cut It, Although Road Will Lose $7,600,000 a Year—Committee for S. P.

The first open move toward the carrying out of the Supreme Court's decree ordering the dissolution of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger was made yesterday by the formation of a protective committee to look after the interests of the holders of Southern Pacific stock. James N. Wallace, President of the Central Trust Company, is Chairman of the committee, and associated with him are Henry Evans, President of the Continental Insurance Company; J. Horace Harding of C. D. Barney & Co.; Frederick Strauss of J. & W. Seligman, and Albert H. Wiggin, President of the Chase National Bank.

The committee will ask for the deposit of stock with a view to seeing that the Union Pacific's disposition of its big block of Southern Pacific is made without prejudicing the rights of the majority holders.

At the close of the fiscal year 1911 the Union Pacific held, through the Oregon Short Line, $126,650,000 of the Southern Pacific's $272,672,000 of stock, or about 46 per cent. Subsequently the company entered the market for the purchase of additional shares, with the idea of bringing its holdings up to 51 per cent., but no announcement of the amount so acquired ever has been made, and, so far as the financial district is aware, this stock may have been sold again when nothing came of the proposal to allow companies owning more than one-half of another company's shares to acquire absolute control.

The executive committees of the two Harriman roads met yesterday noon for an hour, and a conference of Directors was held afterward. Judge Robert S. Lovett, Chairman of the roads, said afterward that he had no idea as to when the Directors would be able to decide on a plan for submission to the Circuit Court. F. A. Vanderlip said after the executive committee's meeting that the board had as yet not even a tentative solution of the problem put up to the Harriman management by the Supreme Court's order.

There are so many complications in the relation of the Southern Pacific to the Union Pacific that Wall Street has not been able to suggest a feasible arrangement for bringing about the divorce ordered by the Court. It is everywhere admitted that advantage must be taken of the Union Pacific's right to acquire the Central Pacific, unless a satisfactory long-term traffic arrangement can be made with the Southern Pacific for the use of the line from Ogden to the Coast. The Central Pacific, although representing only 15 per cent. of the Southern's mileage, contributes about 27 per cent. of the company's gross earnings, its gross revenues per mile amounting to $21,300, as against an average of $12,000 for the entire system.

The Southern Pacific stock in the Harriman treasury contributes $7,600,000 per annum to the Union Pacific's income, which is equivalent to 3½ per cent. on its stock. It was suggested yesterday that a plan might be worked out for the distribution of the Southern Pacific shares to Union Pacific stockholders, to be followed by a reduction in the Union Pacific dividend.

The separation of the two systems is generally expected to redound to the holding company's advantage. Active trading in both issues on the Stock Exchange yesterday resulted in a net gain of ¼ by Union Pacific common and a loss of 2⅛ by Southern Pacific. Union Pacific preferred declined ¼.

HARRIMAN MEN TO MEET.

Railroad Officials Will Confer on Action to Follow Court Decision.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Dec. 3.—Harriman officials of the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Oregon Short Line, and Oregon & Washington Railroad and Navigation Company are to-night en route to Salt Lake City, where they will hold a conference and discuss the recent merger decision of the Supreme Court. The conference is said to have been called with the intention of permitting the real operating officials of the lines to work out a plan which will be presented to a reorganizing committee soon to meet in New York. President Mohler of the Union Pacific, with his passenger traffic heads, left Omaha last night for the conference. Vice President Monroe reached Omaha from the East at noon to-day and started for Salt Lake City within an hour. The heads of the law departments of all the roads will be there also.

The main object of the meeting, it is said at Union Pacific headquarters, is to prepare for the operation of the Central Pacific as a part of the Union Pacific system, giving the Union Pacific entry into California over its own tracks. It is taken for granted at Union Pacific headquarters that the Central Pacific will pass to the control of the Union Pacific, although no official will permit himself to be so quoted.

There will be no appeal from the decision of the Salt Lake City conference. General Counsel Loomis and President Mohler yesterday practically agreed upon this point.

To-day Vice President Monroe said: "I suppose Southern Pacific stock will have to be sold, but the New York officials of the road will attend to that."

WICKERSHAM HAS FACTS.

Acting on Mellen's Own Report—O'Shaunessy Resolution Alive.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Representative George F. O'Shaunessy of Rhode Island followed up his demand to-day for a Congressional investigation of the Grand Trunk Railway deal by a visit to Attorney General Wickersham at the Department of Justice, and the case was considered between them. The Attorney General explained what the agents of the department were doing, and his statement seemed to satisfy Mr. O'Shaunessy that the department was trying to uncover the truth and would proceed against the railroads for violation of the law if the evidence warranted it. However, Mr. O'Shaunessy will not abandon his demand for an investigation by Congress.

Though Mr. O'Shaunessy says the Attorney General was neither displeased nor dissatisfied with Mr. O'Shaunessy's resolution to investigate the deal between the New Haven and the Grand Trunk, there is reason to believe that Mr. Wickersham would prefer that the resolution should not be pressed for the time being. He is represented as believing that the Government has enough facts to justify action against the New Haven and that the latitude of a legislative inquiry might be a disadvantage to the Government's case.

Mr. Wickersham has declined to say whether the decision of the United States Supreme Court yesterday, in the Union Pacific merger case, had an application to the New Haven case.

Attorney General Wickersham declined to make any statement of his reason for ordering a resumption of the suspended proceedings before the Federal Grand Jury in New York, but an officer of the Department of Justice who was acquainted with all the circumstances said that it was reasonable to suppose that the Attorney General was not satisfied, after an examination of the New Haven-Grand Trunk agreement and other documents furnished to him by President Mellen of the New Haven that there had not been a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law forbidding combinations in restraint of trade.

Apparently Attorney General Wickersham believes that a prima facie case of criminal conspiracy to prevent competition has been made out, and it is the understanding here that the Grand Jury proceedings mean that he intends to push the charges against the New Haven Company.

Jesse C. Adkins of Washington, Assistant Attorney General of the United States, is in New York, co-operating with District Attorney Wise. Mr. Adkins is acting directly under instructions from Attorney General Wickersham.

LEBANON HOSPITAL APPEALS.

Makes First Request for Public Support to Pay Off Deficit.

Lebanon Hospital, a non-sectarian institution at Westchester and Cauldwell Avenues, Bronx, is facing a deficit of $50,000, according to notices sent out from the hospital yesterday. An appeal has been made to the public in the hope of clearing this deficit, which, it was said, being the accumulation of five years of debts, must be offset at once.

The hospital was opened in 1893, and has never before publicly appealed for funds. There are now 195 beds in the hospital, and last year, according to the New York Charities Directory, 3,783 patients, of whom 90 per cent. were cared for free of charge, were received in the hospital. In addition 30,060 patients were treated in the dispensary adjoining the hospital. The ambulance responded to 2,344 calls. With the increase of the population Lebanon Hospital has been long overtaxed, and it is the hope of the Directors that enough money may be raised to meet the demands of the greater work. Among the contributors to the hospital's support have been Jacob H. Schiff, Mortimer L. Schiff, Henry Morgenthau, Paul M. Warburg, Felix Warburg, Adolph Lewisohn, and Dr. Abraham Mayer.

Contributions may be sent to the Lebanon Hospital, or to Jerome J. Hanauer, Treasurer, care of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., 52 William Street.

SUFFRAGISTS SPOIL MUCH MORE MAIL

Letter Boxes All Over London Raided—Some Addresses Quite Effaced.

POLICE WATCH IS IN VAIN

Corrosive Fluid Must Be Put Into the Boxes by Means of Ordinary-Appearing Letters.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—In London clubland the name of the suffragettes has become more than ever anathema.

To-day saw unwonted perturbation in the usually tranquil purlieus of Piccadilly. It transpired that a raid had been made on the Downing Street pillar-box, which is in the heart of clubland and the receptacle of the bulk of the correspondence from a large number of clubs in that section of Piccadilly.

The raiders not only poured acid into the pillar-box, but also spiked the keyhole so that the postman was unable to open it, and a locksmith was requisitioned. This took a good deal of time.

There was another series of suffragette letter-box outrages this evening. Half a dozen boxes were attacked in the neighborhood of the Bank of England. Despite elaborate police precautions the culprits escaped. They chose a time when the greatest amount of damage was likely to be done, when a greater number of business letters are posted than at any other period of the day.

Serious damage was done to letters in boxes in Lothbury and Cornhill. In each case a black fluid compounded apparently of ink, oil, and a corrosive liquid was poured through the aperture. At Cornhill the mixture was inserted in the compartment reserved for town letters. Sixteen were damaged and several addresses were wholly effaced. Sixteen letters were damaged in the Lothbury box, but the effacement of the addresses was not so serious.

The culprits were less successful in an attack upon the Threadneedle Street Post Office box, where the damage was almost negligible.

No bottles were found in the letter-boxes attacked. This fact, coupled with the watchfulness of the professional and amateur detectives, seems to dispose of the theory that the liquid is poured from a bottle inserted in the box under cover of an envelope. Envelopes containing the destructive fluid must have been dropped into the boxes in the ordinary way. No suspicion was aroused until the boxes were opened by the postmen.

Lady Frances Balfour, addressing a meeting of the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies to-day, said she felt that the latest form of militancy had done absolutely no good. She saw no reason to be sympathetic toward the militants. She had some sympathy for a woman who, when she smashed a window, stood still and took her four months, for that woman, with all her misdirected zeal, at least showed courage, but the present tactics were simply stupid, and there was no doubt that militancy was doing the suffrage cause great harm.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The suffragettes' raids on the post boxes were resumed to-night over a large area, extending from the City to Richmond.

A large number of letters in a Hammersmith box were completely destroyed, acid penetrating the envelopes.

The boxes in the financial district were again attacked.

SOUTHERN STATES WARNED.

Soon to be the Only Ones on the World's Financial Blacklist.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—"Unless certain American States take prompt steps to remedy the present regrettable state of affairs, it would appear probable that they will incur the unenviable distinction of being the only communities barred from the money markets of the world," is the declaration in a memorandum issued by the council of foreign bondholders, drawing attention to the fact that two of these defaulting States, North Carolina and Mississippi, are again attempting to borrow.

Apart from the Southern American States, Guatemala and Honduras are the only States on the council's black list of defaulters, and the settlements in those two cases may be arranged at any moment, so that the probability of the American States being left last on the list is by no means remote. In the meantime the council perseveres in its uncompromising opposition to their efforts to obtain fresh loans.

NOWILL MYSTERY UNSOLVED

But Husband of Dead Woman Would Refuse Fortune Left to Her.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—An inquest was held to-day on the body of Mrs. Nowill, which was found at New Quay yesterday after the woman had been missing for several days.

Whether Mrs. Nowill or Mr. Delay, the Singapore lawyer who committed suicide the day after Mrs. Nowill's disappearance, after adding a codicil to his will leaving $150,000 to her, was the first to die was not decided at the inquest. It is, however, generally believed that the woman predeceased Delay.

Mr. Nowill, husband of the dead woman, refuses to discuss the question. He says the point does not need decision, inasmuch as neither he nor his would ever touch the money.

The Coroner said he did not believe in the theory that Mrs. Nowill was murdered, but expressed the opinion that Delay had behaved in a most heartless and cruel way toward her.

The jury, on the Coroner's advice, returned a verdict of "Found drowned."

RUSSIAN TARIFF CHANGES MODERATE

New Commercial Policy Not Hostile to Trade Interests of This Country.

TO BE DECLARED ON JAN. 1

Washington Officials Pleased by Temperate Tone of St. Petersburg Announcement.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 3.—It is officially announced that the Russian Government will publish on Jan. 1, the day of the expiration of the Russo-American treaty of commerce and navigation, a statement outlining its future commercial policy toward the United States, and also a provisional tariff, which will not contain any great increase over the existing tariff.

The policy of the Russian Government, it is said, will not be imbued with any spirit of animosity, but will be directed solely to the protection of the Russian markets and to assuring to the Russian consumer the most favorable conditions of supply of the staple imports hitherto coming directly from the United States—namely, cotton, farm machinery, and farm implements.

The pressure exerted upon Russia in the matter of Jewish passports and the resulting denunciation of the Russo-American treaty aroused the attention of the Russian Government to the necessity of protecting the interests of Russian consumers. Russia, it is pointed out, now grows more than half the cotton she consumes, and in fifteen years from now she will in this respect become self-sufficing.

Should the United States contemplate discriminating measures against Russian produce or shipping, it is argued here that it would be well to remember that Russia is able to seek cotton in Egypt and India and machinery in England.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—It is expected that the Administration will issue a statement simultaneously with that to appear in St. Petersburg on Jan. 1, or even before, conveying to American business circles information as to the basis upon which trade may be conducted between America and Russia after the expiration of the existing trade treaty. This statement will make it clear that, in the absence of any discrimination by Russia against the American export trade, the existing rates of tariff dues will continue to be exacted upon imports from Russia.

The temperate tone of the statements issued from St. Petersburg is gratifying to the officials here, as an indication of a purpose to refrain from any attack upon American business. The reference to the issue of the new provisional tariff is taken to mean that, while there may be some small increases in the duties on commodities covering the bulk of the American export trade for Russia, these new rates will be of general application, and so cannot be regarded as discriminatory against American goods.

The reference in the Russian statement to possible American discrimination against Russian shipping is supposed to be based upon an apprehension that port and lighthouse dues must be automatically applied by the United States to such shipping, but that point is still under examination.

NEW GUN CONTROL FAILS.

Poor Results at Further Trial of Sir Percy Scott's Invention.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—Much interest is being taken by naval men throughout the world in the tests now being carried out by the British Admiralty of the new fire director invented by Admiral Sir Percy Scott, who first achieved renown by devising the carriage on which the naval guns were taken to Ladysmith.

Reports hitherto current, based on early tests of Sir Percy's fire director, had been altogether favorable, the invention being said to have increased the percentage of hits to such a degree that British supremacy in gun firing was assured, even over the Americans.

No little surprise, consequently, was caused to-day by a circumstantial report that in the special tests now being made by the Admiralty Admiral Scott's invention failed to achieve anything like the results previously claimed for it.

H. M. S. Thunderer, fitted with the new director system of firing, and the Orion, fitted with the ordinary naval fire control, took part in a competition, in which the Orion was successful. The firing took place at 10,000 yards. The Orion completely smashed the target, while the Thunderer in the first three salvos of ten shots each failed to find it. In the last two salvos her shells went home and shattered it.

In a previous trial, which took place on Nov. 18, the Thunderer completely beat the Orion, making 50 per cent. or more hits against the Orion's 10 per cent. at 10,000 yards in a heavy sea.

The Man Who Is Helpless

Being the Text of a Talk to Men on "Better Clothes at Less Cost—and Why."

EVEN the good, honest merchant who buys his garments from the wholesale maker is as the man whose hands are tied—he cannot help himself.

He is forced to order his goods far ahead. He must guess about patterns and probable style. And when his garments are ready to sell in his shop he must mark his early sales very high to offset the almost dead loss to come later on—styles he has already bought but which turn out to be poor sellers.

'Tis essential and therefore honest that he charge you more—BUT it is not essential that you pay the price.

For note the difference between him and Smith Gray & Co.

A few weeks from our personally owned and operated tailoring premises to your back is the average time in the history of our garments.

Woolens are bought months after our friend has to buy his. The Last Whispers of Style have reached us. Our chances (costly chances) on proper pattern and style forecasting are much reduced. Insurance costs, interest and depreciation are practically nothing. We can even buy woolens cheaper by later buying. And so it goes.

ALL our Savings are YOUR savings. MORE FOR YOUR MONEY—very much more—in style, in fit (for our cost advantages permit us to afford the highest-priced tailors), and in fabrics.

Nothing at our prices can approach our Clothes for Men.

To Delight the Heart of a Child

WAS there ever a little girl who didn't love to play at "Keeping House"? It is the one game which never grows old. Certainly the little girl to whom Santa Claus brings one of our wonderful miniature Kitchen Sets with its real stove and equipment of every cooking and baking utensil that one can think of will never lose interest in it until she begins to study the real business of house-keeping. Every little article is as perfect and as well made as the "grown up" things in mother's kitchen.

GAVE HER A LIFE JOB, SAYS MISS ST. CLAIR

Actress Suing A. L. Erlanger for $25,000 Says He Offered Her Permanent Engagement.

HER COUNSEL WINS POINT

Elfie Snowdon Testimony Admitted by Court—How Contract Was Broken After Nine Years.

Testimony which heretofore had been successfully objected to, bearing on Abraham L. Erlanger's relations with Elfie Snowdon, an actress, was admitted yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Pendleton in the trial of the suit of Edith St. Clair, another actress, against the theatrical man, for breach of a $25,000 contract which Mr. Erlanger declared was wrung from him by Max D. Steuer as the sole means of hushing up a scandal.

Edmund L. Mooney, counsel for Miss St. Clair, explained to the court that he desired to introduce the evidence in rebuttal of Mr. Erlanger's contention. He said that Mr. Erlanger at the very time of the signing of the contract, in 1909, had openly spoken of his intimacy with Miss Snowdon, and that, far from being actuated by any consideration for his wife, who at the time was in Europe, he was deliberately essaying to break up his own home. In further support of this theory, he submitted to the court that when Mr. Erlanger was later sued for divorce, Miss Snowdon being named, he did not put in a defense, and permitted the granting of a decree by default.

Mr. Erlanger proved as obdurate a witness yesterday as he had been violent the day before.

"Did you, in June, 1909, visit Young's Hotel in Atlantic City with Elfie Snowdon?" asked Mr. Mooney.

"I did not," was the reply.

"But weren't you convicted in your wife's divorce action of having so done?" was the next query.

Mr. Erlanger was supported by the court in his refusal to give a response. Mr. Mooney did succeed, however, in making Mr. Erlanger admit that he had gone to Atlantic City in an automobile with Miss Snowden and her mother.

"Is it true that the occasion for your leaving the hotel was that you were put out?"

"That is an absolute lie," replied the theatrical manager.

"Miss Snowdon is an actress, is she not?" continued the lawyer. "And she was in the employ of Klaw & Erlanger?"

"That doesn't follow," declared the witness.

"Do you mean that not all women in the employ of Klaw & Erlanger are employed as actresses?" said Mr. Mooney.

For his answer he got a shrug and "Oh, this is too silly," from the senior member of the firm.

"Did you not make your statements yesterday about Mr. Steuer in order to have them published broadcast throughout the land?" asked the examining attorney.

"What else does a man make a statement for?" was his response.

Marc Klaw, who was recalled for cross-examination, declared to Mr. Mooney that he had never known how intense was the animosity entertained by his partner toward Mr. Steuer. He again corroborated Mr. Erlanger's story of the manner in which Mr. Steuer had approached him.

"It was Mr. Steuer who said that he thought the $100,000 hush money demanded by Miss St. Clair could be settled by the immediate signing of a contract for $25,000," he said.

At this juncture the defense rested and the case of the plaintiff began. Miss St. Clair immediately took the stand. She was clad entirely in black save for a lining of brown fur upon her dress. When she first appeared her wide-brimmed hat was over her eyes and a thick veil hid her face. With difficulty she was prevailed upon to remove the veil and to push up her hat.

She told a straightforward story of her business relations with Mr. Erlanger and his firm. She told how she had gone to Mr. Erlanger's offices, at 1,440 Broadway, in 1898 and had presented her card in application for work.

"After a short wait I was ushered into Mr. Erlanger's private office," she continued in a voice so low that she had to be reminded constantly to speak more clearly. "I told him I wanted a position in a production called 'One Round of Pleasure,' and I found out later that it had been given to me."

"Were you introduced to Mr. Erlanger as Mrs. Hendrickson?" asked Mr. Mooney. The implication was indignantly denied.

"In 1903," said Miss St. Clair, coming to the crux of her case, "I went to see Mr. Erlanger and told him that the Shuberts had offered me $95 a week, as against the $65 I was receiving. I told him I believed the chance had come to better myself and that I was considering accepting the offer. But Mr. Erlanger told me not to. He said that the offer of the Shuberts was uncertain, that it would fall through if the production I was slated for failed, and that at best it would not be permanent. He said to me that it would be far better for me to remain with him at a salary of $75 a week, which he would guarantee in and out of season for life. This seemed reasonable to me and I accepted. And then Mr. Erlanger said to me:

"'You may then consider yourself engaged for life with a minimum salary of $75 and such increases as your work deserves.'"

Under this arrangement Miss St. Clair asserted that she worked steadily until 1907. She explained her annual singing of a contract despite this unwritten agreement by the exigencies of bookkeeping, which, she said, made it necessary to record all contracts separately in order to ascertain the costs of Klaw & Erlanger's various productions.

In 1907, the witness continued, Mr. Erlanger forced her to sign a contract with Florenz Ziegfeld in "Miss Innocence," explaining that he was himself interested in the production.

"And when the play closed, and I found that I had not received my salary from Mr. Erlanger, I was informed curtly by him that I had broken my contract, that I would receive no more money from the firm, and that my services were no longer required. And I told him right then and there that I knew why I was being thrown over—that it was because Elfie Snowdon objected to my acting under his management."

Before William T. Jerome, of counsel for Mr. Erlanger, had got well into the cross-examination, the court adjourned until this morning.

SHUTS OUT LAWYER SO WIDOW GETS ALL

Justice Page Puts a Stop to a 50 Per Cent. Contingency Damage Contract.

SENDS BIRD TO CONTRACTORS

Decision Follows Hearing in Chambers After One Lawyer Assails the Methods of Another in Open Court.

Charges made in open court by Walter J. Rose, an attorney of 100 Broadway, regarding methods pursued by Hobart S. Bird in connection with a legal accident bureau conducted by him at 230 Grand Street, known as the Italo Protective Association, led Supreme Court Justice Page, before whom the statements were made, to hold an inquisitional hearing yesterday in his chambers.

The matter came to the court's attention through the motion of the firm of Kremer & Strasser, with which Rose is associated, to have themselves substituted as attorneys, in place of Bird, for Mrs. Maria Socci, a widow, who lives at 2,034 Amsterdam Avenue. Mrs. Socci's husband, Ferdinando, died on May 2, as the result of injuries received in a blast while he was working in an excavation at Lexington Avenue and 216th Street in the employ of the Bradley Construction Company. At the time of the accident, the complaining lawyers contended yesterday, Bird, whom they described as one of the class of lawyers known as "ambulance chasers," was retained by Socci. After Socci's death, Bird was administrator of the estate and began an action in the Supreme Court against the Bradley Construction Company in behalf of Mrs. Socci to recover damages.

After considerable dealing with the defendant company, an offer of $650 in settlement was made to the widow. Mrs. Socci, who was anxious to return with her three children to Italy, was willing to drop the suit for that amount. But on the point of settlement, her attorney, Bird, it was set forth yesterday, informed her that he had agreed to take the case only on the contingency that he should receive 50 per cent. of any damages recovered. He therefore offered to hand over to her $325 and retain the remainder. Mrs. Socci demurred, and Arthur L. Strasser agreed to take the case and obtain the $650 for Mrs. Socci. Mrs. Socci accordingly signed an affidavit last month requesting a substitution of attorney.

Argument on this motion was set on the calendar for Monday before Justice Page. On Sunday Bird saw Mrs. Socci, who is illiterate, and, according to the accusations of the opposing attorneys, obtained her mark, in place of signature, to a counter affidavit, in which any desire to change her attorney was denied and the wish expressed that Bird be retained.

Rose denounced Bird, declaring that by means of the Italo Protective Association he was placed in a position to take advantage of ignorant immigrants and to demand what Rose termed exorbitant fees for damages recovered from accidents, on the 50 per cent. contingency basis.

After hearing the testimony in his chambers yesterday, Justice Page ruled that Mrs. Socci should receive in full the $650 offered by the Bradley Construction Company, and decided that Bird must deal directly with that company as to the amount due to him for services in bringing about the offer of settlement. Having disposed of the case, he allowed the motion for substitution of counsel to be withdrawn upon the assurance of Kremer & Strasser that they desired no fee, but had taken up the case merely as an act of charity and in order to secure what they styled justice for Mrs. Socci.

The so-called contingency basis of trying cases, although not forbidden by statute, is contrary to legal ethics. Rose insisted further to Justice Page that Bird had no legal right to make any such stipulation, because of the fact that he was administrator of the estate of the man for whose death Mrs. Socci sought damages.

Mrs. Socci announced joyously at the close of yesterday's hearing that she and her children would sail for Italy immediately.

TAFT BIDS NATION BE WORLD POWER

Defends His Trade-Seeking Policy as Demanded by Our Middle Age.

DOLLARS VERSUS BULLETS

American Capital Must Be Employed if We Are to Get Our Share of Markets.

DIPLOMACY ABOVE PARTIES

Plea for Efficient Representatives Abroad and of Broad Policies to Replace Expediency.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Declaring that the United States was on the threshold of its "middle age as a nation," having "emerged full grown as a peer in the great concourse of nations," President Taft made vigorous defense of his foreign policy in a special message he sent to Congress to-day. He asked Congress to approve the beginning he had made toward the assertion of our world power by the reorganization of the State Department and diplomatic service and by the activity shown in forwarding our trade interests abroad, and to take measures to "deal with the problems of our external relations by a diplomacy modern, resourceful, magnanimous, and fittingly expressive of the high ideals of a great nation."

In the message, which was the first of a series to be sent to Congress, he admitted that our diplomacy had been frankly directed toward the increase of American trade, but explained that modern diplomacy was largely concerned with commercial affairs. "Dollars versus bullets" was the phrase he employed in describing the present conditions. Even greater efforts for trade must be made, he declared, if the Nation was not to find itself shut out of markets which it should dominate. As measures to accomplish this he recommended that our diplomacy should be raised high above parties, that more generous allowance should be made for salaries and housing of our representatives abroad, that the activity of American capital should be encouraged and that a more flexible tariff should be enacted for use in preventing discrimination against us.

A striking feature of the message was that the President directly blamed the Senate for the recent serious revolution in Nicaragua because it had refused to ratify the Nicaraguan treaty, which would have put that nation's finances on a proper basis. He devoted much space to his view of the attitude we should take toward the weak Central American States.

The message in part was as follows:

Importance of Foreign Policy.

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

The foreign relations of the United States actually and potentially affect the State of the Union to a degree not widely realized and hardly surpassed by any other factor in the welfare of the whole Nation. The position of the United States in the moral, intellectual, and material relations of the family of nations should be a matter of vital interest to every patriotic citizen. The National prosperity and power impose upon us duties which we can not shirk if we are to be true to our ideals. The tremendous growth of the export trade of the United States has already made that trade a very real factor in the industrial and commercial prosperity of the country. With the development of our industries the foreign commerce of the United States must rapidly become a still more essential factor in its economic welfare. Whether we have a farseeing and wise diplomacy and are not recklessly plunged into unnecessary wars, and whether our foreign polices are based upon an intelligent grasp of present-day world conditions and a clear view of the potentialities of the future, or are governed by a temporary and timid expediency or by narrow views befitting an infant nation, are questions in the alternative consideration of which must convince any thoughtful citizen that no department of National polity offers greater opportunity for promoting the interests of the whole people on the one hand, or greater chance on the other of permanent National injury, than that which deals with the foreign relations of the United States.

Foreign Affairs Above Parties.

The fundamental foreign policies of the United States should be raised high above the conflict of partisanship and wholly dissociated from differences as to domestic policy. In its foreign affairs the United States should present to the world a united front. The intellectual, financial, and industrial interests of the country, and the publicist, the wage earner, the farmer, and citizen of whatever occupation must co-operate in a spirit of high patriotism to promote that National solidarity which is indispensable to National efficiency and to the attainment of National ideals.

At the beginning of the present Administration the United States, having fully entered upon its position as a world power, with the responsibilities thrust upon it by the results of the Spanish-American War, and already engaged in laying the groundwork of a vast foreign trade upon which it should one day become more and more dependent, found itself without the machinery for giving thorough attention to, and taking effective action upon, a mass of intricate business vital to American interests in every country in the world.

The Department of State was an archaic and inadequate machine, lacking most of the attributes of the Foreign Office of any great modern power. With an appropriation made upon my recommendation by the Congress on Aug. 5, 1909, the Department of State was completely reorganized. There were created Divisions of Latin-American Affairs and of Far Eastern, Near Eastern, and Western European Affairs. To these divisions were called from the foreign service diplomatic and Consular officers possessing experience and knowledge gained by actual service in different parts of the world, and thus familiar with political and commercial conditions in the regions concerned. The work was highly specialized. The result is that where previously this Government from time to time would emphasize in its foreign relations one or another policy, now American interests in every quarter of the globe are being cultivated with equal assiduity. This principle of politico-geographical division possesses also the good feature of making possible rotation between the officers of the departmental, the diplomatic, and the Consular branches of the foreign service, and thus keeps the whole diplomatic and Consular establishments under the Department of State in close touch and equally inspired with the aims and policy of the Government. Through the newly created Division of Information the foreign service is kept fully informed of what transpires from day to day in the international relations of the country, and contemporary foreign comment affecting American interests is promptly brought to the attention of the department. The law offices of the department were greatly strengthened. There were added foreign trade advisers to co-operate with the diplomatic and Consular bureaus and the politico-geographical divisions in the innumerable matters where commercial diplomacy or Consular work calls for such special knowledge. The same officers, together with the rest of the new organization, are able at all times to give to American citizens accurate information as to conditions in foreign countries with which they have business, and likewise to co-operate more effectively with the Congress and also with the other executive departments.

Faithful to Merit System.

Expert knowledge and professional training must evidently be the essence of this reorganization. Without a trained foreign service there would not be men available for the work in the reorganized Department of State. President Cleveland had taken the first step toward introducing the merit system in the foreign service. That had been followed by the application of the merit principle, with excellent results, to the entire consular branch. Almost nothing, however, had been done in this direction with regard to the Diplomatic Service. In this age of commercial diplomacy it was evidently of the first importance to train an adequate personnel in that branch of the service. Therefore, on Nov. 26, 1909, by an executive order I placed the diplomatic service, up to the grade of Secretary of Embassy, inclusive, upon exactly the same strict non-partisan basis of the merit system, rigid examination for appointment and promotion only for efficiency, as had been maintained without exception in the consular service.

In order to assure to the business and other interests of the United States a continuance of the resulting benefits of this reform, I earnestly renew my previous recommendations of legislation making it permanent along some such lines as those of the measure now pending in Congress.

More Funds for Embassies Needed.

In connection with legislation for the amelioration of the foreign service, I wish to invite attention to the advisability of placing the salary appropriations upon a better basis. I believe that the best results would be obtained by a moderate scale of salaries, with adequate funds for the expenses of proper representation, based in each case upon the scale and cost of living at each post, controlled by a system of accounting, and under the general direction of the Department of State.

In line with the object which I have sought of placing our foreign service on a basis of permanency, I have at various times advocated provision by Congress for the acquisition of Government-owned buildings for the residence and offices of our diplomatic officers, so as to place them more nearly on an equality with similar officers of other nations and to do away with the discrimination which otherwise might necessarily be made, in some cases, in favor of men having large private fortunes.

In some Latin-American countries the expense of Government-owned legations will be less than elsewhere, and it is certainly very urgent that in such countries as some of the republics of Central America and the Caribbean, where it is peculiarly difficult to rent suitable quarters, the representatives of the United States should be justly and adequately provided with dignified and suitable official residences. Indeed, it is high time that the dignity and power of this great Nation should be fittingly signalized by proper buildings for the occupancy of the Nation's representatives everywhere abroad.

Diplomacy a Handmaid of Trade.

The diplomacy of the present Administration has sought to respond to modern ideas of commercial intercourse. This policy has been characterized as substituting dollars for bullets. It is one that appeals alike to idealistic humanitarian sentiments, to the dictates of sound policy and strategy, and to legitimate commercial aims. It is an effort frankly directed to the increase of American trade upon the axiomatic principle that the Government of the United States shall extend all proper support to every legitimate and beneficial American enterprise abroad. How great have been the results of this diplomacy, coupled with the maximum and minimum provision of the tariff law, will be seen by some consideration of the wonderful increase in the export trade of the United States. Because modern diplomacy is commercial there has been a disposition in some quarters to attribute to it none but materialistic aims. How strikingly erroneous is such an impression may be seen from a study of the results by which the diplomacy of the United States can be judged.

Successful Efforts for Peace.

In the field of work toward the ideals of peace this Government negotiated, but to my regret was unable to consummate, two arbitration treaties which set the highest mark of the aspiration of nations toward the substitution of arbitration and reason for war in the settlement of international disputes. Through the efforts of American diplomacy several wars have been prevented or ended. I refer to the successful tripartite mediation of the Argentine Republic, Brazil, and the United States between Peru and Ecuador; the bringing of the boundary dispute between Panama and Costa Rica to peaceful arbitration; the staying of warlike preparations when Haiti and the Dominican Republic were on the verge of hostilities; the stopping of a war in Nicaragua; the halting of internecine strife in Honduras. The Government of the United States was thanked for its influence toward the restoration of amicable relations between the Argentine Republic and Bolivia. The diplomacy of the United States is active in seeking to assuage the remaining ill-feeling between this country and the Republic of Colombia. In the recent civil war in China the United States successfully joined with the other interested powers in urging an early cessation of hostilities. An agreement has been reached between the Governments of Chile and Peru whereby the celebrated Tacna-Arica dispute, which has so long embittered international relations on the west coast of South America, has at last been adjusted. Simultaneously came the news that the boundary dispute between Peru and Ecuador had entered upon a stage of amicable settlement. The position of the United States in reference to the Tacna-Arica dispute between Chile and Peru has been one of non-intervention, but one of friendly influence and pacific counsel throughout the period during which the dispute in question has been the subject of interchange of views between this Government and the two Governments immediately concerned. In the general easing of international tension on the west coast of South America the tripartite mediation, to which I have referred, has been a most potent and beneficent factor.

In China the policy of encouraging financial investment to enable that country to help itself has had the result of giving new life and practical application to the open-door policy. The consistent purpose of the present Administration has been to encourage the use of American capital in the development of China by the promotion of those essential reforms to which China is pledged by treaties with the United States and other powers.

Central America Needs Our Aid.

In Central America the aim has been to help such countries as Nicaragua and Honduras to help themselves. They are the immediate beneficiaries. The National benefit to the United States is twofold. First, it is obvious that the Monroe Doctrine is more vital in the neighborhood of the Panama Canal and the zone of the Caribbean than anywhere else. There, too, the maintenance of that doctrine falls most heavily upon the United States. It is therefore essential that the countries within that sphere shall be removed from the jeopardy involved by heavy foreign debt and chaotic national finances and from the ever-present danger of international complications due to disorder at home. Hence the United States has been glad to encourage and support American bankers who were willing to lend a helping hand to the financial rehabilitation of such countries because this financial rehabilitation and the protection of their custom houses from being the prey of would-be dictators would remove at one stroke the menace of foreign creditors and the menace of revolutionary disorder.

The second advantage to the United States is one affecting chiefly all the Southern and Gulf ports and the business industry of the South. The republics of Central America and the Caribbean possess great natural wealth. They need only a measure of stability and the means of financial regeneration to enter upon an era of peace and prosperity, bringing profit and happiness to themselves and at the same time creating conditions sure to lead to a flourishing interchange of trade with this country.

I wish to call your especial attention to the recent occurrences in Nicaragua, for I believe the terrible events recorded there during the revolution of the past Summer—the useless loss of life, the devastation of property, the bombardment of defenseless cities, the killing and wounding of women and children, the torturing of non-combatants to exact contributions, and the suffering of thousands of human beings—might have been averted had the Department of State, through approval of the loan convention by the Senate, been permitted to carry out its now well-developed policy of encouraging the extending of financial aid to weak Central American States, with the primary objects of avoiding such revolutions by assisting the republics to rehabilitate their finances, to establish their currency on a stable basis, to remove the custom houses from the danger of revolutions by arranging for their secure administration, and to establish reliable banks.

Our Mexican Policy.

For two years revolution and counter-revolution have distraught the neighboring Republic of Mexico. Brigandage has involved a great deal of depredation upon foreign interests. There have constantly recurred questions of extreme delicacy. On several occasions very difficult situations have arisen on our frontier. Throughout this trying period the policy of the United States has been one of patient non-intervention, steadfast recognition of constituted authority in the neighboring nation, and the exertion of every effort to care for American interests. I profoundly hope that the Mexican nation may soon resume the path of order, prosperity, and progress. To that nation in its sore troubles the sympathetic friendship of the United States has been demonstrated to a high degree. There were in Mexico at the beginning of the revolution some 30,000 or 40,000 American citizens engaged in enterprises contributing greatly to the prosperity of that republic and also benefiting the important trade between the two countries. The investment of American capital in Mexico has been estimated at $1,000,000,000. The responsibility of endeavoring to safeguard those interests and the dangers inseparable from propinquity to so turbulent a situation have been great, but I am happy to have been able to adhere to the policy above outlined—a policy which I hope may be sson justified by the complete success of the Mexican people in regaining the blessings of peace and good order.

Increase of Foreign Trade.

In my last annual message I said that the fiscal year ended June 30, 1911, was noteworthy as marking the highest record of exports of American products to foreign countries. The fiscal year 1912 shows that this rate of advance has been maintained, the total domestic exports having a valuation approximately of $2,200,000,000, as compared with a fraction over $2,000,000,000 the previous year. It is also significant that manufactured and partly manufactured articles continue to be the chief commodities forming the volume of our augmented exports, the demands of our own people for consumption requiring that an increasing proportion of our abundant agricultural products be kept at home. In the fiscal year 1911 the exports of articles in the various stages of manufacture, not including foodstuffs partly or wholly manufactured, amounted approximately to $907,500,000. In the fiscal year 1912 the total was nearly $1,022,000,000, a gain of $114,000,000.

Maximum and Minimum Operation.

The importance which our manufactures have assumed in the commerce of the world in competition with the manufactures of other countries again draws attention to the duty of this Government to use its utmost endeavors to secure impartial treatment for American products in all markets. Healthy commercial rivalry in international intercourse is best assured by the possession of proper means for protecting and promoting our foreign trade. It is natural that competitive countries should view with some concern this steady expansion of our commerce. If in some instances the measures taken by them to meet it are not entirely equitable, a remedy should be found. In former messages I have described the negotiations of the Department of State with foreign Governments for the adjustment of the maximum and minimum tariff as provided in Section 2 of the tariff law of 1909. The advantages secured by the adjustment of our trade relations under this law have continued during the last year, and some additional cases of discriminatory treatment of which we had reason to complain have been removed. The Department of State has for the first time in the history of this country obtained substantial most-favored-nation treatment from all the countries of the world. There are, however, other instances which, while apparently not constituting undue discrimination in the sense of Section 2, are nevertheless exceptions to the complete equity of tariff treatment for American products that the Department of State consistently has sought to obtain for American commerce abroad.

Need for Additional Legislation.

These developments confirm the opinion conveyed to you in my annual message of 1911, that while the maximum and minimum provision of the tariff law of 1909 has been fully justified by the success achieved in removing previously existing undue discriminations against American products, yet experience has shown that this feature of the law should be amended in such a way as to provide a fully effective means of meeting the varying degrees of discriminatory treatment of American commerce in foreign countries still encountered, as well as to protect against injurious treatment on the part of foreign Governments, through either legislative or administrative measures, the financial interests abroad of American citizens whose enterprises enlarge the market for American commodities.

I cannot too strongly recommend to the Congress the passage of some such enabling measure as the bill which was recommended by the Secretary of State in his letter of Dec. 13, 1911. The object of the proposed legislation is, in brief, to enable the Executive to apply, as the case may require, to any or all commodities, whether or not on the free list, from a country which discriminates against the United States, a graduated scale of duties up to the maximum of 25 per cent. ad valorem provided in the present law. Flat tariffs are out of date. Nations no longer accord equal tariff treatment to all other nations irrespective of the treatment from them received. Such a flexible power at the command of the Executive would serve to moderate any unfavorable tendencies on the part of those countries from which the importations into the United States are substantially confined to articles on the free list as well as of the countries which find a lucrative market in the United States for their products under existing customs rates. It is very necessary that the American Government should be equipped with weapons of negotiation adapted to modern economic conditions, in order that we may at all times be in a position to gain not only technically just but actually equitable treatment for our trade, and also for American enterprise and vested interests abroad.

Trade Gains by Official Zeal.

As illustrating the commercial benefits to the Nation derived from the new diplomacy and its effectiveness upon the material as well as the more ideal side, it may be remarked that through direct official efforts alone there have been obtained in the course of this Administration, contracts from foreign Governments involving an expenditure of $50,000,000 in the factories of the United States. Consideration of this fact and some reflection upon the necessary effects of a scientific tariff system and a foreign service alert and equipped to co-operate with the business men of America carry the conviction that the gratifying increase in the export trade of this country is, in substantial amount, due to our improved governmental methods of protecting and stimulating it. It is germane to these observations to remark that in the two years that have elapsed since the successful negotiation of our new treaty with Japan, which at the time seemed to present so many practical difficulties, our export trade to that country has increased at the rate of over $1,000,000 a month. Our exports to Japan for the year ended June 30, 1910, were $21,959,310, while for the year ended June 30, 1912, the exports were $53,478,046, a net increase in the sale of American products of nearly 150 per cent.

Harmony with Other Nations.

[Here the President discussed various activities of the State Department. He said we were well on the way toward arbitration of pecuniary claims with Great Britain. The questions arising over the killing of seals are to be taken up in a special message later. The century old North Atlantic fisheries dispute with Great Britain has been settled amicably.

He urged action by Congress to carry out the obligations of the United States under the international agreement for the suppression of the trade in narcotics.

He reported that the Government had maintained strict neutrality in the war in the Near East, only taking precautions for the protection of American citizens.

He reviewed the recent revolution in China and the measures taken for an international loan, but said nothing on the subject of recognition of the Chinese republic by the United States.

He also reported the best of feeling in the relations of the United States to the South American republics. The activity of the State Department in helping to keep order in Panama, Cuba, and Santo Domingo was reviewed. Attention was called to the fact that Great Britain was pressing for a settlement of its financial claims against Guatemala and the necessity for action which would permit the State Department to take action similar to that desired in Nicaragua.]

Needs of Our Foreign Trade.

It is not possible to make to the Congress a communication upon the present foreign relations of the United States so detailed as to convey an adequate impression of the enormous increase in the importance and activities of those relations. If this Government is really to preserve to the American people that free opportunity in foreign markets which will soon be indispensable to our prosperity, even greater efforts must be made. Otherwise the American merchant, manufacturer, and exporter will find many a field in which American trade should logically predominate preempted through the more energetic efforts of other governments and other commercial nations.

There are many ways in which through hearty co-operation the legislative and executive branches of this Government can do much. The absolute essential is the spirit of united effort and singleness of purpose. I will allude to a very few specific examples of action which ought then to result. America cannot take its proper place in the most important fields for its commercial activity and enterprise unless we have a merchant marine. American commerce and enterprise cannot be effectively fostered in those fields unless we have good American banks in the countries referred to. We need American newspapers in those countries and proper means for public information about them. We need to assure the permanency of a trained foreign service. We need legislation enabling the members of the foreign service to be systematically brought in direct contact with the industrial, manufacturing, and exporting interests of this country, in order that American business men may enter the foreign field with a clear perception of the exact conditions to be dealt with and the officers themselves may prosecute their work with a clear idea of what American industrial and manufacturing interests require.

Our Middle Age as a Nation.

Congress should fully realize the conditions which obtain in the world as we find ourselves at the threshold of our middle age as a Nation. We have emerged full grown as a peer in the great concourse of nations. We have passed through various formative periods. We have been self-centred in the struggle to develop our domestic resources and deal with our domestic questions. The Nation is now too mature to continue in its foreign relations those temporary expedients natural to a people to whom domestic affairs are the sole concern. In the past our diplomacy has often consisted, in normal times, in a mere assertion of the right to international existence. We are now in a larger relation, with broader rights of our own and obligations to others than ourselves. A number of great guiding principles were laid down early in the history of this Government. The recent task of our diplomacy has been to adjust those principles to the conditions of to-day, to develop their corollaries, to find practical applications of the old principles expanded to meet new situations. Thus are being evolved bases upon which can rest the superstructure of policies which must grow with the destined progress of this Nation. The successful conduct of our foreign relations demands a broad and a modern view. We cannot meet new questions nor build for the future if we confine ourselves to outworn dogmas of the past and to the perspective appropriate at our emergence from colonial times and conditions. The opening of the Panama Canal will mark a new era in our international life and create new and world-wide conditions which, with their vast correlations and consequences, will obtain for hundreds of years to come. We must not wait for events to overtake us unawares. With continuity of purpose, we must deal with the problems of our external relations by a diplomacy modern, resourceful, magnanimous, and fittingly expressive of the high ideals of a great nation.

ONLY TWO SENATE BOLTERS.

Most of the Old Republicans to Attend Party Caucus.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Indications to-day point to a reunited Republican Party in the Senate with the exception of two votes. Senator Joseph M. Dixon of Montana and Senator Miles Poindexter of Washington—both of them declared Progressives—alone will remain outside the caucus. Even Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin is expected to enter the caucus rather than to align himself with the two declared supporters of Col. Roosevelt. In spite of the large popular vote polled by Col. Roosevelt, only one Progressive Senator will be added to his following in the new Congress—George W. Norris of Nebraska, who was designated on the Bull Moose ticket.

This reuniting of the party does not, however, insure the election of Senator Jacob E. Gallinger as President pro tempore. The defection of 4 votes is enough to destroy the Republican majority just now, and in addition to Mr. Poindexter and Mr. Dixon, Senator Bristow of Kansas, in spite of his intention to enter the caucus, has declared for Senator Moses E. Clapp of Minnesota. Some of Mr. La Follette's friends say that he will not support Mr. Gallinger. The hope of the leaders to reach an election depends on winning over Mr. Bristow or Mr. La Follette, or in getting a few Democrats to absent themselves.

TO ASK WILSON FOR TARIFF COMMISSION

National Association Votes to Meet in Washington and Appeal to New Congress.

COMMENDS THE LAST BOARD

Trusts President-Elect and Democratic Leaders to Make Reductions with Care.

The Directors of the National Tariff Commission Association, an organization representing the Chambers of Commerce and business interests of cities in forty-four States, held a meeting at the rooms of the Merchants' Association here yesterday, and advocated legislation by Congress to create a permanent non-partisan tariff commission, responsible both to Congress and the President, to gather, tabulate, digest and report technical and statistical facts concerning the tariff schedules for use in the framing of new tariff laws.

It was admitted that the recent election had demonstrated above all that the incoming Congress had been instructed by the country unequivocally to work for tariff reduction. The existing tariff system was declared absurd, useful only "as a political football for campaign purposes" and "eminently fitted to throw dust in the eyes of the voters and give them what they did not vote for."

It was voted to call a convention at Washington, probably in the early days of the new Congress, to agitate and lay before the Congress and the new President the need of the tariff commission. President John Candler Cobb, in his report calling for a commission to be named by Congress, said:

"It is not a question of men. Our Congressmen are of high average ability, and most of them are hard and earnest workers. Nor is it a question of party. The Democratic Wilson bill was just as bad as the Republican Dingley bill, and the present Democratic House last Summer, while railing at its Republican predecessor for the Payne-Aldrich trade, proceeded to trade its tariff bills through the Senate in the same old way.

"The Tariff Board which went out of existence last June was a very interesting and enlightening experiment. Created by the President under entirely inadequate legislation, wrung from an unwilling Republican Congress, and repudiated by a hostile Democratic Congress, it was foredoomed to be handicapped as a test of the results of a properly created, non-partisan tariff commission responsible to Congress. Congress is the tariff-making body, and no commission or board can fulfill its destiny until it is squarely and fully accepted by Congress as a part of its tariff-making machinery.

"Notwithstanding its anomalous position, the board during its short life produced reports on certain schedules which, however they may be criticised, are admittedly the most comprehensive reports that have ever been made, and it is safe to say that they will be studied and considered in any future revision. Although the Tariff Board has been and will be criticised, and it would be astonishing indeed if such a complex piece of work in an entirely new field were above criticism, it is perfectly manifest that the country at large believes it was a step in the right direction.

"That many reductions can be made to the distinct advantage of the country without serious injury to the business of the country is the very general belief, in which I concur. But, as in war, an orderly retreat is the most difficult manoeuvre, so the Democratic party is faced with the most difficult and complex tariff problem that has been presented in our generation. We are faced with conditions which may well be viewed with alarm. The widespread feeling that our present tariff has many features which are unjust and burdensome naturally results in a demand from the unthinking and emotional for a radical, drastic and even retaliatory revision of the tariff, which could only result in far-reaching business disorganization and calamity.

"But there seems to be good basis for the belief that our newly elected President and the strongest leaders of the Democratic party fully appreciate the conditions and stand for an orderly and careful revision. To hew to the line and give such proper reductions as are demanded by the country without overstepping it and causing business unrest and calamity is a difficult but not impossible task. To bring this about is the desire of every thinking man in the country. It can never be brought about by personal appeals for protection by interested individuals to Congressmen who properly distrust them, and can only be accomplished by a general public discussion and analysis of proposed legislation and the methods of Congress, in which our association is peculiarly positioned to lead."

Among the officers of the association present at the meeting yesterday were: John Candler Cobb of Boston; J. J. Culbertson of Paris, Tex.; Charles M. Jarvis of the American Hardware Corporation, New Britain, Conn.; Alba B. Johnson, President of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia; John Kirby, Jr., of the Dayton Motor Works, Dayton, Ohio; H. E. Miles of Racine, Wis.; D. M. Parry of the Parry Automobile Works, Indianapolis, Ind.; Dr. E. V. Robinson of the University of Minnesota; Francis T. Simmons of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and Henry R. Towne, President of the New York Merchants' Association.

Belmont May Head Democratic Clubs.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—After organizing and listening to reports on the work during the year of State clubs, the third annual meeting of the National League of Democratic Clubs adjourned until to-morrow, to await a report from the Resolutions Committee. It is predicted that Perry Belmont of New York will be elected President.

For $10,000 Presidential Pension.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Retirement of the President of the United States as Commander in Chief of the Army at $10,000 a year was proposed in a bill to-day by Senator McCumber. It also would pension widows of former Presidents, while they remain unmarried, at $5,000 a year.

TWO NATIONAL BUDGET PLANS

Taft's Approval of Commission's Idea Considered Uncertain.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Representative John J. Fitzgerald, Chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations, had a talk with President Taft to-day regarding the proposed innovation of a National budget recommended in the report of Frederick A. Cleveland, Chairman of the President's Commission on Economy and Efficiency, now being considered by Mr. Taft, and soon to be transmitted to Congress.

Mr. Fitzgerald learned from Mr. Taft that the recommendations of the Cleveland commission will be sent to the Capitol in the next two weeks, with a message from the President. The extent to which President Taft would indorse the Cleveland budget plan in its entirety was not disclosed to Mr. Fitzgerald, who when he left the White House, had the impression that the President had not made up his mind on that point.

The budget plan has friends in Congress, but it will be opposed vigorously. Representative Swager Sherley of the House Appropriations Committee will advocate the adoption of a National budget, but along lines different from the plan of the Cleveland commission.

Under the Sherley plan a Budget Committee would be appointed, consisting of the Chairmen of all the committees now authorized to report appropriations bills in the House. That committee would be authorized to outline the fiscal policy of the Government at the beginning of each regular session of Congress, determine the sum to be appropriated for all purposes, and apportion the amounts which each of the Appropriation Committees should not exceed in reporting their respective supply bills.

STOOD TO WIN BOTH WAYS.

Pennsylvania Delegates Had Dinner Coming with Either Candidate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Members of the Pennsylvania delegation were pleased to learn to-day that Representative J. Francis Burke, Republican, of Pittsburgh, had lost an election bet to Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, Democrat, of Stroudsburg. They admitted, however, that it was not the political significance that aroused their enthusiasm. They would have been equally pleased had Mr. Palmer lost, as the wager was for a dinner to the entire delegation, the loser to pay.

Mr. Burke bet that the Republican delegation from Pennsylvania would be increased by the last election. Instead of this the Democratic Congressmen made heavy gains. Mr. Burke is preparing his invitations.

STILL THIRD NAVAL POWER.

United States Pressed by France Even for That Position.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The United States remains in third place among the naval powers, and as a result of the curtailment of the naval construction programme in the last session of Congress France becomes a more formidable rival for the position this country holds. A chart just issued by the Office of Naval Intelligence of the Navy Department names the naval powers in the following order, the position of each being based on tonnage of warships built and building: Great Britain, Germany, United States, France, Japan, Russia, Italy, and Austria.

Although the United States has five battleships of the dreadnought type building or authorized, France has seven. Those figures are considered significant as indicating the proposal to develop the strength of the French Navy. That republic has no dreadnoughts in commission.

The sea strength of the United States, including vessels built and building, consists of thirteen dreadnoughts, twenty-five battleships, eleven armored cruisers, fifteen cruisers, fifty-six destroyers, twenty torpedo boats, forty-seven submarines, and four coast defense vessels.

That of France is seven dreadnoughts, twenty battleships, twenty-one armored cruisers, ten cruisers, eighty-four destroyers, 157 torpedo boats, eighty-nine submarines, and no coast defense vessels.

In the relative order of warship tonnage of vessels building and completed, the United States has 898,345, against 806,726 for France. Great Britain has 2,478,152; Germany, 1,124,257. The warship tonnage of the others in the relative order is: Japan, 613,724; Russia, 436,207; Italy, 416,310; Austria, 260,751.

HARPER & BROTHERS

RYAN'S EXPLANATION OF M'NAMARA LETTER

It Referred to "Legitimate Means," Not Dynamite, Says Ironworkers' President.

EXPLOSIONS FOLLOWED IT

Witness Admits Telling Agent to "Delay or Add to the Cost" of Non-Union Jobs.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 3.—Letters written by Frank M. Ryan, President of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers, were read in conjunction with dates of explosions in the cross-examination of Ryan by the Government at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial to-day.

Ryan testified that his knowledge of numerous explosions which occurred after he had written a letter from New York was gained entirely through newspaper accounts. He said that these accounts of explosions on non-union jobs were often inclosed in letters as news.

Extracts from the New York letter which Ryan testified he wrote on April 27, 1910, as head of the union, to Secretary John J. McNamara were:

"Let Legleitner take care of the jobs in his district." (Henry W. Legleitner, now of Denver, was then a member of the Executive Board, stationed at Pittsburgh. An explosion occurred at McKee's Rocks, near Pitsburgh, in July, 1910.)

"Let Hockin arrange for Cleveland, Cincinnati, and Detroit jobs." (Herbert S. Hockin is chrged with being leader of the "dynamiting crew." An explosion occurred at Cleveland on June 22 of that year.)

"Davenport, Iowa, and Peoria can be handled by Hockin." (Explosions occurred at Davenport and Peoria on June 4.)

"What did you mean when you said, 'Let Legleitner and Hockin take care of those jobs'?" asked District Attorney Miller.

"I meant they were to use every legitimate means to have union men put to work," answered Ryan.

Before an explosion on a bridge at Dayton, Ohio, which Edward Clark, union official in Cincinnati confessed to having caused, Ryan said he sent Hockin to Cincinnati. Clark in his confession said Hockin furnished the dynamite for the explosion. Ryan asserted that he gave no instructions to Hockin about dynamite.

"How soon after an explosion on a bridge in Cincinnati in May, 1909, did Clark call you up?" Ryan was asked.

"Possibly a few days, but he gave me no details about an explosion."

Asserting that he had no intention that violence should be used, Ryan said, that, through a request from W. Bert Brown, a union business agent, he sent Hockin to Kansas City before an explosion on a bridge there in August, 1910.

In explaining a letter to Michael J. Cunnane, business agent in Philadelphia, giving instructions to handle non-union job "in any way that will delay or add to the cost of it," Ryan said his only purpose was to have union men taken off other jobs under construction by the same contractor.

The Government read this extract from a letter written from Dallas, Texas, in 1910, to McNamara by Philip A. Cooley of New Orleans, who is charged with having urged that explosions take place in the South. "I agree with you to postpone the proposition so I can get some pointers from you, and there will be no effects."

"Did you receive letters from Cooley about arrangements to blow up jobs?" asked Mr. Miller.

"I never received a letter from Cooley about blowing up anything," answered Ryan.

Asked what was meant when Frank C. Webb of New York wrote to him: "Your confidence in me you may never fear, for I never did believe in talking too much in cases of this kind," Ryan said it referred only to arrangements for unionizing jobs in New York.

Ryan admitted that he had acknowledged the receipt of a newspaper clipping from John Golden, President of the United Textile Workers of America, about an explosion on a bridge at Fall River, Mass., in 1908, and had replied that he "read the clipping with interest." He said the Ironworkers' Union furnished $10,000 bond for George O'Donnel, who was accused of the dynamiting, and that the union also paid O'Donnell money after he had been convicted. "We sent him about $1,000 because we considered he was being persecuted," said Ryan.

"Did you ever make an investigation of The Los Angeles Times explosion, in which twenty-one persons were murdered?" asked Mr. Miller.

"Yes; I tried to find out how it happened."

"And yet you re-elected J. J. McNamara as Secretary of the union after he was arrested?"

"Yes."

"And you had Hockin as Secretary until yesterday?"

"Yes."

Ryan's cross-examination will be resumed to-morrow.

Congressman Conry Injured.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Representative Michael Conry of New York, was removed to a hospital here to-day, suffering from an injury to his leg, received in fall Saturday. A preliminary examination failed to disclose the extent of the injury, and to-morrow it will be subjected t othe X-Ray.

RAILROAD FIREMEN MODIFY DEMANDS

Voluntary Concessions as to Overtime and Extra Men on Freight Engines.

WOULD AVOID ARBITRATION

Confer with Corporations' Committee in Conciliatory Spirit to Save Such Delay as in Engineers' Case.

The adjustment committee of fifty-two, representing the firemen on the Eastern railroads, had modified its demands when it met the conference ocommittee of the railroads yesterday at the Engineering Societies Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street, and a conciliatory spirit prevailed. The modifications related to the demands for overtime and an assistant fireman on all coal-burning locomotives in freight service.

The modified overtime demand reads:

> Overtime will be paid pro rata in all classes of service except passenger service (but including suburban service) on a vasis of one mile for each six minutes. Except as otherwise specified, the basis on which overtime from all classes of service will be computed will be ten hours or 100 miles. Miles and hours will not be counted together; but where miles exceed hours, miles will be allowed, and where hours exceed miles, hours will be allowed.

This means straight time instead of time and a half for overtime.

The original demand for two firemen on all coal-burning locomotives in freight service is changed to a demand that two firemen be assigned only to engines weighing 170,000 pounds or more on drivers, when used in freight service, and on all engines weighing 140,000 pounds or more on drivers when used in freight service on runs of 100 miles or more.

Elisha Lee, the new Chairman of the conference committee of the railroads, presided at the conference. W. S. Carter, President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, bore the brunt of the discussion for the firemen. The committees will meet again this morning and will confer every day until a conclusion is reached, unless there is some hitch to bring the meetings to an unexpected end. There did not appear to be any indication of this yesterday.

The firemen's committee, in view of the length of time consumed in the arbitration of the engineers' demands, want to avoid arbitration and will try to settle matters themselves. It is thought the award in the case of the engineers will be made a basis for settlement of the firemen's demands.

WILLIAMS PRAISES JEFFERSON'S WORK

He Saw More Clearly the Future of the Republic Than Federalists, He Declares.

NCT FORMED BY ROUSSEAU

His Views Largely Independent and Shaped by Environment—First of a Series of Lectures.

Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi spoke to a large body of students in Schermerhorn Hall, Columbia University, yesterday afternoon, on "The Permanent Influence of Jefferson on American Institutions," beginning the series of seven lectures of the George Blumenthal Foundation.

In introducing Senator Williams, President Butler said that the subject of his lectures had not been chosen without malice aforethought. There was a great deal of talk about American politics, he explained, but there were few who understood its fundamentals and origins. The course of lectures, therefore, was intended to introduce to the students the great personalities behind the Constitution. When Senator Williams, several years ago, made known his intention of devoting to a study of the life and work of Jefferson, the time intervening between his term in the House of Representatives and the Senate, President Butler said that he had then decided to ask the Senator to come to Columbia and lecture.

The remarks of Senator Williams were intended to lay the groundwork for his succeeding lectures. He said at the outset that he had undertaken a study of the life of Jefferson, because no life of him had been written. A number of books had been written about him, and among them there were about twenty nominal lives, but the authors of these, declared Senator Williams, were either "blind eulogists or the descendants of federalists who hated him."

"Readers of Jefferson's writings and the writings of his contemporaries will admit," said Senator Williams, "that the secret of his power was that he saw infinitely deeper into the workings of the new Republic and its future order than did the Federalists who opposed his theories."

The personalty of Jefferson, as shown by Senator Williams, was shaped largely by his environment. He was a Virginian and a planter, living on the frontier in surroundings that left ingrained in him a reliance upon himself and independence of thought. Contrary to the criticism that has often been made of him, Senator Williams found no evidence of the influence of Rousseau on the mind of Jefferson.

With extracts from many letters and documents at hand to support his contention, Senator Williams told the Columbia students that the Committee of Correspondence of the House of Burgesses, which spread the seed of the Revolution throughout the Colonies, had, in reality, found its prototype in Boston, rather than in Virginia, where Jefferson, Henry, and others of advanced opinions later adopted this method of spreading political intelligence. And the Committee of Correspondence, he declared, though a self-constituted authority, in reality shaped the course of the Revolution during the inter-regnum of British and Colonial authority. Their function was very similar to that of the Ku-Klux in the South during the Reconstruction period.

A discussion of Jefferson's "Summary View of the Rights of British America," written for the instruction of the delegates to the Colonial Congress, ante-dating by two years the Declaration of Independence, embodied practically all the fundamental principles of the Declaration, Senator Williams said. Because of his exceedingly bold statements in the "Summary View," the speaker said that he wondered that Jefferson had not been proscribed, especially when he went so far as to present in the form of an open resolution a declaration approving of the execution of Charles I.

"It was years after John Dickinson's famous address favoring revolution, which was received with hurrahs all over the country," said Senator Williams, "before the people knew that Jefferson had a hand in it. The last four paragraphs of Dickinson's speech were written by Jefferson, and they were the pith of the whole."

The subject of Senator Williams's lecture this afternoon will be "Jefferson, the Revolutionist."

FOR A NEW SERVICE BOARD.

Tammany Reported Favoring Three-Man Body—Anxious About Chairman.

Local politicians are beginning to wonder just what Gov-elect Sulzer will do when the term of William R. Willcox, Chairman of the Public Service Commission of the First District, expires on Feb. 1. Tammany is casting anxious eyes at the job, and it was said yesterday that considerable pressure was already being brought to bear on Mr. Sulzer to have him name a man favorable to Fourteenth Street to succeed Mr. Willcox. Tammany already has two members of the commission it considers favorable to it, J. Sergeant Cram and George V. S. Williams, and it feels that if it had one more it would be much more secure.

The Searchlight, the official organ of the Citizens' Union, published yesterday, contains an article pointing out that the official estimate of subway contracts now being prepared for letting is $277,186,000. Tammany, it was said, was also looking longingly at thirty-two subordinates in the employ of the commission whose annual salaries total $125,000. These positions are not protected by civil service rules and would come in mighty handy as patronage on the eve of a municipal election.

There was gossip in political circles yesterday that Tammany has a plan which it will present to the next Legislature to abolish the present Public Service Commission and provide for another which shall consist of but three members. The excuse for legislating the present commission out of existence, it was said, would be that a commission of three members would be much more economical than the present one.

DOROTHY ARNOLD'S FATE.

Mother Believes She Was a White Slave Victim, Says J. L. Laidlaw.

F. R. Arnold, the father of Dorothy Arnold, refused to add yesterday to the statement made by James Lees Laidlaw on Monday night to the effect that the Arnold family now realized that Miss Arnold might have been a white slave victim. News of the recurrence of the subject in the newspapers was kept from Mrs. Arnold, who, according to one of the employes in the household, was extremely nervous with the approach of the end of the second year of Miss Arnold's disappearance.

When Mr. Laidlaw was asked yesterday what further information he had as to the final theory of the disappearance accepted in the Arnold home he said:

"Mrs. Arnold believes that the worst has happened to Dorothy. She admits, of course, that she has no definite proof of her daughter's fate, but she would rather have her dead than believe that she had been living under duress for these two years. The Arnold family is of the opinion, as we all are, that Dorothy must have been kidnapped in Central Park, undoubtedly by means of a taxicab or one of those night-hawk cabs.

"I am certain that the family has no definite information as to where the poor girl was taken or what eventually became of her, but the fact that she has not communicated with her family is to them conclusive proof that she is dead."

FRANKO TO LEAD AT McALPIN.

Salary Officially Announced as $30,000 a Year for Two Years.

It was announced yesterday by the management of the Hotel McAlpin that Nahan Franko, formerly orchestra leader at the Plaza, had signed a two-years' contract with the new hotel to conduct its orchestra and have charge of its musical features.

There will be between thirty-five and forty pieces in the musical force of the McAlpin, divided among the grill room, restaurant and the tea room. In the tea room the music will be a special feature.

It was said by the management yesterday that Franko's salary was to be $30,000 a year. Charley Mercier said Franko told him that was the biggest salary ever paid any musical conductor except Toscanini. Franko announced after the other announcement that he had engaged for New Year's Eve the Seventh Regiment Band and the Royal Neapolitan Players.

DR. JANEWAY BOUGHT A SEAT FOR WISNER

Paid Half the Cost, and Stock Broker, Son-in-Law, Presumes an Uncle Paid the Other Half.

MONEY NOT TO BE REPAID

Appraiser Excludes This Asset from Janeway Estate, Which Figures $461,449 Net.

Dr. Edward G. Janeway, the noted specialist, who died Feb. 10, 1911, paid $44,000 in June, 1906, as his share of the $87,000 purchase price of a seat on the New York Stock Exchange for his son-in-law, William T. Wisner, 2d, who had married his daughter Matilda on Dec. 14, 1901. Testimony about this payment given in the hearings to appraise his estate under the inheritance tax law resulted in eliminating it as an asset of the estate. Mr. Wisner testified that it had been arranged before Dr. Janeway gave him a check for this amount that half of the price of the seat was to be paid by an uncle, whose name was not given.

Mr. Wisner declared that Dr. Janeway had signed an absolute release of any claim to a repayment of the $44,000. He said that this was necessary under the rules of the Stock Exchange, which compelled applicants to state that they paid for their seats out of their own means. This provision in the Stock Exchange regulations had been upheld in the courts in suits for reinstatement brought by members who were ousted after it appeared that they had acquired membership with borrowed money.

Mrs. Wisner and her mother, Mrs. Frances R. Janeway, both testified that the advance of $44,000 to Mr. Wisner was an absolute gift. Mr. Wisner said that it was understood, however, that he was, if able, to pay 5 per cent. on the $44,000 to Dr. Janeway during his life.

Dr. Janeway's gross estate was appraised at $481,500, and his net estate at $461,449 in the official report filed yesterday. Of this nearly $250,000 was in real estate in the City of New York. He held free from incumbrance 36 West Fortieth Street, which was assessed the year before his death at $139,000. The appraiser valued this at $135,000. He also held, subject to mortgages, 42, 44, and 46 West Forty-eighth Street, assessed by the city at $45,000, $44,000, and $43,000, respectively, and which the Inheritance Tax Appraiser valued at $50,000 each. There were mortgages and interest charges against the properties of $15,139, $10,078, and $15,067, which made the corresponding equities $34,860, $39,921, and $34,932.

Among his personal property were a number of claims for professional services, $15 from J. Boehm, $100 from the J. H. Saunders estate, $75 from W. R. Bachman, $75 from Mrs. E. McManus, $13 from W. Barnes, $10 from H. L. Gillespie, $90 from the Sarah J. French estate, and $1,560 of other claims, of which the executors declared $410 to be absolutely uncollectible.

Dr. Janeway's furniture and household effects were appraised at $1,486, his books and medical apparatus at $460, his horses and carriages at $325, and his wagonette at $60. He held two mortgages for $15,177 and $16,141, and two promissory notes of his brother, Dr. George H. Janeway, which amounted, with interest, to $527 and $521, respectively.

The remainder of the estate was made up of securities. His bond holdings included $7,800 of Lackawanna, $2,980 of General Electric, and $4,500 of Standard Roller Bearing. His stock holdings were $31,906 of Pennsylvania Railroad, $16,940 of General Electric, $15,641 of Consolidated Gas, $9,000 of Baltimore & Ohio, $9,375 of Union Pacific, $10,250 of Santa Fé, $11,900 of United States Steel, $12,500 United New Jersey Canals, $1,050 City Club Realty, $8,992 New Haven, and $26,200 New York City corporate stock.

MEMORIAL FOR PARKMAKER.

City Club Would Recognize Services of Frederick Law Olmsted.

The trustees of the City Club will shortly appoint a committee which will undertake to see that there shall be some commemoration of the service rendered to New York by the late Frederick Law Olmsted, who designed and created Central Park. Mr. Olmsted died in 1903, and there has never been a memorial erected in his honor either in Central Park or elsewhere. As far as the City Club has been able to learn no steps have been taken to provide such a memorial.

Interested members of the club are urged to send their names to the club's secretary as an indication of their willingness to serve on what will be known as the Olmsted Memorial Committee. In a letter sent out yesterday President Charles H. Strong says:

"In 1856 New York City purchased the site of Central Park. In the year following Frederick Law Olmsted, urged by his friends and supported by Washington Irving, was appointed Park Superintendent and began the work of transforming waste land, reeking with the overflow of sties, slaughter houses and bone boiling works, into the most famous park in the Nation. The park plan submitted under the pseudonym of Greensward by Olmsted and his friend, Calvert Vaux, was adopted in 1858."

MARSHALL LAUDS HIS COOK.

More Necessary Than a Governor, He Tells Indiana Women.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 3.—"Good cooks are more necessary than Governors," said Gov. Thomas R. Marshall today in his address on "the personal touch" before the local council of women.

"I do not think there is any one in this world, aside from my wife, that is more competent than my cook," he went on. "I think she is well educated. I don't suppose she would be received at many of the social functions, but she does her work as it should be done. There is not a working woman in this city who is doing an honest work that is not more important to this State than the Governor.

"All I have to do is to hold an office, draw a salary and get mad at anyone I don't like. The workers are the ones upon whom our institutions rest."

25,000 Fine Suits and Overcoats at a Saving in Each of from $5 to $22.50

—and These Garments Are Fresh From the Hands of Men Who Are Masters of Style and Fit

One fact that can't be too often dwelt upon:

This is not a clearance sale, or anything of that character.

The Hackett-Carhart stocks are unlike any other sales stocks ever offered.

No season's leavings are here—no wholesalers' or retailers' remnants.

Instead, there are 25,000 of the choicest garments ever created—the very cream of the present season's production.

Every fabric style that is most sought is here in its finest variations, and in the widest assortments imaginable.

Chinchilla overcoats, for example, are being held at a premium by other stores fortunate enough to have a stock. But they're here in plenty at the Hackett-Carhart stores—and all at the same splendid savings.

All the correct and most popular models, too, are to be had in a wealth of fashionable patterns and mixtures. Shawl Collar Coats—in high demand and scant supply elsewhere—are here in splendid profusion.

And today, when top prices are being asked in every other clothes shop—when a full season's service is to be had from every garment now purchased—the Hackett-Carhart prices are lower than would ordinarily be possible at the season's end.

You might wait until Spring before you make your next clothes selection. Even then, you couldn't begin to duplicate Hackett-Carhart clothes at today's Hackett-Carhart prices.

The reason for this is the recent receivership—and the settlement with creditors at 50 cents on the dollar. Which sacrifice is exactly proportionate to your saving.

You will Save Many Dollars by buying your Christmas Piano at the

"Pease" Sale of Used Pianos

The Only Sale of Its Kind Held During the Year, and Absolutely the Biggest Values Ever Offered for Reliable Pianos.

THIS is not a sale of old pianos gathered together for the occasion in a dull season, but is our Annual Clearance Sale of our own and other good makes held right at the holiday season when the greatest number of pianos are purchased.

For 68 years the "Pease" name has stood for piano reliability, and we guarantee each and every piano, and will allow the full purchase price within one year from date toward the purchase of any new Pease Piano if desired.

The Reason for This Sale.

The Pease Piano Co. do the largest rental business of any firm in this city, and as we do not rent to public places, but mostly to the home and to musicians, we must keep our rental stock like new; therefore we hold a clearance sale of our entire rental stock once a year and offer them at prices that should sell every one within forty-eight hours.

It will be seen that the majority of these pianos are of our own make and are NOT EXCHANGED pianos which have been given up because unsatisfactory, which is the only basis for many sales of used pianos, but which are in reality sales of abused pianos.

We hold only one sale of pianos each year and the quick way in which these many fine bargains are bought by the public shows their appreciation of the WONDERFUL VALUES, the LOW PRICES and the VERY EASY PAYMENTS.

Please note that this is the only sale of this magnitude that is held in the city each year by a piano manufacturer, and also note that they are mostly our own pianos. A partial list of the pianos follows:—

Orientals

The Largest Specialty Rug House in America.

A Modern Curse

"Introduced into the East by Europeans," is the label put upon the deadliest scourge that has ever attacked Oriental rugs.

Anilin dye, made from coal tar, is this plague which has threatened the rug-weaving countries of the East.

Where its use has progressed unchecked, it has meant the murder of the art of Oriental rug dyeing.

For the old vegetable dyes of the Far East are the life blood of Oriental rugs.

Their increasing softness year by year—their salutary action on the wool—has had as much to do with the art of the rug-weaver as his own wonderful designs.

It requires a genuine expert to detect the anilin dyes in any Oriental rug.

Even an expert is sometimes deceived.

Many thousands of rugs have come through the New York Custom House, from Persia, Turkey and India, in which anilin dyes were used.

Even the golden, sunglow yellow of antique Chinese rugs is being grossly counterfeited — soon to fade and streak and wash away, leaving a dirty yellow smudge on the disintegrating wool.

It is a pleasure to consider the matter from which the famous old Turkey reds are made; the Persian berries responsible for the yellows; the curious vegetables from the garden patch of the Persian weaver, used for his favorite blues, or browns, or clarets.

The Persian government, to perpetuate its rug industries, recently has confiscated thousands of bales of rugs intended for this market, because of anilin dyes.

How are you, as a purchaser, to be protected?

By a house whose reputation, discretion and permanence are established beyond doubt.

Wild's Orientals are chosen with a full knowledge of the conditions in the East.

For sixty years this house has been a landmark in the trade.

The Wild guarantee with every rug is not an empty phrase—it has a zealously guarded reputation back of it.

SPLENDID PROSPECTS FOR TITANIC BENEFIT

Programme Includes Simone, Nazimova, Viola Allen, Faversham, and John Mason.

$1,000 FROM MRS. CARNEGIE

Every Box at the Century Theatre Sold—Army and Navy Officers to Sell Candy.

Mrs. John Hays Hammond was one of the busiest women in New York yesterday, owing to the work of getting into shape the details for the benefit performance for the Woman's Titanic Memorial, which is to be given at the Century Theatre on Friday afternoon, under the auspices of the combined theatre managers of New York. Mrs. William H. Taft, wife of the President, is coming on from Washington to-day to be with Mrs. Hammond at the Belmont until after the performance. The President will be unable to come to New York.

"The outlook for the performance is splendid," said Mrs. Hammond yesterday before going to attend a rehearsal of one of the numbers on the programme. "The tickets are selling fast. Mrs. Andrew Carnegie paid $1,000 for a box. The others are all sold, and we could have sold three times as many as there are. We now have the programme completed.

"Mme. Nazimova, with her company, will give a scene from Ibsen's 'The Master Builder.' Mme. Simone will appear, and so will Miss Billie Burke. Willie Collier and George Cohan will give a new skit, which is very funny, and in which there will be ten pianos on the stage. Mrs. Alice Fischer Harcourt will do Grace Livingston Furness's 'Mrs. Jack,' which has been compressed into a one-act piece."

She told of many more features, including a pantomime to end the show.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Alexander have taken entire charge of the coloring of the pantomime, and Mrs. Alexander is attending to the costumes. The lobby of the theatre will be in charge of Mrs. George J. Gould, Mrs. James Speyer, Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, and Mrs. William A. Hamilton, who will be assisted in selling programmes by a bevy of this season's débutantes.

The fund for the Memorial now totals $31,000, of which $10,000 was raised last Summer at Gloucester, Mass. The women of Bolivia asked, through our State Department, to be allowed to contribute a solid brick of Bolivian silver. Mrs. Hammond added:

"This is the first time in the history of our material country that a monument will have been erected to an ideal. It is surely as splendid a thing to help lift the standards of a people in this way as to put up hospitals. A great many sculptors have offered to submit designs for the memorial in the competition which will be held."

OBJECTS TO CHAIN STORES.

Like Buyers' Syndicates, Merchants Call Them in Restraint of Trade.

That buyers' syndicates and chain stores, which, it is said, are closely akin, are more of a menace to manufacturers and distributors of the various lines of dry goods than they care to admit, is the opinion of some widely experienced wholesale operators. One well-known merchant, who, for obvious reasons, will not be quoted, says of them:

"These syndicates are not only a menace to the manufacturer and the wholesaler, but they work entirely against the best interests of the public and the smaller retailer who is not a member of one of them. As a rule, these combinations have jobbing departments in connection with their business. They also maintain packing departments, and in this way manage to squeeze unscrupulously all who come in contact with them. They are obviously combinations in restraint of trade, and are, in a certain sense, as liable to dissolution under the Sherman law as the Standard Oil and American Tobacco companies. If such bodies are legal, when their operations are obviously in favor of no one but themselves, why isn't it justifiable for the manufacturers and wholesalers to combine and operate their own stores?

"Syndicates are undoubtedly a menace to the producer and the wholesaler, and why these traders continue to sell them collectively is a puzzle to me. None but the most shortsighted can fail to see the grip they will have on the primary markets if they are countenanced and permitted to continue in business."

Discussing the chain store and its relation to the buyers' syndicate, another well-known wholesaler said:

"The combination idea is growing more rapidly than is generally thought. In the West, however, the chain store is looked on more favorably than the syndicate scheme. These stores are usually under the direction of a single man or company, and do an amazing amount of business considering the parts of the country in which they operate. In the Rocky Mountain district there is one such chain which now has thirty-four links. It is estimated that they will do a $3,000,000 business this year. Buying that much merchandise naturally entitles them to jobbers' rates, and, with the loss in net profit of about 3 per cent. which it entails, it will be seen that it will cost the houses they buy from close to $90,000 to sell them their year's supply."

WOULD IMPEACH PRESIDENT.

Senator Poindexter Angry Over Removal of Moose Office Holders.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Senator Miles Poindexter of Washington, nominally a Republican, but an out-and-out supporter of Theodore Roosevelt, is about to take the warpath against President Taft for the President's removal of Federal officeholders who were active in Col. Roosevelt's political interest. His first move was made to-night when he gave out a letter in which he said that Mr. Taft's removal of Bull Moosers from office "was flagrant enough to justify impeachment."

Senator Poindexter's letter was written to ex-Congressman Frederic Landis of Indiana, brother of United States Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, who imposed the twenty-nine-million-dollar fine on the Standard Oil Company, and ex-Congressman Charles B. Landis, who represented an Indiana Congress district for many years, and now resides in Wilmington, Del. The letter pertained to another Landis brother, Walter K., who was removed from the office of Postmaster at San Juan, Porto Rico, by President Taft, presumably on the ground that he was too active in support of Col. Roosevelt in the pre-convention campaign. Frederic Landis wrote to Senator Poindexter about the dismissal of his brother, and Mr. Poindexter replied, in the letter made public to-night, as follows:

"Am very glad to have this information," runs the letter, "and will take pleasure in seeing that it gets some publicity before the Senate and the country. This incident is identical in principle to a number of others, including some in my own State, in which the system of official punishment and reward has been carried on by Mr. Taft. It is flagrant enough in my judgment to justify impeachment."

Senator Poindexter said that Postmaster Landis was removed by cabled orders immediately after Frederic Landis had made a speech against Mr. Taft in the Indiana Republican State Committee.

Commission Government for Duluth.

DULUTH, Minn., Dec. 3.—Returns at midnight indicated a victory for the commission form of government in to-day's election. Returns are in from wards where the opposition was strongest, and it is believed the percentage in favor of the commission government will be maintained in the wards yet to hear from.

COLON PASSENGERS ANGRY.

Steamship Lost a Day Putting Stimson Party Ashore at Key West.

When the steamship Colon, bound from Panama, arrived at her dock last night she had on board Lieut. Col. Hodges, who is next in command to Col. George W. Goethals in the Canal Zone, and Representatives Charles Bennett Smith of Buffalo, James S. Simmons of Niagara Falls, and George W. Prince of Illinois. Some of the passengers were displeased because the Colon lost a day on the trip in order to accommodate Secretary of War Stimson, who was put ashore at Key West. The Stimson party included Miss Helen Taft, daughter of the President; Mrs. Stimson, and Dr. Stimson, father of the Secretary.

The Colon is owned by the United States Government and is under orders of the Secretary of War. Mr. Stimson had been studying the fortification work in the Canal Zone, and incidentally looking over the canal. When he decided to return home he found that the ship was scheduled to leave at 3 o'clock on Tuesday, Nov. 26. He wanted to leave at 12 o'clock noon. And so a notice was posted in the cities and villages on the isthmus stating that the Colon would leave at noon. In order to catch the boat Panama passengers had to rise at 5 in the morning. When they reached Cristobal they learned that the Secretary had issued a later order and that the ship would sail at 9 o'clock at night.

The Colon arrived in New York thirty-six hours behind its schedule. By allowing the Secretary of War to take the train from Key West to Washington the Colon made the trip in seven instead of six days. It cost $800 for a pilot to take the Colon in and out of Key West. The small steamer which took on the Stimson party in the harbor at Key West was damaged by contact with the Colon. A lifeboat was crushed, the bridge was broken, and the damage done was estimated at about $1,000. On account of the delay in the arrival of the Colon, it will be necessary to work men overtime in unloading and reloading the ship. The cost of provisioning the Colon for an extra thirty-six hours, together with the expense of fueling, is an added item of expense.

Passengers on the Colon asserted that the Secretary's presence in Washington was not worth $3,000 a day to the Government.

Lieut. Col. Hodges will remain North for two months, when he will return and take charge of the work in the Canal Zone, while Col. Goethals goes on a vacation of like duration.

EAST GETTING MORE COAL.

Shipments Diverted from Great Lakes Help Local and Near By Retailers.

In its weekly review of conditions in the local market, The Coal Trade Journal will say to-day:

"At the beginning of this week it was evident that the diversion of anthracite from the Great Lakes was having its effect on Eastern markets. More tonnage is now moving through the local shipping ports than at any time this Fall, and while receipts have not increased materially in New England and other sections where the shortage is most acute, the knowledge that a greater volume of coal is headed in their direction has put retailers in an easier frame of mind. Consequently they are less inclined to pay the extreme prices at which independent anthracite has been selling in recent weeks.

"The bituminous market appears to have lost some of its buoyancy in the last few days. The upward movement of prices has been checked, and while noticeable weakness has not developed, the situation at tidewater is plainly a little easier for the time being at least."

INTEGRITY

[Reprinted from The Boston Post, Dec. 3.]

In response to a request for his opinion on the report of the New Hampshire Public Service Commission, which was made public earlier in the day, President Charles S. Mellen said:

"I have not had an opportunity to read the very voluminous report just submitted by the commission, and so I am not prepared to discuss the recommendations of the commission.

"I have noticed, however, certain things in the report which are exceedingly gratifying, especially at this time, when there seems to be a renewal of the statements that the New Haven has not dealt fairly with the Boston & Maine, and a general agitation started against the New England railroad lines, which by false charges against the integrity of the management might become demoralizing to the railroad organization and harmful to the entire transportation and business interests of New England.

"It should be remembered that the Public Service Commission of New Hampshire has been investigating all matters relating to the Boston & Maine Railroad and its control by the New Haven Railroad for more than a year, and has probed into every feature of railroad management.

"On the question of the effect of New Haven control the following statements are interesting:

> Particular attention was devoted to the division of joint rates enjoyed by the Boston & Maine Railroad and to the gateways of exchange on joint business with other carriers, and especially with the New Haven Company, to determine whether full advantage and fair treatment was being obtained by the Boston & Maine Railroad in those cases where it had the right to protect its long haul business and revenues.
>
> The result of these investigations, it should be conceded, indicates that the acts of the New Haven Company, since its dominant control, offer little ground for criticism in this particular, as it appears that where new joint rates have been established the basis of division is substantially that of a strict mileage proportion, or, where changes in the routes have been inaugurated between the two systems, resulting in a shorter haul for the Boston & Maine, that the old divisions have been continued through the new gateways of interchange, and the Boston & Maine has suffered no diminution of revenues.

"In the light of charges which are being loosely made as to coal contracts and other purchases, the following statement is particularly significant:

> Special attention was given by the commission to the contracts for coal supply, and although it developed there was a close interlocking relation between those interested in the Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Company, the Keystone Coal Company and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad or its officers, and that these two coal companies together held contracts for 1,080,000 tons of the 1,500,000 tons needed to supply the Boston & Maine Railroad's annual requirements, it appeared from the best outside information obtainable from those experienced in coal business that both the terms and prices were advantageous and favorable to the railroad company.

"The report further continues: 'In general, however, it was found that all efforts by those in immediate control of purchases were being bent to secure the best and most economical results, and especially is this true at the present time.' "

CELLAR BAKERIES ANTI-TRUST ISSUE

Other Features in Proposed Bills Sidetracked at Factory Commission Hearing.

SMALL BAKERS PROTEST

Committee Hears Objection to State Control of City Establishments—"One Day Rest" Law Discussed.

The factory investigation committee, of which Senator Wagner is the head, devoted yesterday's session to consideration of the proposed bill amending the law regarding inspection and control of bakeries and the proposed legislation making one day of rest in seven obligatory.

Some of the bakers think that the bakery bill favors the trust. This idea reached expression when Dr. Abraham Korn, President of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, went on the stand. Dr. Korn did not like a plan which would prohibit cellar bakeries, and he said so. He also said it looked to him as if the trust was back of the bill.

The questions considered in relation to the proposed bill were: Should the Board of Health have exclusive jurisdiction over the sanitary conditions in bakeries in New York City, and should a sanitary certificate from the Department of Labor be required instead of a license?

Dr. Ernst J. Lederle, Health Commissioner, opposed State inspection of bakeries. He said Inspectors should be sent out only from his department. While Dr. Lederle thought there were distinct advantages in licensing bakeries, he also thought a much better plan than requiring a physical examination of bakers would be to give the Health Department power to make its own rules.

"How about prohibiting cellar bakeries?" Elkus asked.

"Most of the underground bakeries I have seen," Dr. Lederle replied, "are unsatisfactory, but that was not because they were underground, but because the people were dirty and careless."

Cellar bakeries cannot be made sanitary, in the opinion of former Commissioner of Accounts Raymond B. Fosdick. He said he had inspected 145 cellar bakeries, and not one of them had been found satisfactory.

Contrary to this was the opinion expressed by Albert E. Plarre, President of the New York State Association of Master Bakers, who followed Fosdick. He said the association had appointed a committee a year ago to look into the subject, and in two weeks 560 bakeries had been cleaned. He said this was more work than all the State Inspectors had done in years.

A warning was sounded by Harold M. Phillips, counsel for the United Real Estate Owners' Association, who said that in the passing of a law prohibiting cellar bakeries the small bakers might be forced to the wall, and thus the commission would be playing into the hands of the trusts.

Mrs. Julian Heath, President of the Housewives' League, was heckled by the bakers until Assemblyman Smith said he would not permit any more such cross-examination. Mrs. Heath approved the bills offered, and declared that in all her experience she had never seen a sanitary cellar bakery.

John Williams, Commissioner of the State Department of Labor, said the control of bakeries should be in his department. He was followed by John J. Sullivan, Chief Inspector of the State Factory Commission, who investigated conditions in sixty-four bakeries in this city. He found conditions bad.

John A. Fitch, American Association for Labor Legislation; Canon William Sheafe Chase, Christ Church, Brooklyn, representing the Day of Rest Conference; Miss Elizabeth Dutcher, Women's Trades Union League; T. P. Sylvan, assistant to the Vice President of the New York Telephone Company; the Rev. George W. Grannis, Lord's Day Alliance of the United States, and the Rev. William P. Schwartz, New York Sabbath Committee, spoke in favor of making one day of rest in seven compulsory.

To-day the commission will take up the subject of fire prevention and occupancy.

BELMONT BRIDE VANISHES.

Raymond's Show-Girl Wife Not Expected Back at Hotel Till To-morrow.

Mrs. Ethel Loraine Belmont, who is reported to have said that she had not seen her husband, Raymond Belmont, since Thursday, when he departed with his brother Morgan Belmont, was not at her apartment at the Gosford, 236 West Fifty-fifth Street, yesterday, according to the hotel clerk. The hotel employes said that the Belmont apartment had been empty since Sunday, and predicted that it would remain so until to-morrow.

In an interview published yesterday morning Mrs. Belmont said that her husband had not returned to her apartment or talked to her over the telephone since Thursday, and that she feared he was being kept under restraint by his relatives or friends. Neither August Belmont, the father of Raymond, nor Morgan Belmont, the brother, would discuss the matter yesterday.

PIER PLANS ABOUT SETTLED.

Estimate Board Committee Adopts a Water Front Policy.

When the Board of Estimate meets tomorrow it will approve the plans of its Terminal Committee regarding the building of 1,000-foot or longer piers along the North River between Forty-fourth and Fifty-sixth Streets and the straightening out of the pier line along the river between Thirtieth Street and the Battery to provide for longer docks at the Chelsea piers and in the neighborhood of Desbrosses Street. The board held a secret meeting in the Mayor's Chambers at the City Hall yesterday and decided to take this action. There was little opposition.

Borough President Steers of Brooklyn held out for the South Brooklyn water front as the best place to establish the new piers, but it was finally decided to build the piers along the North River water front "progressively"; that is, as the demand may require, and at the same time to develop the entire water front of the city as fast as the money was provided.

This will mean that the city will not develop one section of the city more than any other section, except as the occasion demands.

Borough President McAneny explained after the meeting yesterday that when the amount of money to be spent for dock improvement had been settled by the courts, there would be about $74,000,000 in the Treasury, but that only $50,000,000 of this would be used for dock development, the rest to be spent for subway construction.

"I expect very little opposition to our plan of dock construction along the North River when the matter comes up before the board on Thursday," said Mr. McAneny. "The board will approve the plans of the Terminal Committee, which are a slight variation of the State Commission's plans, and the immediate result will be that the foreign steamship builders will realize that the city will be able to take care of the longest ships they can build. We will also prove to the Secretary of War that the city can take care of its express steamship traffic without asking for any further fairway in the North River."

SZABO ASSETS STILL MISSING

Checkbooks Given to Mrs. Gibson or Elder, Surrogate Hears.

The question as to what had become of the greater part of the estate of Mrs. R. M. Szabo was not very satisfactorily answered yesterday when discovery proceedings were begun before Surrogate Cohalan. The action is brought by Arpad A. Kremer, representing Dr. Ernest Fischerauer, Austro-Hungarian Vice Consul, who succeeded Burton W. Gibson as executor of the estate. Gibson, who is in the county jail at Goshen, N. Y., charged with the murder of Mrs. Szabo on Greenwood Lake on July 16, may be brought to this city next week in the attempt to obtain the bankbook issued to Mrs. Szabo by the Franklin Savings Bank, and where about $3,000 remains on deposit. This and the dead woman's five trunks are the only visible assets of her $10,000 estate.

After the witnesses were sworn, the Surrogate moved the hearing into Surrogate Clerk Dowdney's room. The examination was conducted by Mr. Kremer, assisted by Philip R. Strisik. Mrs. Gibson was present.

Charles Goldzier, one of Gibson's lawyers, made the unexpected statement that in September he had given a large envelope, containing what looked like canceled checks, and two small checkbooks either to Robert H. Elder, Gibson's senior counsel, or to Mrs. Gibson. Mr. Goldzier was examined after Mr. Elder and Mrs. Gibson had left the room. Mr. Goldzier represented Gibson in the action before Surrogate Fowler which resulted in the accused lawyer being ousted as executor of the estate.

"It was on the first day of the hearing, I think," said Mr. Goldzier, "when I went to Mr. Elder's office after the hearing. Mrs. Gibson was there, and, according to an agreement, waiting for me. I am not sure whether I handed the envelope to her or to Mr. Elder."

Mr. Goldzier said that he had received the envelope from Gibson. It was marked "The estate of Rosena Menschik Szabo."

Mr. Elder denied that he had ever received canceled checks or checkbooks, or any property of the estate except an empty handbag.

"If Mr. Goldzier says I received those checks or checkbooks he is mistaken," said Mrs. Gibson. "I never received those things from him or anyone else."

The examination will be continued on Friday.

P. A.'s got a bunch of imitators—right smart proof it's all wool and a yard wide!

Two things are never counterfeited—plugged nickels and ordinary tobaccos!

Prince Albert sort of upset the fashion in pipe and cigarette tobacco, because it won't sting your tongue (bite's cut out by a patented process), because it tastes delicious and because it has fragrance that makes it welcome in any home or office. Out of the tall timbers came the substitutes—"just as good as P. A."—"just like P. A."—and that sort of thing! Just trying to warp in!

Let this sink deep: Every time that chaff's handed you, make a bee line for a tin of Prince Albert. Then you're in O. K. Realize that imitation is the bulliest advertisement P. A. can have! Get that? There's just one "joy smoke" in this world for you, whether you jam it in a jimmy pipe or roll up a cigarette—that's Prince Albert.

You get a new view of life's joys if you'll buy a package of P. A. and roll up a cigarette. It's great—fresh, fragrant, sweet. Right now, put it on your sure thing list. It's worth a bet.

B. R. T. ASKS INTEREST ON ITS $40,000,000

Doesn't See Why City Should Keep Subway Fund Sewed Up Pending Contract and Not Pay.

NEGOTIATING A SETTLEMENT

Chairman Willcox Tells Brooklyn Protesters They Are Getting More Than an Even Share of Subways.

Negotiations between the Public Service Commission and the Interborough and the B. R. T. with regard to the terms of the operating contracts for the dual system of subways have reached such a point that the issues can be reckoned up almost on the fingers of one hand. Not one of them is of great importance except a question of interest which is still in debate between the commission and the B. R. T. This has caused several conferences in the last two weeks, but Chairman Willcox declared last night that he was confident that the dispute would soon be settled

The point has arisen through the method which the B. R. T. took to raise the $40,000,000 which it has already borrowed at 6 per cent. to provide for the construction of new subways, the improvement of its present line, and new equipment. It desires that the new company formed to operate the enlarged system be permitted to issue bonds for this amount, and in order to ascertain the attitude of the commission on this capitalization an informal conference was held last Summer with the Commissioners. It was then understood between the parties that if the B. R. T. issued notes for $40,000,000 the new company would be permitted to issue bonds against this money.

The B. R. T. went ahead and borrowed $40,000,000 from Oct. 1 at 6 per cent. It made arrangements with its bankers to deposit this sum with them and to draw interest upon its daily balance at the rate of 3 per cent. The result is that since Oct 1 it has had $40,000,000 lying idle at a net loss of 3 per cent., or $1,200,000 a year. The B. R. T. officials are now contending that this loss in interest should be counted into the cost of construction, and should, therefore, be charged up ultimately partly against the city and partly against themselves. They are basing their argument on the clause in last Summer's agreement which says that the cost of construction should include, among other things, "all carrying charges during construction."

Interborough in Like Position.

The Interborough is also involved in this question to some extent, but it has a different contract for its capital. It has an arrangement with its bankers by which it has not had to raise its $77,000,000 all at once, but may call for it at whatever time it needs any portion of it. In order to get this privilege, it has been obliged to pay a considerably larger sum for its money. It has contracted to sell its bonds at 93½, whereas the B. R. T. has raised its money at a net cost of 97.

This the commission is inclined to consider as a reason why the Brooklyn Rapid Transit should be willing to stand the payment of the interest on the capital it has already raised, but the Brooklyn Rapid Transit officials reply that the fact that they made a better bargain than their rival is no reason why they should be penalized for the city's delay in drawing up the contract. They point out that the city is as much a gainer as themselves in the fact that they borrowed their money from Oct. 1. It was possible at that time to get the money at a low rate of interest, whereas if they had waited until December or January the rate of interest would assuredly have gone up. Consequently the "carrying charges during construction" have been greatly reduced to the city by their forethought, and they should not be expected to bear the entire burden of these interest charges.

It was asserted outside yesterday that so widely were the Brooklyn Rapid Transit and the Public Service Commission separated on this question that it might be necessary to call together again the Subway Committee of the Board of Estimate and start afresh the series of "Subway conferences" which dragged along last Winter. This was laughed at yesterday by the Public Service Commissioners. They admitted that there was this difference of opinion, but that it was not one which was causing any alarm.

"It is one of the two or three matters which we still have to settle with the Brooklyn Rapid Transit," said Chairman Willcox yesterday, "and I have no doubt that after we have talked it over a little more we shall reach a satisfactory conclusion."

Borough President McAneny confirmed him, saying that the city was not yet determined on what construction of the carrying charges it should maintain, but it was absurd to suppose there was a risk of a serious disagreement.

Willcox Answers Hylan.

Chairman Willcox replied yesterday to an attack on the policy of the Public Service Commission made by John F. Hylan, President of the Allied Boards of Trade and Taxpayers' Association of Brooklyn. Mr. Hylan wrote to Mr. Willcox, asking why the city was to spend millions of dollars on the Bronx lines, "running for miles and miles through wood and farm land to Pelham Bay Park, to Becker Avenue, and to Woodlawn Road," when the thickly congested eastern district of Brooklyn was crying out for transportation.

Mr. Hylan, says the Chairman, has not clearly studied the dual system, and, like many other public spirited men, has not realized the needs of other portions of the city in his zeal for his own section.

"You live in the Borough of Brooklyn," says the Chairman. "The dual system means more for that borough than for any other borough in the city. It is second only to Manhattan in the amount of money to be spent, and if the millions to be laid out on the B. R. T. Subway in Broadway, Manhattan, which will be built mainly for the convenience of the people of Brooklyn, are taken into consideration, there will be more money spent for Brooklyn than for Manhattan."

Mr. Willcox points out that Brooklyn will get nearly five times as many millions for rapid transit work as the Bronx, and that if the Broadway line be added to Brooklyn's share, it would be nine times as much as that of the Bronx. He says:

Division Among Boroughs.

"It is estimated that the city's portion of the construction cost of the dual system will be about $158,000,000. Of this, it is figured $45,000,000 will be spent in Brooklyn alone and $16,000,000 for the Eastern District subway and elevated system, making a total of $61,000,000 to be spent for the Borough of Brooklyn, aside from the Broadway Subway and the Centre Street Loop, which will cost $50,000,000 and will be operated in Manhattan mainly for the benefit of the Borough of Brooklyn. In the Bronx, with which you invite comparison, it is estimated that the city will expend about $12,000,000 in building the lines of the dual system in that borough. With $61,000,000 for Brooklyn and $12,000,000 for the Bronx, the assertion that Brooklyn is being discriminated against in favor of the Bronx can hardly be maintained. Even the Eastern District alone will profit by the expenditure of more money than is to be expended in all the Bronx, for the Eastern District subway and elevated system will require an outlay of $16,000,000 or more of city funds, while the allotment to the Bronx is only $12,000,000."

Chairman Willcox also gives figures to show the growth of the Bronx from 1905 to 1909. The population along the proposed Pelham Bay Park branch grew from 90,097 to 142,487 and the population on the Jerome Avenue branch from 53,577 to 64,695. In the same period the assessed valuation of a half-mile area on either side of the Pelham Park Bay branch increased from $84,361,927 to $144,122,803, and from $55,291,655 to $87,371,765 on a similar area on either side of the Jerome Avenue branch.

Sickles Sale Again Put Off.

The sale of the personal effects of Gen. Daniel E. Sickels to satisfy a judgment against him for $5,000 has been again postponed by arrangement with the Bank of the Metropolis, which holds the judgment, and will now not take place until Dec. 12, if at all. Sheriff Harburger hopes in the meantime to raise the requisite sum for the General, $1,000 of which has been raised already. Harburger expects the remainder to be furnished so that a sale may be altogether avoided.

LOSING ON PANAMA CANAL.

Secretary of Contractors' Association Compares Cost to Private Bid.

Three hundred contractors and engineers, members of the General Contractors' Association, enjoyed a speechless dinner at the Hotel Knickerbocker last night. The roll of their achievements, given by C. A. Crane, their Secretary, seemed like a history of the great engineering feats of the past decade in this city and State. In addition, there were contractors and engineers present with works under construction as far south as Valparaiso, Chile; as far east as London, and as far west as Hawaii. Mr. Crane declared that the joint works of those present would exceed half a billion dollars.

Mr. Crane said that the stupendous works of New York contractors had won them jobs in every quarter of the globe. He said that even on the great Panama Canal the work was costing two and a half times as much as the bid of Oliver & Bangs, and that the Government was wasting enough to make ten contractors wealthy.

A number of public officials were the guests of the engineers and expressed themselves as pleased that they did not have to pay for their dinners with speeches. Mayor Gaynor sent regrets, but there were present from the Board of Estimate Controller Prendergast, President Mitchel of the Board of Aldermen, and Borough Presidents Steers, Miller, and Cromwell.

JOHNSON WEDS WHITE GIRL.

Lucile Cameron, Who Testified Against Him, Becomes Pugilist's Bride.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, this afternoon married Lucile Cameron, the nineteen-year-old white girl of Minneapolis who recently appeared as a witness against him before the Federal Grand Jury which returned indictments charging him with violations of the Mann act. The ceremony was performed at the home of Johnson's aged mother on the South Side by H. A. Roberts, a negro preacher, in the presence of a dozen colored people and several newspaper reporters.

Miss Cameron wore a tailor-made gray suit of shepherd's plaid and a large black picture hat with purple plumes. Johnson had a suit of the same material especially made for the occasion.

A curious crowd of nearly a thousand men and women gathered outside the house and a squad of police was kept busy maintaining order.

FIRE HOSE SUIT ENDED.

Company That Made Bad Hose Settles with Concern That Sold It.

After several witnesses had been examined before Justice Hotchkiss in the Supreme Court yesterday, the action brought by the Windsor Fire Appliance Company against the United Globe Rubber Manufacturing Company was settled and the case dismissed. The action grew out of the fire hose investigation before the Commissioner of Accounts immediately following the fire that destroyed the Parker Building, at Fourth Avenue and Nineteenth Street, in 1908, because of the bursting of many feet of hose.

The city instituted a suit against the Windsor Fire Appliance Company to recover $25,000 for the bursting of hose, and a settlement was made by M. F. Loughlin, President of the company.

Yesterday's suit was brought to recover from the United Globe Rubber Manufacturing Company the sum for which Mr. Loughlin settled the city's suit, it being claimed by Mr. Loughlin that his company was not responsible for the defects in the hose, inasmuch as it was only the middleman in the transaction, and not the manufacturer.

Mr. Loughlin refused to state the amount for which the suit was settled, merely saying that he felt that he had been vindicated of any attempt to foist rotten fire hose on the city.

JAPANESE PREMIER TO QUIT.

Marquis Saionji to Resign To-day—Unable to Find a New War Minister.

TOKIO, Dec. 3.—Marquis Saionji, the Premier, has, it is understood, decided to tender his resignation to the Emperor tomorrow owing to the difficulty of finding a successor to Gen. Uyehera as Minister of War. Gen. Uyehera resigned on account of the refusal of the other members of the Cabinet to support his demand for an increase of the army.

Marquis Saionji made an appeal to-day to Field Marshal Yamagata, President of the Privy Council and a former Minister of War, to accept the post, but without success, as the militarists are boycotting the portfolio of war.

Men and women of the world want to know about the world. They do not so much want to know all of the detailed movements in the world as what those movements mean.

The Independent endeavors to satisfy this need. While it does not assume to give a compendium of the doings of the world, it tries to lead its readers along the course the world is traveling.

It tries to keep along with the main stream of tendency in morals, sociology, religion, politics, literature, science, art, music, the drama, society, and business—all flavored and tempered with a proper sense of humor and appreciation of the lighter side of life.

CONDITIONS

WHO MAY ENTER: Any person living in the United States. This includes those engaged in the designing or the business of millinery or dressmaking. There is no entrance fee.

COMPETITORS FOR THE PRIZES must submit colored drawings of their designs, each with not more than a hundred words of description on the back of each design. This descriptive matter should specify materials and shades, but small samples of both materials and shades may be pinned to the design if desired. Any drawing will be accepted in competition, provided that it may be readily understandable by the judges. Only one design may be entered by any one designer in any one class. Each design must be enclosed separately in an envelope plainly marked "For the American Hat Prizes," or "For the American Afternoon Dress Prizes," or "For the American Evening Gown Prizes."

THE REQUIREMENTS: It is the general consensus of opinion among dress authorities that there are two basic principles of good dressing—beauty of line and harmony of color. This naturally means simplicity. This point of beauty with simplicity will be the determining factor in awarding all prizes.

THE DESIGNS must be original and suited to the Spring Season of 1913. The fullest scope is allowed as to the character of the design of hat or dress so long as the requirements outlined in the previous paragraphs are recognized. The materials and colors to be worn this Spring should be followed. The designs should be suitable for a woman from 25 to 50 years of age, as the designer may select. The proportions of the model are left to the discretion of the designer.

ALL ENTRIES MUST BE RECEIVED BY JANUARY 10TH, 1913, either delivered or sent by mail, prepaid, to the Fashion Editor, New York Times, New York City. Sufficient postage for return must be enclosed. The designer's name and address must be enclosed in a sealed plain envelope, securely attached to the design. No name or address must appear on the design itself. The envelope attached to the prize winners will be opened by the judges after the prizes are awarded. No other envelope will be opened by the judges and no contestants other than prize winners will be known or published. Envelopes attached to contesting designs which do not receive awards will be opened confidentially only for the purpose of discovering the address to which the design must be returned.

THE AWARDS WILL BE announced as near to February 1st as is consistent with a careful examination.

PRIZE HATS AND DRESSES WILL BE PICTURED in a special section of The New York Times in its issue of Sunday, February 23rd. They will be redrawn and carefully colored by artists who specialize in fashions, and will be published in their full colors by the four color process and printed on smooth paper. All designs will be returned to the designers. The New York Times reserves no rights in the designs themselves other than the right of their exclusive first publication.

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, DEC. 4, 1912.

MR. BRYAN, GREENBACKS, AND THE CABINET.

It was reported some days ago that Mr. BRYAN favored the reform of the currency by providing for the issue of United States notes, greenbacks. The Commoner of Nov. 29 publishes a brief article in which his position is set forth:

> The reformation of the currency should be postponed until the new Congress meets, and then it can be undertaken by Democrats according to the Democratic theory which puts the responsibility upon the Government instead of the banks. The currency can be given all the elasticity it needs without increasing the privileges of the banks or the influence of Wall Street.

If Mr. BRYAN had studied the currency question as diligently as he has studied the art of public speaking, if he had mastered the sound principles of banking and finance, we should know at once the reason why, just as the Democracy is to return to power on a vote of confidence which it has yet to justify, he urges a resort to the issue of greenbacks as a remedy for the admitted and serious defects of our currency. For then Mr. BRYAN would be fully chargeable with knowledge that a Government currency is about the worst in the world, that in history it has been a fountain of evils and confusion, and that our own experience of it, not remote, but exemplary and conclusive, puts the serious consideration by Congress and the country of a return to greenback currency quite out of the question. The Monetary Commission said in its report to Congress: "While "it may be contended that the issue of "money of any kind is a distinctive "function of sovereign power, the ex-"ercise of this authority directly by "Governments has, as shown by the "experience of the world, inevitably "led to disastrous results."

If Mr. BRYAN knew these things, if he had knowledge of the fundamental and incurable unsoundness of the Government currency idea, his present advocacy of greenbacks would bear but one possible construction. We should know that the proclamation of his views which he makes in The Commoner was intended to divide the Democratic Party in Congress and in the country, and to wreck the Wilson Administration. To the extent that Mr. BRYAN had a following in Congress and in the country, this would be the necessary consequence of his utterance. But Mr. BRYAN has never mastered the sound principles of banking and finance. He has spent so much time in acquiring a knowledge of what is unsound and fantastic, of what has been rejected in the practical experience of nations, that his mind has never come into possession of the truth, of those ground principles that have survived all tests and proofs. We do not know that Mr. BRYAN has abandoned any of his former beliefs. Possibly, he still holds to the double standard; possibly, he still believes that the prices of wheat and of silver are inseparable—that they rise or fall together. Therefore, we must absolve him from the accusation of deliberate mischief. It is because he really believes in greenbacks, not because he wishes to do harm to the Wilson Administration, that he thinks this a timely occasion for advocating a Government currency.

Nevertheless, the position he takes in respect to greenbacks, a position in which he will have the support neither of any respectable financial authority nor of the country, has a direct bearing upon the question of his appointment to a place in Mr. WILSON's Cabinet. Thus far his appointment to the Cabinet is purely a matter of conjecture and gossip. Nobody knows Mr. WILSON's intentions. To a very great part of those Democrats and those Republicans who voted for Mr. WILSON the idea is shocking. To the people of many States it seems incredible, and the news that he was to be chosen would be received not merely with astonishment, but with something like alarm, which very naturally would be increased by Mr. BRYAN's announcement of his adhesion to the greenback idea.

But the possibility of his becoming a member of the Cabinet must be considered not only from the point of view of those who oppose him, but from the point of view of those who believe in him, who are ready at all times to follow him, the real Bryan men. It is to be considered, also, from the point of view of Mr. WILSON, who will have to deal with Mr. BRYAN and with his following. There need be no illusions about Mr. BRYAN. He wanted the Baltimore nomination for himself. It was only the force of circumstances that made him the supporter of Mr. WILSON. It is believed that he wants the nomination in 1916, and is laying his plans to secure it. His way of dealing with those who are obstacles in his path is well known. He attacked Mr. HARMON, he attacked Mr. UNDERWOOD, most unjustly and upon false grounds. He turned against Speaker CLARK, in a critical moment, at Baltimore. Suppose he is left out of the Cabinet. What will he do? Reasoning from the character and the ambition of the man and from his past practices, we are forced to the conclusion that he would be hostile to the Wilson Administration, that he would use his influence to obstruct its work and thwart its policies. He would build up among his following an anti-Administration party, and in many States of the Union he has a large following. That is the condition that would confront the new Administration if Mr. BRYAN were left out of the Cabinet.

Taken into the Cabinet, Mr. BRYAN would not be in a position to do any great harm to the Wilson Administration. The primary obligation of loyalty to his chief would tie his hands. He would be under daily observation, and he could not very well undertake to wreck an Administration of which he was a responsible part. Many men who look at the problem from the point of view of politics and tactics are inclined to the belief that appointment to a Cabinet office would be a first-rate way to chloroform Mr. BRYAN. Moreover, the Nebraskan would in the President's Cabinet come to a test to which he has never been submitted, a real test of his ability. Men who have studied his career with attentive but with candid minds hold him to be a man of only moderate capacity, far below that of the average of our Presidents' Cabinets. In that council room he would be weighed, and in all human probability he would be found wanting. The country would speedily know, it could not help knowing, how far he fell short of the estimate he puts upon himself, and which his followers put upon him. Thus, in another way, Mr. BRYAN would be a diminished figure. These are the considerations by which some men, accustomed to think in terms of politics, would justify, or palliate, the naming of Mr. BRYAN to a Secretaryship.

For ourselves, we do not believe that Mr. BRYAN could do the Administration any serious harm if he remained outside the Cabinet. If the country's hopes of Mr. WILSON are fulfilled, if his Administration is successful, if he becomes, as he promises to become, a really great President, he would win the confidence and the support and the hearts of the American people. What could the puny intrigues of Mr. BRYAN avail against him? Nothing. Moreover, Mr. WILSON will need strong men in his Cabinet, and Mr. BRYAN is a weak man. The counsel that he has given to the American people in the last sixteen years has been unsound and unsafe; it has been rejected. What possible ground is there for believing that his counsel at the Cabinet table would be sage and helpful? This is not the way the party tacticians argue, but we are sure that these are the sentiments of Mr. WILSON's sincere well-wishers and of those who hope for the success of his Administration.

CENTRAL PARK WEST.

After many delays the plan to widen Central Park West, in order that wheeled traffic may be regulated on that important thoroughfare as it is elsewhere in the city, will be taken up by the Board of Estimate to-morrow. The proposed plan will entail no large expense and can be quickly executed. Enough of the broad parkside walk is to be removed to widen the roadway so that the car tracks can be placed in the middle, leaving room for other vehicles at the sides. At present automobiles, carriages, trucks, and delivery wagons travel both north and south on the westerly side of the avenue, causing continual confusion and great danger to pedestrians. Great caution must be observed by any one trying to board a southbound car between 110th and 59th Streets, lest he be struck by a passing vehicle. Many such accidents have occurred and lives have been lost.

There has been an alternative plan to remove strips of the sidewalk on both sides of the avenue. The westerly walk, which is most generally used by pedestrians, is 25 feet wide, and if it should be made narrower it would be necessary to cut away some of the stoops and porticoes and close the areaways of the buildings along Central Park West. This would be an expensive proceeding, and long delayed by inevitable litigation. On the other hand, a sidewalk 15 feet wide would answer all public requirements on the Park side of the avenue.

Not 7 feet, as is now proposed, should be cut from this east side, but 12, thus making the roadway 60 feet wide and giving ample space for the car tracks in the middle and paths for the north and south bound vehicles at the sides.

THE DIPLOMATIC SERVICE.

Naturally the message of the President upon the foreign relations of the United States contains few suggestions of legislation. Some of the few are, however, of importance. Chief among these is the urgent recommendation of the passage of the bill pending to apply to the Diplomatic Service the principles of the merit system now in force by virtue of an Executive order solely.

This order, issued three years since, placed the Diplomatic Service up to the grade of Secretary of Embassy, inclusive, upon exactly the same strict non-partisan basis of the merit system, rigid examination for appointment, and promotion only for efficiency, that had been maintained without exception in the Consular Service. The following summary of facts is significant:

> How faithful to the merit system and how non-partisan has been the conduct of the Diplomatic and Consular Services in the last four years may be judged from the following: Three Ambassadors now serving held their present rank at the beginning of my Administration. Of the ten Ambassadors whom I have appointed, five were by promotion from the rank of Minister. Nine Ministers now serving held their present rank at the beginning of the Administration. Of the thirty Ministers whom I have appointed, eleven were promoted from the lower grades of the foreign service or from the Department of State. Of the nineteen missions in Latin America, where our relations are close and our interest is great, fifteen chiefs of mission are service men, three having entered the service during this Administration. The thirty-seven Secretaries of Embassy or Legation who have received their initial appointments after passing successfully the required examination were chosen for ascertained fitness, without regard to political affiliations.

The bill which the President urges on the attention of Congress is the one reported and heartily pressed by Mr. SULZER, as Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee. As that gentleman is in Washington, determined to do all that he can to secure the passage of this measure before the holiday recess, there is good reason to think that it may become law at the present session. It would be one of the richest contributions to the efficiency, dignity, and morale of our Diplomatic Service known in our history.

Especially it would fit that service to discharge the functions which our new position in the family of nations imposes upon it. The President dwells with emphasis upon these functions. They are no longer merely political in the former sense of that word. They include the vigilant study of all American interests, and particularly of our interests in the commercial and industrial development of the world. As to these the work of the service is primarily to obtain all possible information accurately, promptly, and to extend to our nationals in every quarter of the globe the encouragement and aid that may be within the scope of its powers. The enormous growth of our foreign trade, its striking development in variety, and the energy with which it is being pressed call for the use of the best intelligence and the most skillful and carefully organized effort in the State Department. The changes made in the department during the last three years are of great value, but they are only the beginning of what needs to be done.

There are critics, and we regret to say that some of them are Democrats, who like to call the efforts of the National Government to help the expansion of the material interests of our country in intercourse with other countries by the name of "Dollar Diplomacy." They ignore the fact that commerce is not only the very life of the Nation at home, but that, as it spreads legitimately, it tends more than any other agency to strengthen the reign of peace. It is as much the duty of the Government honestly and fairly to help commerce abroad as it is to preserve peace and enforce justice at home. In the practical recognition of the changes that have occurred, and the modification and strengthening of our State Department that must follow, Mr. TAFT has shown the foresight and breadth of view that constitute real statesmanship. His service in this regard has not been generally appreciated, largely because it has been obscured by the failure of his plan for reciprocity, and the check his peace treaties received in the Senate, but he can have the satisfaction of knowing that it is solid service and will endure.

THE NATIONAL GUARDSMEN.

The war of the hemispheres prophesied by Brig. Gen. TASKER H. BLISS in his address to the National Guard Association at Norfolk, Va., yesterday, will happen, if it ever happens, in the remote future. We have no quarrels now with the other half of the world, no disputes which cannot be amicably settled. But Gen. BLISS is on firm ground when he insists that the era of universal peace has not yet dawned. One of the bloodiest wars of history is in progress. All Europe is thinking of the possibilities of a general war. The prospects for peace, however, are encouraging. Nothing should be done to dishearten the peace advocates. They are working for the best of causes. But neither should anything be done to weaken the defenses of this Nation. While hoping ever for peace, we must be prepared for war. The United States Army's needs require immediate and intelligent consideration.

The subject uppermost in the minds of the National Guard Association is the development of the militia of the States as a large and efficient army reserve. The National Guard was established as an adjunct of the army by the Dick law of 1903. It will be strengthened in that capacity—in the view of its officers—by the passage of the Pepper bill, which, in an amended form, will be brought up in the short session of Congress. This provides for small but sufficient payment by the War Department for the services of National Guardsmen. If it becomes a law it will relieve the citizen soldier of any burden of expense for uniform or equipment, and will make the work of recruiting much simpler. Under Federal control the National Guardsman now has an opportunity to become an experienced and competent soldier, and, in case of need, the services of the militia will be found more valuable to the Nation than ever before. Nevertheless the Pepper bill is a measure so radical as to require the most careful deliberation. No doubt it will be hotly opposed in Congress. It is desirable that the arguments against it should be, rather than heated, coherent, thoughtful, and informing.

NO HOPE FOR MURDERERS.

Gov. DIX does not hold the view of Judge AMIDON in the United States District Court for North Dakota, who recommended that murderers and other professional criminals, as well as the hopelessly insane, be painlessly snuffed out of existence. This extension of the death penalty, Judge AMIDON thought, would relieve society of its waste and harmful products. Gov. DIX is not so cold-blooded. "I have been opposed "for years to the system of capital "punishment," the Governor said on Monday. He would take the site at Wingdale for a small building in which convicted murderers should be kept for life, completely cut off from the world.

In every case the prisoner should be prevented from making application even to a Board of Pardons. "There should be absolutely no hope for him," said the Governor, expatiating upon the plan. PATRICK was a life prisoner; under the Governor's new plan he would remain a life prisoner. Believing as he does, why did Gov. DIX pardon PATRICK?

PRIZES FOR AMERICAN FASHIONS.

Announcement is made elsewhere this morning of the cash prizes offered by THE NEW YORK TIMES for original designs for hats and dresses for American women. This competition has been instituted in order to encourage the development of American fashions, more suitable to the women of this country than those of the French modistes, which of late have been marred by eccentric and extravagant ideas. Paris has been losing its vogue as the arbiter of the world's fashions. It is time for the American woman to disregard the tradition of Parisian ascendency and to wear clothes more appropriate to her National character and her environment than any French modiste can design.

Nine prizes are offered, three each for a design of a Spring hat, a design for a Spring dress for afternoon wear, and a design for an evening gown. Designs must be submitted on or before Jan. 10, 1913. The Board of Judges will comprise Mr. EDWARD BOK, editor of The Ladies' Home Journal, Chairman; Mrs. JOHN W. ALEXANDER, Miss ANNIE RUSSELL, Mrs. ELEANOR HOYT BRAINARD, Miss ABBY K. UNDERWOOD, and Mr. GROSVENOR K. GLENN.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Failure of Human Ingenuity. While it can hardly be said that in the bright lexicon of the Twentieth Century there is no such word as "impossible," even the largest copies of that valued work print it in small type and are evidently preparing to qualify it with a parenthetical and disparaging "obsolescent" or "archaic."

Aerial telegraphy now circles the earth in three or four leaps and seems likely soon to do it in one or at most two. The unconquerable air has been conquered to such an extent that the aviator who wants to get his name in all the papers at once knows that he must fly across a full-sized ocean, and there is even serious talk to the effect that the alleviation of poverty is hardly worth while, since its complete abolition is practicable and will be done as soon as people really set their minds at it. Achievement and progress are seen everywhere, and few indeed are the tasks which human ingenuity in these latter days is confessedly unable to perform.

But there are a few problems of such enormous difficulty that all efforts to solve them have failed and despair prevents the making of any more. One of these humiliating defeats, utter and hopeless, has been encountered at the Metropolitan Opera House. That the managers of that institution command the services of engineers and mechanics with talent approaching genius is shown by what they do on the stage, but never a one has succeeded in devising a plan for getting the carriage folk away comfortably and expeditiously after the last curtain has fallen. Scheme after scheme has been tried, only to have each new one work rather worse than any of its predecessors, and this season the dispersal of the audiences is accompanied by as much of annoyance and delay, by as much standing around in the cold, by as much useless shouting and crowding as was the case forty years ago.

Either the thing can't be done any better, because of some mysterious law of nature, or else there is a secret profit for somebody in the maintenance of the ancient disorder. The latter theory, in spite of whispers about favoritism for the elect and the wonders to be accomplished by a combination of wisdom and generosity, is not as plausible as the supposition that these woes are an ever inevitable consequence of the way the world was made. What cannot be effected by the Directors and the police working in harmony—as of course they do—obviously must be impossible.

Another First Jury of Women. At the recent election women were made eligible for service as jurors in Kansas and sympathetic comment was made in this column some weeks ago on the verdict in an important case involving four Plymouth Rock hens, which was the first to be decided by a jury wholly feminine. For a reason probably comprehensive enough in Kansas, though puzzling for less favored Americans, dispatches from that State now proclaim the achievement of another first all-woman jury, in a case tried in another town and based, not on hens, but on the title to a piece of land.

How long this exemplification of the last-shall-be-first principle is to go on must be decided, of course, by the purveyors of Kansas "Specials," but it would seem desirable for them sooner or later to cease claiming lack of precedent for trials of the woman jury plan. That, however, is not the most important point at issue, which is how the plan works.

According to the accounts at hand it works just about as the older plan did and does—that is, the women jurors, like men jurors in the vast majority of cases, take themselves and their duty seriously, and honestly try to be fair and just. The verdict as to the hens was that the prisoner at the bar—who happened to be a woman—hadn't stolen them. In the matter of the land title, after joining in silent prayer, the juresses deliberated for three hours and decided that as misrepresentations had been made to the plaintiff, he was entitled to $1,200. A jury of men who considered the same question a year ago were unable to agree, but it can hardly be said that the women agreed because they were women, since men juries have also been known to reach different conclusions.

The silent prayer part of the transaction was rather novel, but it was not objectionable or distinctively feminine. In fact, a differential comparison could not be made without submitting the same case to two juries, one composed of men and the other of women. That, done often enough, might lead to some interesting and significant revelations, but there would be difficulties in the way. In time, however, the Kansas lawyers—and others—will doubtless find out just what kind of a verdict in such cases women are more likely than men to reach. Such knowledge would be as useful as is like knowledge of men on the bench, which every lawyer is supposed to have.

An Argument That Has Its Dangers. In spite of a vast production of beer, these be troublous times for its makers, according to the address of President SCHAEFER at the annual convention of the State Brewers' Association, and doubtless he gave great joy to the members of the Anti-Saloon League by ascribing the woes of his business to what he called their "well or-"ganized force, led by aggressive, expe-"rienced, and untiring leaders." Such a description, coming from such a source, they will value highly.

President SCHAEFER did not indulge in the familiar assertions as to the inefficacy of legal prohibition. Instead, he exhorted his hearers to fight both its maintenance and its extension, and it is a rather notable fact that he advised the use of only one argument—an appeal to the material interests of the many kinds of producers and manufacturers who sell what they raise or make to breweries and saloons. Tell them, he said in effect, what a market they will lose if prohibition covers the whole country, and then see what they will say about—and do to—the apostles of total abstinence.

This argument is doubtless strong in its direct appeal, but it cannot be put forward without some danger of encountering effective answer. The economic and social consequences of the trade in alcohol are not simple, and they are not confined to those who supply its demands for grain, barrels, "fixtures," and half a thousand other things on which profits are made.

SERVIAN PRINCE DEFENDED.

Nikola Tesla Denounces Attack on Lazarovich-Hrebelianovich.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am in receipt of a printed statement purporting to express the sentiments of the Serbs of New York. It is an attack on Prince Lazarovich-Hrebelianovich, so vulgar and libelous that its distribution through the mails constitutes a flagrant crime. I understand that thousands have been sent out, and that all the papers in the city have received them. While publicity was refused, much harm has been done, and this is the reason for my asking you the privilege of saying a few words in your columns in the interest of fairness and truth. My motive, however, is not only the just indignation of a man who has done so much for the Balkan cause and the pain and injury inflicted upon a noble American woman, his wife, but the discredit which is cast on my countrymen. I maintain that few of them will be found willing to indorse such an act, and that all those who are endeavoring to live up to Servian ideals will condemn it as emphatically as I do myself.

To make these malicious attacks which have unfortunately found some reflection in the papers effective, misinformation is designedly spread in regard to the status of Servian nobility. On this point it is necessary to enlighten the American public. The political and social changes in Servia bear no semblance to those which took place in America, because of the radically different racial and national traits, customs, and traditions. At the close of the fourteenth century, when the great Servian Empire, under Lazar-Hrebelianovich, fell, the rights of the dynastic family and those of nobility were not lost, although this privileged class was shorn of its worldly power and influence. In the succeeding few hundred years of Turkish rule it almost disappeared through assimilation and emigration. At the beginning of the nineteenth century, when Servia obtained freedom through a revolution, a law was passed forbidding the sovereign to bestow distinctive titles, but nobility still existed, and no special article provided for its extingushment. Moreover, the modern free State of Servia comprised only a very small part of the mediaeval empire, and any law to this end would be limited to its own territory, and, in any event, would not be retroactive and of effect on those who had emigrated after the battle of Kossovo Polje. So it comes that there are still a few families in Austria, France, Russia, and other countries who can trace their ancestry back to the old Servian nobility, and if they choose to use their titles they can do so with full propriety.

As regards Prince Lazarovich-Hrebelianovich, his title matters little, for he has won a better claim to distinction through his labors and rare intelligence. In his capacity as publisher, editor, lecturer, and author he has rendered great services to the Servian people, which I trust will be fittingly recognized, despite all intrigue and opposition.

GORGAS AND GOETHALS

Should Be Honored by Statues at Colon and Panama.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Representative Mann's suggestion for a fitting tribute to Col. Goethals and the United States officers under him, for the splendid results in the Canal Zone, is most opportune. He, however, neglects one all-important fact. This great work has been made possible only by the intelligent and untiring labor for sanitation, made against fearful odds, by Col. Gorgas and his staff.

It would seem a fine recognition of the best services that officers can render their country, if the Government were to erect a statue of Col. Gorgas at Colon, where the sanitation began, and of Col. Goethals at Panama, where the great work ends.

GREAT POWER OF THE PRESS.

Talcott Williams Says It Represents the People's Consciousness.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 3.—Talcott Williams, Director of the School of Journalism on the Pulitzer Foundation, in Columbia University, delivered to-day the first of the two lectures on journalism, yearly provided by the Bromley endowment at Yale University. He spoke on "Journalism and the State."

"Education, legislation, and public opinion," he said, "are to-day each concerning themselves not with editors or newspapers, but with the whole fabric of the periodical press, daily, weekly, monthly. Laws seek to regulate its advertisements and to secure publicity for its ownership and circulation. The public has awakened to the public relations of journalism.

"Journalism has become the organized social consciousness of the community as a whole.

"The press as a whole has become one of those organs, like the bench and bar, the medical calling and boards of health, the body of teachers from the primary school to the university, the network of religious organization through which society both knows its needs, makes up its myriad mind and finally acts. Where the State needs these to complete its will, it adopts them as its own. Where they can act apart, as the church, the State protects but leaves them free.

"The problem of journalism to-day is how this relation with a great public need shall be maintained under the stress of material profits. Such material temptation once warped the action of bench and bar, of physician and clergyman. These callings rose above this stress in our English-speaking folk by education, by the growth of professional consciousness and penalties for unprofessional conduct. The press, through the education of the journalist, will enter on the same evolution and serve the State, as has been true of the journalist from the beginning, with a larger sacrifice and a lesser material reward."

THE NEW DOCK PLAN.

J. J. Rooney Thinks Commissioner Tomkins Should Get Credit.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was much interested in the "Willoughby Freight Terminal Plan," described and pictured in THE SUNDAY TIMES, as a proposed new solution of the dock problem of this city along the west side river front.

It is good to see so much attention given to this pressing problem, but it is not correct to say that this so-called Willoughby plan "will turn the thoughts of the city authorities into an entirely new channel."

Every essential, and most of the details, of this plan are covered in the plans and specifications long since submitted to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment by Commissioner Tomkins of our Dock Department.

Here, as in the Tomkins plan, is the elevated marginal freight railroad connecting the various piers and the series of warehouses along the marginal way, thus articulating the entire system, with the ultimate effect of reducing the cost and time of transferring freight in and out and eliminating the present congestion.

That this is the best solution of the west side situation is rapidly becoming apparent to all students of the question.

The scattered unit system, or lack of system, also before the Board of Estimate, does not, to my mind, admit of comparison for efficiency and economy. Co-ordination, unification, is the key to efficiency along our vast water front.

In commending, however, the general outlines of the "Willoughby plan," it is only fair that, whether we agree or differ, credit should be given where credit is due. In this case it belongs to our hard-working and enlightened Dock Commissioner, Mr. Calvin Tomkins.

THE VOGUE OF PARIS.

Its Fashions Are Declining, Eye-Witness Says.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You never said a truer word than in your Sunday editorial, "Paris Losing Its Vogue." I am just back from there, and I never before realized so keenly that the once far-famed millinery and dress houses have lost their sense of art. I came back with fewer models bought than ever before, and I have been "Paris buyer" for one of the largest New York importing houses for thirty-five years.

Before I left I read what THE NEW YORK TIMES said, and what Edward Bok said, in your columns, about the decadence of the French in the art of dress, and was impatient with your attitude and Mr. Bok's arguments. But this trip convinced me that you are both right, and that you saw much more clearly than I did. Frankly, the situation is pathetic, considering the unrivaled position that Paris once held as the fashon centre of the world. I have known the trip when I spent $20,000, and on one trip $30,000, for models alone. This time I came back with two models, simply because I did not want to return with empty hands. And I had my accustomed entree in all the great establishments.

You are right, Mr. Editor. The vogue of Paris as a fashion centre is over, and the sooner that the New York dressmakers and milliners realize this truth the better. You and Mr. Bok (for the first time I take my hat off to the Philadelphia editor!) sense the trend right. A new era in woman's dress confronts us, and it is American! I shall strongly urge my house to "line up" with you, for it is the winning line ahead for the firm that first sees "the handwriting on the wall."

A NEW YORK BUYER.

New York, Dec. 2, 1912.

THE TIME HAS COME!

The Turkey's stark cadaver now
Reposes on the platter;
His bones we've picked,
Our chops we've licked,
Disposing of that matter.
The gorging feast is cleared away,
Subsides the hurly-burly,
And I and you
Resolve to do
Our Christmas Shopping Early!

Thanksgiving's the connecting link—
A sort of season's isthmus—
'Twixt humdrum days
And those mad ways
That lead us straight to Christmas.
'Tis crossed, and to the holidays
We've passed the portals pearly;
And I and you
Must rush to do
Our Christmas Shopping Early!

Shop windows now begin to bloom
With scenes exceeding pleasant,
With books and toys
For girls and boys,
And every sort of present.
And every little child's become
A model boy (or girlie),
Reminding you
That you must do
Your Christmas Shopping Early!

Oh, now the elevator boy
Adopts a manner menial;
The janitor
Calls off the war
And dons a mask congenial.
Oh, everybody's full of smiles,
No face is dour or surly,
Reminding us without a doubt
The time has come to hustle out
And earn or steal or get by guile
Of dollars a Woolworthian pile
On useless purchases to strew,
As we rush round in haste to do
Our Christmas Shopping Early!

M'CUMBER ATTACKS PRESS PUBLICITY LAW

Introduces Bill Repealing Provisions Condemned by Newspaper Publishers.

BECK ON CONSTITUTIONALITY

In Supreme Court Argument Inveighs Against Tyranny of Federal Censorship.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—With the newspaper publicity provisions of the last Post Office Appropriation bill on trial before the Supreme Court of the United States, Senator Porter McCumber of North Dakota to-day introduced a bill repealing those provisions. Mr. McCumber is not a member of the Post Office and Post Roads Committee, but as a regular Republican his voice carries considerable weight. He announced to-day his intention of fighting for the repeal of what he characterized as the "obnoxious provisions" of the existing law.

"The constitutionality of those provisions," said Mr. McCumber, "is already being attacked before the Supreme Court, and I need say nothing on that point. But the provisions have also been attacked privately as unjust burdens upon the newspapers of the country. One of the provisions called for the publication, twice a year, of detailed information of a private character concerning the business of the newspapers. That requirement is a real hardship and to the small country newspaper is a heavy burden. For these reasons I hope to have the measure repealed."

It is thought that no active steps will be taken for the repeal of the provisions until the Supreme Court of the United States has handed down its final ruling. If that ruling should sustain the contention of the New York newspapers involved, Mr. McCumber's measure will probably be dropped as unnecessary. But if the assailed provisions are sustained he will then fight them in the Senate on their merits.

Arguments as to the validity of the law were closed in the Supreme Court to-day, Solicitor General Bullitt speaking for the Government and James M. Beck on behalf of the newspapers, attacking its constitutionality. Mr. Bullitt declared that the law was only an extension of a former regulation which required newspapers to give certain information to the Post Office Department.

Mr. Beck said that one of the great problems of the day was whether the courts should strike down legislation by Congress pretending to exercise a power given it, but in fact a forbidden power. He declared there was an alarming tendency on the part of Congress to do this and that the newspaper publicity law was but a single instance of it.

Taking up the interpretation of the Solicitor General and accepting it for the sake of argument, Mr. Beck said:

"I still contend that Congress may not utilize the advantages of second-class rates to induce a newspaper to submit to unconstitutional requirements. Congress can neither enlarge the powers of the Federal Government over the newspaper press by the duress of exclusion from the mails nor can it do so by bribing the press by the offer of special rates.

"As to the constitutionality of the statute, three possible defenses were open to the Solicitor General.

"The first was to argue that the requirements of this statute are 'appropriate' and 'plainly adapted' to the effective and economical carriage of the mails and as such within the implied powers of Congress.

"The second was to argue that while these statutory requirements are of questionable appropriateness, nevertheless Congress can prescribe the conditions upon which second-class rates will be granted, however foreign such conditions may be to the regulation of the mails.

"The third was to assert that without respect to such regulation Congress has the absolute and unrestricted power to determine upon what conditions the citizen can use the mails.

"Apparently the Solicitor General had little confidence in the first contention. He makes little, if any, effort to argue that these statutory requirements have any legitimate relation either to the effective or economical carriage of the mails or to the classification of mail matter. He does not dispute that the branding of paid matter as an advertisement or the enforced publication of the details of a newspaper publication in its own columns, for the sake of the public, have no bearing upon the question either of the physical carriage of such newspapers or its equitable contribution to postal expenses.

"The Solicitor General bases his contention upon the second and third defenses. Between these there is only a difference in degree. The contention is essentially the same, that either by the duress of a threatened exclusion from the mails or by the inducement of special privileges as to rates Congress is competent to effect objects which the Solicitor General practically concedes are not, in themselves, appropriate subjects for Federal legislation.

"The Solicitor General does not shrink from the logic of his contention. With admirable sincerity, and with even greater courage, he accepts and asserts the full logical extreme of that contention. He boldly asserts that the power of Congress over the mails is 'absolute' and 'unrestrained,' and that it can use such power for any purpose, however it may otherwise transgress the limited powers of Congress.

"A more amazing and radical contention has never, to my knowledge, been submitted to this court.

"That I may not be charged with misstating his contention, I quote several typical passages in the Government's brief:

> As an incident to that vast development Congress has, and of necessity must have, absolute power to say what it will exclude from and what it will carry in the mails and the terms, conditions, and postal rates on which it will carry mail matter.
> A possible abuse of power is no argument against its existence, but we may as well observe that a denial of the mails to a paper because of its ownership or the views held by its owners may well be illegal as having no relation to the thing carried in the mails unless the views are expressed in the paper; but if such views are expressed in the paper Congress can doubtless exclude them just as Congress could now exclude all papers advocating lotteries, prohibition, anarchy, or a protective tariff, if a majority of Congress thought such views against public policy.

"If, therefore, the next Congress should pass a law that no newspaper should be admitted to the privileges of second-class matter unless its editorial columns should support the views of the majority in the next Congress as to a revision of the tariff, the judiciary would be powerless to prevent such a strangling of free discussion.

"If so, it must logically follow that the next Congress could not only bribe the newspaper press of the country into acceptance of lower tariff duties by the privilege of cheap or free postage, but it could force them into such acquiescence by a denial of any mailing facilities whatever.

"That neither the next nor any American Congress would so offend the spirit of our institutions does not affect the test of such an illustration.

"Either Congress has, as the Solicitor General contends, the power to prescribe 'absolutely,' and without the possibility of judicial review, the conditions on which the citizen shall use the mails, or Congress has only the power, in carrying out its great functions as a carrier of the mails, to prescribe such conditions as have a legitimate and appropriate reference to that function.

"Between these two propositions there seems to be no middle ground. Either the power is absolute and unrestrained, however tyrannical its exercise, or the power, only vaguely enumerated in the Constitution, was delegated for a special purpose and the true definition of the power is limited to that purpose, and all acts done under the pretense of exercising that power, but beyond its legitimate scope, are unconstitutional.

"If this court shall sustain the contention of the Government, and thus declare that Congress has an absolute power to declare what the citizen must do in order to avail himself of postal facilities, then we may expect a wide and indefensible extension of Federal power, of which neither the generation that framed the Constitution nor any succeeding generation, except the present, would have dreamed as a possibility."

JUNIORS DANCE ONE STEP AND WALTZES

First Cotillion of the Season Brings Out Great Array of Debutantes at Sherry's.

DINNERS PRECEDE THE BALL

Mrs. Grover Cleveland Assists Mrs. A. M. Dodge in Receiving Guests—Miss Cleveland in Gay Throng.

The first of this season's Junior Cotillions last night in Sherry's large ballroom brought out the great majority of the season's débutantes, and was, as usual, a brilliant success.

Following the custom adopted last year there was no cotillion as general dancing had been found to be better liked by the younger dancing set. The music last night was confined to that suited to the one-step and waltzes, and these were the accepted dances of the evening.

The Junior Cotillions are early dances. The guests began arriving between 9 and 10 o'clock, and were received by Mrs. Arthur Murray Dodge, the head of the cotillions, who was assisted by Mrs. Grover Cleveland and Mrs. Howland Davis.

A number of dinners preceded the dance, including those given by Mrs. Gilbert Colgate for her daughter, Miss Florence Colgate, at which Mrs. Grover Cleveland and Miss Esther Cleveland were guests; Mrs. James M. Hartshorne, Mrs. William Armstrong, Mrs. C. Grosvenor Wyeth, Mrs. Lindsey Tappin, Mrs. J. Todhunter Thompson, Mrs. Robert Sands, and Miss Sherman Flint.

Among the débutantes were the Misses Amy Bradish Johnson, Katherine Steele, Margaret Wagstaff, Caroline Wyeth, Florence Colgate, Esther Cleveland, Julia Edey, Pauline Clarkson, Audrey Osborn, Clover Todd, Louise Chappell, Eleanor Taylor, Muriel Winthrop, Margaret Trevor, Mary Baker, Priscilla Bull, Margaret Schieffelin, Gertrude Mali, Margaret Overton, Gertrude Hoyt, Margaret Colgate, Cornelia de L. Cammann, Alida Chanler, Eleanor Hartshorne, Edith Logan, Eugenie Ladenburg, Jane Morgan, Alice Abbott, Elise Francke, Fonrose Wainwright, Helen Hiss, Teresa Thayer, Grovene Converse, Caroline Ward, Frances Ward, Helen J. Du Bois, Hope Hamilton, Anne Rogers, Susanne Warren, Anna Wright, Helene Underwood, Mary Pyne, Marianne Foote, Mary and Augusta Bishop, Mary Brooks, and Margaret Andrews.

Also the Misses Margaret Bowers, Elizabeth Kendall, Vieva Fisher, Ruth Davis, Augusta and Louise Dixon, Marjorie and Florence Blair, Margreta Beekman, Agnes Claflin, Niña and Winifred Chisolm, Betty Carson, Sybil Davis, Louisa Johnson, Lisa Todd, Constance Williams, Katharine Sands, Dorothy Porter, Anne Rogers, Urling Sibley, Margaret Knapp, Elizabeth Thompson, Jean Morris.

This year's patronesses include several new names, those of Mrs. Egerton L. Winthrop, Mrs. Adolf Ladenburg, Mrs. John A. Logan, Jr., and Mrs. James M. Hartshorne being among them. Mrs. Grover Cleveland is also a patroness, also Mrs. William Armstrong, Mrs. W. G. Bates, Mrs. W. B. Beekman, Mrs. C. Ledyard Blair, Mrs. Charles Cammann, Jr., Mrs. W. M. Carson, Mrs. Lewis S. Chanler, Mrs. W. F. Chappell, Mrs. B. O. Chisolm, Mrs. John Claflin, Mrs. R. R. L. Clarkson, Mrs. Gilbert Colgate, Mrs. J. Colby Colgate, Mrs. Howland Davis, Mrs. C. P. Dixon, Mrs. Frederick Edey, Mrs. Philip Hiss, Mrs. Joseph B. Hoyt, Mrs. H. M. Johnson, Mrs. E. S. Knapp, Mrs. L. O. Ledyard, Mrs. Pierre Mali, Mrs. J. P. Morgan, Jr., Mrs. Ogden M. Reid, Mrs. H. H. Porter, Mrs Archibald Rogers, Mrs. Frederick Roosevelt, Mrs. R. A. Sands, Mrs. H. W. Sibley, Mrs. Charles Steele, Mrs. Lindsley Tappin, Mrs. J. Todhunter Thompson, Mrs. Henry A. Todd, Mrs. H. G. Trevor, Mrs. Alfred Wagstaff, Sr., Mrs. J. Mayhew Wainwright, Mrs. Waldron Williams, and Mrs. C. Grosvenor Wyeth.

The next Junior Cotillion will be on Jan. 7.

PASSENGERS FROM EUROPE.

Some of the Passengers on Kaiserin Auguste Victoria and Cincinnati.

Among the passengers who arrived from Europe yesterday were:

KAISERIN AUGUSTE VICTORIA, (Hamburg.)—Count d'Aramon, Mr. and Mrs. Rathbone Bacon, Mrs. Charles F. Berwind, Mrs. James A. Burden, Countess Butler, Dr. and Mrs. E. N. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Duryea, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Millard, Dr. and Mrs. William H. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Purdy, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Remington, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stewart, and Count Avogli Trotti.

CINCINNATI, (Naples.)—Mrs. James W. Bailey, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Beer, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Berman, Mrs. James A. Draper, the Misses Draper, Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Egan, Col. and Mrs. Thomas J. Ewell, the Misses Emma B. and Eugenia Ewing, Mr. and Mrs. Bert L. Fenner, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Kenyon, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Kuhn, Mr. and Mrs. Watson P. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Potter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Riggs, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Robbins, Gen. and Mrs. B. J. Viljoen, Mr. and Mrs. Giles Whiting, and Mrs. L. Wickersham.

Mrs. William Armstrong Gives Dinner

Mrs. William Armstrong gave a dinner last evening, taking her guests later to the Junior Cotillion. The dinner was for her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Kendall, and the guests included the Misses Edith Logan, Tesson Thayer, Mary Brooks, Estelle O'Brien, Edward Stevens, Francis Boyd, William C. Bullitt, Jr., Robert Herrick, Edmond O'Brien, Lisle Forman, and Richard Davison.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Mrs. E. Arthur Stanley Clarke of 10 East Seventy-fifth Street will give a reception on Saturday, Dec. 7 to introduce her daughter, Miss Louise Clarke.

Gov. Gen. W. Cameron Forbes of the Philippines, accompanied by Mrs. Forbes, his mother, arrived yesterday at the Hotel Gotham for a brief visit. Mrs. Stanley Mortimer and Miss Edith Mortimer are at the hotel for a few days, and Mr. and Mrs. George Bird, who have been visiting at Tuxedo, are there to remain for the Winter.

Mrs. Henry Belt and her son and daughter, Bryce Gray and Miss Ada Bryce Gray, are at 69 East Fifty-fourth Street for the season.

Mrs. Walter Eyre Lambert will give the first of her Wednesdays at home today in her new house, 112 East Thirty-fifth Street.

Mrs. Henry Harris Barnard and Mrs. Arthur Knox will be at home on Saturday at 75 Central Park West. The guests are asked to meet Miss Wemple.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Moffett, Jr., of 2,170 Broadway are receiving congratulations on the birth of their second child, a daughter, yesterday at their home. Mrs. Moffett was Miss Adelaide T. McMichael.

Mrs. William B. Trowbridge and her daughter, Miss Ruth Carroll, have arrived in New York and are at the Seville. Miss Carroll will spend most of the Winter here.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis James Pooler of Tuxedo are at the St. Regis for a short visit.

Mrs. Henry C. Emmet gave last night at her residence, 39 East Seventy-second Street, the second of two large dinners, followed by dancing, for her daughter, Miss Marie L. Emmet, who came out last year. Her first dinner guests were débutantes, but last night there were a few young married people and a number of last year's buds.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds Hitt and Mrs. Franklin MacVeagh of Washington, D. C., are at the Ritz-Carlton.

Count R. A. Trotti of Paris is at the Plaza, to remain the balance of the Winter. Mrs. Richard Townsend of Washington is also at the Plaza, the guest of Mrs. C. H. Strong.

Mrs. Arthur Lehman of 31 West Fifty-sixth Street will give a coming-out tea to-day for her daughter, Miss Marcelle Lehman.

The marriage of Miss Louise Polhemus and Howard Elwood Ogle will take place at the North Reformed Church in Newark to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, to be followed by a reception at the bride's home. The Rev. Henry E. Cobb of New York will officiate.

Miss Mary Tillinghast will give a tea this afternoon at 3 Washington Square, at which there will be Southern songs and dances by the Misses Bettie Lee and Donna Bain.

Mrs. George S. Brewster has given the use of her house, 71 East Seventy-first Street, this afternoon for a sale of holiday gifts in aid of the Baby's Hospital of this city.

Owing to mourning the marriage this afternoon of Miss Isabel Atterbury and Le Roy Miller will be very quiet.

Miss Amy B. Johnson's Debut.

Mrs. William G. Bates gave yesterday afternoon the first of three Tuesdays in December, to introduce informally her daughter, by her first husband, Miss Amy Bradish Johnson, at her residence, 46 East Thirty-fourth Street.

Miss Louisa Johnson, a cousin of the bud, poured chocolate, and Mrs. Bates and Miss Johnson had among those assisting them to receive the callers, the Misses Evelyn Brown, Louise Chappell, Margaret Wagstaff, and Ruth Carroll.

Mrs. Sherman Flint gave a dinner after the tea for Miss Johnson, and from which the guests went to the Junior Cotillion.

Dinner for Miss Caroline Wyeth.

Mrs. C. Grosvenor Wyeth gave a dinner last evening at 9 East Seventy-fifth Street for her débutante daughter, Miss Caroline L. Wyeth, after which the guests went on to the Junior Cotillion. The guests included Miss Frances Wyeth and the Misses Louise Chappell, Margaret Trevor, Murial Winthrop, Priscilla Buil, and Mary Baker; also Harold Pardee, G. Forest Butterworth, William J. Curtis, Harold Fowler, Lyman Butler, Stewart Baker, Charles Baker, and Beverley Duer.

Dinner for Miss Colgate.

Mrs. Gilbert Colgate gave a dinner last night at her residence, 306 West Seventy-sixth Street, for her daughter, Miss Florance Colgate, who made her début last Wednesday at a tea and dance given by Mrs. Colgate. Later Mrs. Colgate took her guests to the Junior Cotillion.

Mrs. Grover Cleveland and Miss Esther Cleveland were among the visitors, and others were Miss Camilla Morgan of Princeton, and the Misses Cora Weir, Ruth Purvis, and Mrs. Colgate's daughter, Mrs. Stanley Rumbough. The men included Lieut. Stanley Rumbough, Lieut. Wright Rumbough, Bruce Cortelyou, Edward Freeman, Philip Stimson, Arnold Knauth, Samuel Bell, and the Messrs. Mitchell, Bryan and Hughson of Princeton.

Mrs. George Place Gives a Tea.

Mrs. George Place gave a tea yesterday afternoon at her residence, 125 East Fifty-seventh Street, to meet Mr. and Mme. Coiran. Mrs. John Livor, Mrs. Oliver Wells, and Mrs. Theodore Benedict helped receive, and Mrs. Herbert W. Carpenter poured tea. Among those at the tea were Mrs. L. L. Delafield, Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, Arthur Goadby, Mrs. Lowrey Gillett, Mrs. Henry W. Bookstaver, Mrs. Wilson Shannon Dunn, Mrs. Henry W. Warner, Mrs. Joseph Bourne, Mrs. William C. Dickey, Mrs. Patten Glover, Miss Sabina Rutherfurd, and Miss Florence Haskell.

Miss Beers Weds Louis G. Lestrade.

The marriage of Miss Eleanor Newell Beers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Hart Beers of 120 West Thirty-ninth Street, and Louis Georges Lestrade, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Lestrade of 238 West Seventy-first Street, took place yesterday in the Brick Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. William Pierson Merrill officiating. The couple's engagement was announced last March.

OLD AQUATINT SOLD FOR $475

'New York from Hobuck Ferry' Brings Highest Price at Sale of Lehne Prints.

An aquatint "New York from Hobuck Ferry House, New Jersey," commonly known as "the Jukes view," issued in 1800, brought the record price of $475 at the sale of the John H. A. Lehne prints at the Anderson Galleries last evening. It is printed in colors, and is perhaps the finest example of this rarity in existence. J. F. Sabin and Robert Fridenberg were the chief bidders, and the former obtained it.

A series of six lithograph views of Broadway, the City Hall, Post Office, Merchants' Exchange, Chatham Square, and Custom House, published by Henri Bonig, printed in color and framed together printed, of extreme rarity, being the only perfect set known, went to Mr. Fridenberg for $150. He also bought for the Long Island Historical Society an original painting of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, which was knocked down for $33.

J. F. Sabin gave $121 for a water-color drawing of Broadway, showing St. Paul's Church. Mr. Fridenberg got three panoramic views of buildings on the west side of Lower Broadway for $21.50, a bargain. They were catalogued as woodcuts, but are said to be the copperplates known as "the Tallis prints." Mr. Fridenberg paid, respectively, $106 and $125 for two views, "New York from Weehawk" and "New York Heights Near Brooklyn," engraved by J. Hill.

W. C. Crew obtained for $60 the Visscher Map, first state, with engraved view of New Amsterdam. An original copy of the poster offering rewards for the apprehension of President Lincoln's murderers went to C. L. Murray for $85.

There is so great a demand at present for New York City prints that it will doubtless be of interest to collectors to learn that the notable collection of New York views owned by Henry Goldsmith has just been sold to Robert Fridenberg, who a short time ago bought the fine New York print collection of C. C. Moreau.

The Lehne Colonial antiquities in the second afternoon's sale at the Anderson Galleries yesterday brought returns to $1,544. A pair of Wedgewood black basalt vases brought $400, the highest of the sale. Daniel Duffie paid the second highest price, $355, for an old San Domingo Emmahogany Empire sideboard. A Meissen covered tureen made for the Crystal Palace Exhibition in London in 1848, whose companion is in the Walters collection, in Baltimore, brought $160. An interesting Chinese Chippendale mirror went to Joseph B. Roy for $65. Mrs. H. Esberg paid $130 for a Sheraton high post bedstead with inlaid panels, and a Sheraton arm chair sold for $110. The sale continues this afternoon.

WILKIE COLLINS AGAIN ON THE STAGE

In a Version of "Man and Wife," Old-Fashioned in Spite of Its Modern Manners.

MR. COOPER'S FINE ACTING

A Welcome Figure on Our Stage in a Cast in Which Walter Hampden and Others Do Good Work.

THE INDISCRETION OF TRUTH, a comedy-drama in four acts, by J. Hartley Manners. Harris Theatre.

Sir George Stirling, Bart.	Frank K. Cooper
Bruce Darrell	Walter Hampden
Capt. William Greville	Henry Mortimer
Ben Knivett	Dan Collyer
Henry Marston	Alexander Frank
Donald Tweedie	Richard Purdon
Thomas	William Eville
Lady Stirling	Nina Herbert
Kate Stirling	Violet Kemble Cooper
Truth Coleridge	Anne Meredith
Mrs. Radnor	Muriel Starr
Mrs. Darrell	Mrs. Thomas Whiffen

Not brain, nor brawn, but good old John Barleycorn had the decision in the third round of "The Indiscretion of Truth," at the Harris Theatre last night. For it was then and there that Mr. Bruce Darrell, described on the very loquacious programme as a gentleman athlete, met his defeat of a heart weakened by alcohol and other excesses immediately after he had wound his cruel fingers about the gleaming throat of the beautiful young woman whom he had so horribly deceived.

Her name in the play was Truth, and her indiscretion consisted of a visit to a Scotch inn to meet the gentleman athlete, who had promised to marry her, and allowing it to be inferred that she was the wife of another man, who brought his dilatory letter. Which constituted a marriage, according to the Scotch law, which is as misty and smoky, and uncertain in effect, as some other things Scotch.

Wherefore Truth was presently in the unfortunate position of seemingly having two husbands, neither of whom was particularly anxious to set her up in an establishment. But presently the brutal and athletic one having been foiled by Ruth's confession, denied the girl he thought he loved, and cut off with a shilling or something less, stood upon his dignity as lord and master and ordered her "home" quite as the gentlemen in the English novels address themselves to James in his livery on the box-seat.

This, in the day and generation of militant suffragettes and other kinds, seemed just a little quaint. But truth to tell it was not so strange when you come to think of it, since "The Indiscretion of Truth" by another name would still be "Man and Wife," by Wilkie Collins. To be sure, Mr. J. Hartley Manners, with no attempt at deception, of course, had substituted the rather colorless name of Bruce Darrell for the highly decorative Geoffrey Delamayne of the original author, but his play in effect differed comparatively little from the type of thing which used to be regarded with favor in the days of long ago.

Perhaps the pressure of modern life has robbed us of the ability to thrill as easily as did our fathers and mothers before us, perhaps the promptness with which the really dramatic happenings of life are put before us in the daily papers makes these fictitious things seem very tame. But whatever the reason, it is no longer possible to get up much excitement with snippets from the authors of yesteryear, no matter how capably these snippets are put before us.

However, Mr. Manners's play had the advantage of a cast which in many respects was decidedly superior.

It was a genuine pleasure to see in the rôle of the mellowed middle-aged protector of beauty in distress a player so informed, so skillful, so varied and ingratiating as Frank Kemble Cooper, whose name serves as a reminder of glorious stage tradition, and whose art by no means belittles it. If for nothing more than the appearance of this splendid actor in New York, one is willing to forgive almost anybody's indiscretion. It was apparent, too, that with better opportunities than last night's rôle provided, Miss Violet Kemble Cooper might have something to offer that would be valuable. As it was she did much with little and was right welcome.

Having said which for the visitors let it be mentioned that Walter Hampden played the athlete forcibly, with discretion, and with a well suggested note of tenderness in the scene which allowed a softening of the otherwise ungrateful character. The rôle, by the way, is one which the late Frank Mayo played most magnificently in a version of his own making known as "The Athlete."

Miss Muriel Starr added a charming performance, Mrs. Whiffen played her one scene splendidly, and Miss Nina Herbert, looking radiant, played so well that it was easy to forgive her that long stage wait. Incidentally, Mr. Cooper's holding of this difficult point illustrated the value of authority on the stage.

In a brief part Mr. Dan Collyer provided a few pleasant moments, while Miss Ann Meredith brought an appealing beauty to the scene if not much suggestion of emotional stress and storm.

It does seem as though some Edison of the theatre might by this time have invented a non-rub-offable whitener that stage ladies might use without leaving their complexions so carelessly on the coats of sentimental gentlemen with whom their scenes are played. And when a lady's ruby, ruby lips come right off in meeting on another lady's pinky, pinky cheeks—well, isn't it really a slander on the sex? One likes to believe the best.

Richard A. Saalfield.

Richard Albert Saalfield, operatic impresario and publisher of popular music, died yesterday in St. Luke's Hospital from heart disease and paralysis. Mr. Saalfield had suffered from heart disease for several years. Last Monday he had an attack and was taken from his apartment in the Vanderbilt Hotel to St. Luke's Hospital.

Mr. Saalfield was born in England in 1857. In the early 80's he became identified with several musical productions in London and later went into operatic work. Twenty years ago he began in New York to issue popular songs. Mr. Saalfield left a widow, a son, and two daughters.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Mme. Nazimova in "Bella Donna" will move to Wallack's Theatre for the three weeks beginning with Dec. 23, that Maude Adams is to have at the Empire Theatre in "Peter Pan."

Matinees of "Little Women" will be given at the Playhouse on every afternoon during Christmas and New Year's weeks.

Miss Ada Sterling will give a series of readings at the Hotel St. Regis on Thursday mornings at 11 o'clock on "Current International Drama." The first, to be given to-morrow will be "La Robe Rouge," by Eugene Brieux. Others will be "Un Petit Bon Diable," by Mme. Rostand and Maurice Rostand, and "Gabriel Schilling's Flucht," by Gerhart Hauptmann.

An addition to the programme of the performance at the Century Theatre Friday afternoon for the benefit of the Women's Titanic Memorial will be Mme. Maria Rappold, who will appear through the courtesy of Gatti Casazza.

ADELINE GENEE AGAIN CHARMS

Dancer Reappears at the Metropolitan in a Programme of Variety.

Adeline Genée made her reappearance in New York yesterday afternoon at the Metropolitan Opera House after an absence of more than a season, and for two hours charmed an audience that filled the big building. However well she has danced before, she seemed to have gained an added skill and an added grace yesterday. Her simulation of girlishness, her perfect technique, and her almost peculiar ability to dance "all over," with her arms and hands and face as well as her feet, kept the audience either attentively quiet or active with spontaneous applause.

The programme for the afternoon contained plenty of variety. It began with several selections by a symphony orchestra under the direction of Nahan Franko, that included the overture from "Ruy Blas" and a ballet suite by Rameau. Then came "La Camargo," a pantomime dance by C. Wilhelm, with music by Dora Bright. "La Camargo," the favorite Court dancer of Louis XV., is importuned by Mme. Laroche to obtain a pardon for her son, who has been arrested for striking an officer. The dancer has just received an insulting note from the officer, and she undertakes the task. The King is announced. "La Camargo" attempts to win his favor by showing him the steps of a new dance, and finally by dancing with him. She succeeds only when she has given him the note she has received. When the young soldier has received the pardon from her hands and departed, she recalls the days of her youth spent with him and realizes her lonesomeness as a dancer.

M. Volinin, who is Mlle. Genee's chief support this season, had the rôle of the soldier, a part that gave him practically no opportunity. Eric Sterling appeared as Louis XV., Julia Seale as the mother, and Mlle. Peters as a maid, all capable pantomimists.

Volinin's opportunity come in the next number. This was called on the programme a pas deux, but only one-third of it deserved that title. This was an adagio by M. Hauser, and was danced by Volinin and Mlle. Schmolz, a slender, graceful young woman possessed of much skill as a dancer. The second part was a mazurka of Chopin, which Volinin danced alone, and which brought loud applause from the audience. The third part of the number, "Butterflies," by A. Steinke, was danced alone by Mlle. Schmolz.

The polka comique from "Les Millions d'Arlequin," by Drigo, fell to Mlle. Genée and Volinin, and, though brief, seemed the best liked of all of the numbers. A Harlequin, come into wealth, attempts to attract Columbine, and gets into considerable trouble for his efforts. This is a dance with a sense of humor, and as it was performed it kept the audience chuckling until its rather dramatic climax in which Harlequin steals a kiss and receives a good slap for it.

The final dance number was the divertissement from "Robert le Diable." Henry Miller, as Bertram, sang the story in a rich baritone that pleased the house. Volinin appeared as Robert, Duke of Normandy, who succumbs to the seductions of the resuscitated nuns, and Mlle. Genée danced the rôle of Helena, the most beautiful of the women. And when it was over there were half a dozen curtain calls for the two.

The other orchestra numbers between the dances included selections from "L'Arlesienne" of Fitez and the overture to "Nozze di Figaro" of Mozart.

Dr. Alice Bunker Stockham.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Dr. Alice Bunker Stockham, physician, author, and suffragist, is dead at her home in Alhambra, near Los Angeles, Cal. Dr. Stockham was born in Cardington, Ohio, Nov. 8, 1833, of Quaker parentage. She was educated at Olivet College, in Michigan, and subsequently attended the Eclectic Medical College in Cincinnati, from which she received the degree of M. D. in 1854. She also attended the Chicago Homeopathic College, graduating from there in 1880. On Aug. 11, 1857, she was married to G. H. Stockham of Cincinnati. Dr. Stockham practiced medicine in Indiana and in Chicago, established and became the President of the Stockham Publishing Company, and was an active worker for social purity, woman suffrage, and social reform. In 1900 she established a school of philosophy at Williams Bay, Wis. She was one of the pioneers of the eugenic movement. Mr. Cree began in 1873 his long career as Secretary of the International Committee.

MENDELSSOHN'S "ELIJAH."

First Performance of the Oratorio Society Under Its New Conductor.

For the first time since the foundation of the Oratorio Society of New York its direction has gone into other hands than those of a Damrosch. At the concert with which it began its fortieth season last evening it was directed by its new conductor, Mr. Louis Koemmenich. Dr. Frank Damrosch resigned the conductorship last Spring. Before him the society had been conducted by his brother, Walter Damrosch, who succeeded his father, Dr. Leopold Damrosch, its founder, on his death. The long and honorable record of the society, which has had an existence paralleled by few other choral organizations in New York, seems likely to be continued under the new conductor.

The performance was one of Mendelssohn's "Elijah," which was given by the Oratorio Society for the twenty-first time. The chorus was, of course, largely familiar with the music, for which reason the performance hardly called into play all the powers of the new conductor. It did so to a sufficient degree, however, to show that he is a man of experience and authority, able to mold a choral performance in accordance with his wishes and having conceptions well grounded and artistic. "Elijah" has been presented in a more vividly and powerfully dramatic manner, so far as the choruses are concerned; but they were well sung, with fine volume and excellent quality of tone. Variety of dynamic effect was not lacking; and in softer passages the results were especially good. The Oratorio Society is not well balanced in its tone and has not been in recent years, owing to the deficiency of men singers.

The solo quartet was of unusual excellence. Mr. Whitehill sings the music of Elijah with much weight and emphasis, with authority, and an impressiveness gained from his finely dramatic characterization and declamatory power. Miss Heinkle's beautiful soprano voice and finished style have often been admired in recent years. Miss Keyes, the contralto, is less well known in New York, but she, too, has a beautiful voice and finished style that were delightfully employed in the music that falls to her share in this oratorio. The tenor was Paul Althouse, whose voice has power and vibrancy, and is well under his control, though it may not have all distinction in its quality, nor he all artistic refinements in his interpretation. But his unaffected and earnest manner made his performance count for much. All four of these singers are to be especially congratulated on the unusual clearness and intelligibility of their enunciation, which made almost unnecessary the book of the words that was at the disposal of each listener.

The minor part of the youth was sung by Miss Edith Kruse. The New York Symphony Orchestra played the orchestral part. Mr. Koemmenich was not especially successful with the overture; but some of the more elaborate accompaniments, as that to the final chorus of the first part, "Thanks be to God," were well played. There might be a question as to advisability of pausing so long for the benefit of late comers after the preliminary recitative and before the overture; for there is a logical connection here that is broken. The audience was one of the largest ones the Oratorio Society has had in recent years. Its interest in the performance was manifest.

REV. DR. COLLYER BURIED.

Ministers Pay Tribute at Funeral Services in Church of the Messiah.

The funeral services for Dr. Robert Collyer, pastor emeritus of the Church of the Messiah, were held yesterday morning in the church at Thirty-fourth Street and Park Avenue, of which he was for many years the leader. The doors of the church were thrown open at half-past nine, and before ten o'clock the church was nearly filled. On the main floor, in seats for them, sat the Trustees of the church and the family of Dr. Collyer, which included Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Collyer, Mrs. Emma Hosmer of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Roberts, Mrs. Sarah Collyer, the Misses Lucy and Annie Eastman, and Norman Eastman.

The altar was a mass of flowers and palms. The coffin, on its pedestal directly in front of the pulpit, was covered with red and white roses and violets. These flowers, as well as several set pieces on opposite sides of the platform, were sent by members of the family. The edges of the platform and pulpit were covered with wreaths of chrysanthemums and roses and white lilies, gifts from friends and relatives of Dr. Collyer, and also from clubs and societies. Above all were two candelabra, each bearing eleven lighted candles.

Pastor John Haynes Holmes of the Church of the Messiah, successor to Dr. Collyer, preached the funeral sermon. His Scripture passages were principally from the New Testament.

Then the church choir of four sang Hayden's "O, Worship the King."

Dr. Merle St. Croix Wright, pastor of the Lenox Avenue Unitarian Church, said that Dr. Collyer first spoke to twenty-nine persons who later became the nucleus of his present congregation.

The Rev. Mr. Holmes of the Church of the Messiah will preach in that church next Sunday on "Robert Collyer, Saint and Seer." In honor of the dead pastor emeritus the bulletin board bears the following motto of Dr. Collyer, under the caption, "Bulletin Sermon":

And this is the preparation for a good old age. Duty well done, for its own sake, for God's sake, and for the sake of the commonwealth of men.

(Signed) ROBERT COLLYER.

The Trustees who were honorary pallbearers, were: Dr. James H. Parker, Justice George L. Ingraham, M. B. Cary, Ira A. Place, William Sherer, William Shillaber, H. E. Taylor, Joseph Eastman, and William F. Miller.

A special train took the funeral party to Woodlawn, where the interment was made.

The following cablegram was received yesterday by the family of Dr. Collyer from Mayor Briggs of Keighley, England, the birthplace of Dr. Collyer: "Keighley, Dr. Collyer's birthplace, condoles."

An Author With a Message Seeks a Publisher

The writer wishes to have published a small book of about ten thousand words which he has written. It has been made studiously brief in order that it may be perused at one reading, and it should be sold at retail for fifty cents.

This unconventional, though simple and direct, method of seeking a publisher need not indicate that there is anything freakish either in the book or its author. Nor need it indicate that the author is willing to have his book issued by any except a publisher of standing.

The little book is philosophical and sociological in its nature, but it is not of the esoteric, unpopular type. It is devoted to a propaganda, a sane and intensely practical one, which the author believes is, in its essence, the refinement of common sense.

Its perusal is certain to be of some help to all who read it, and to many of its readers it will be of incalculable benefit. The book's appeal will be widespread, and it will have a large sale. These are not the mere optimistic beliefs of a writer enthusiastic over his own work. Convincing proof of their soundness is available.

AMERICAN GOLFERS TO PLAY IN ENGLAND

Findlay S. Douglas Plans for Invasion of Party of Amateurs Next Season.

It is quite likely that half a dozen or more American amateur golfers will visit England next Spring to play in the British amateur championship over the historic St. Andrew's course. The plan is only tentative, but there is a strong probability that some of the best-known players within a short distance of New York will make up a party for the purpose of taking a golfing trip abroad.

Findlay S. Douglas, who came to America a dozen years ago and has been the holder of both the National and metropolitan titles, became imbued with the idea that he would like to visit St. Andrew's, his former home course. This desire was accentuated by the fact that this famous course will be the scene of the British championship. Douglas then conceived the idea of asking several friends to accompany him. When he mentioned the matter they became enthusiastic and expessed a desire to make up a party for a six weeks' trip, visiting St. Andrew's, and possibly several other courses in England, Scotland, or on the Continent.

There is to be no organized attempt to get up a party, with the purpose of making a conquest for British titles. The efforts on the part of American players in Great Britain have been attended with failure, with the exception of in 1904, when Walter J. Travis came home with the British championship.

Douglas has spoken to Eben M. Byers, Oswald Kirkby, Fred Herreshoff, W. C. Fownes, Jr., Howard W. Perrin, P. W. Whittemore, Robert C. Watson, and John M. Ward, all of whom have expressed a keen desire for going. George Crump and A. W. Tillinghast, both of Philadelphia, are also anxious to go.

Herreshoff went abroad last Spring, but his visit to Westward Ho was disappointing. He believes he will be able to do much better this trip. Kirby was anxious to go with Herreshoff last Spring, but was unable to do so. He feels reasonably sure of going next Spring. Whittemore, a leader in amateur golf in the vicinity of Boston for years, is anxious to make the trip, and thinks other Massachusetts golfers may go along.

The Westerners have not been considered, except Byers and Fownes, both of Pittsburgh, but there is a possibility of Charles Evans, Jr., runner-up in the National championship this year; Warren K. Wood, Western champion; Albert Seckel, Mason Phelps, and Paul Hunter crossing the "big pond." Byers, Evans, Ward, Whittemore, and Tillinghast have also visited England. Whoever makes the trip will do so at his own expense.

Several weeks ago the intention of John J. McDermott, the National open champion, and several other professionals to go abroad for golfing honors was announced, and if the plans of the amateurs go through, America will have representations in the two biggest golf events of the world next Spring that it has never had before.

The Powelton Club of Newburg at its annual meeting decided to hold an invitation golf tournament next year, in addition to the regular schedule of club competitions. Henry Jova was chosen President for the ensuing year, with Ralph Thompkins as Vice President, while the Treasurer will be William T. Hilton and the Secretary Deyo Belknap. The Board of Directors consists of Gilman P. Tiffany, Dr Harry A. Waldron, John Aspinwall, Homer S. Ramsdell, Dr. W. W. Johonnott, W. T. Cassidy, and F. W. Bain. The Nominating Committee for next year will be composed of George Brewster, Dr. P. R. Ashplant, and E. A. Jova.

COMMODORE RICHARDS OUT.

Charles Smithers to Succeed Him in Larchmont Yacht Club.

The annual meeting of the Larchmont Yacht Club will be held this evening at the Waldorf-Astoria. Routine business will make up the order of the evening, including the election of officers for the coming year. For the first time in several seasons there will be a change in the personnel of the flag officers of the club. Leonard Richards, who for the past three years has been Commodore at Larchmont, will retire, and he will be succeeded by Charles Smithers, owner of the schooner Muriel.

Rear Commodore Francis M. Wilson appears on the new ticket for the office of Vice Commodore, and Charles Morgan has been named for Rear Commodore. Under the management of Commodore Richards the club has prospered wonderfully, and the reports to be read to-night will show that the organization never was in a better condition. The official slate follows:

For Commodore—Charles Smithers, yacht Muriel; Vice Commodore—Francis M. Wilson, yacht Sumida; Rear Commodore—Charles Morgan, yacht Grace II.; Secretary—Edward C. Griffin; Treasurer—Robert E. Robinson; Trustees, Class 1915—Wilson Marshall and Leonard Richards. For Nominating Committee of 1913—G. S. Runk, S. T. Hodgman, G. W. Scott, J. F. Lovejoy, Butler Whiting, L. H. Spence, R. K. Plum, R. H. Halstead, and H. N. Fletcher.

KETCHAM IS YALE CAPTAIN.

Brooklyn Boy to Lead Eli Football Forces Next Year.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 3.—For the first time since 1888 a centre rush was to-night elected Captain of the Yale football eleven in the person of Henry Holman Ketcham of Brooklyn for next season by the twenty-three players who were in the gridiron duels against Harvard and Princeton. Ketcham has been snapback of All-America rank for two seasons and prepared for Yale at the Brooklyn Poly Prep.

Ben Avery, right end, is said to have received several votes to-night, although the election was formally given out as unanimous at the close of the secret session in the trophy room of the gymnasium, in which the balloting took place under the supervision of Capt. Jesse Spalding, who thanked the players for their efforts of the past season. Capt Ketcham said after the election that he had no plans to announce for next season.

Minnesota Starts Football Work.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 3.—With the 1912 football season scarcely out of the way, Coach H. L. Williams has begun active practice for the games of 1913, more than a score of gridiron aspirants reporting for the first work-out in the University of Minnesota armory. Practice will be held once a week, the men being given lectures and formation practice in preparation for outdoor work next Fall.

Shilley Oak Park's Captain.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Ralph Shilley, full back of the Oak Park eleven, claimants of the National high school championship, was yesterday chosen Captain of the team for the season of 1913.

Pennsylvania Football Captain.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—Louis A. Young, who played left end on the University of Pennsylvania football team this season, was to-day elected Captain for next year.

Princeton's Winter Outdoor Track.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 3.—Keene Fitzpatrick, Princeton's trainer of athletes, today completed his supervision of the building of a semi-outdoor track for the use of the Tiger runners in preparation for this season's Winter meets. The track has been constructed under the enormous stands at Osborne Field and is well sheltered on all sides. The atmosphere will be less dense than on an ordinary indoor track, and still not too severe for work in any kind of weather. Princeton's Winter practice was started to-day, when Capt. R. B. Thomas gave the candidates their first workout. The sprinters and field men have had little work for the past five weeks, but the distance runners are in excellent condition as a result of their cross-country experience. About thirty men reported.

Novices on Roller Skates.

The one-half-mile novice roller skating race decided last night at the Metropolitan Roller Rink, Fifty-second Street and Broadway, was won by Leonard Rose. Ben Freidman finished second and J. Moses was third. The race was marred by frequent spills, but no injuries resulted. Phil Cross, the east side boxer, started in the event, but did not make a good showing as a skater. The winner's time was 1:40 1-5.

SUSPENDED FOR "RINGING."

New Jersey Horsemen Set Down Two Years for Offense.

With a record number of cases on the docket for adjustment, the Board of Review of the National Trotting Horse Association began its annual session yesterday at the Murray Hill Hotel. The meeting this year is being presided over by a full board, a rare happening in the history of the association.

The majority of the cases are for violations of the association's rules, failure to pay assessments, and a few charges of "ringing." A number of suspensions and fines comprised the bulk of the officials' work. The longest suspension handed out was that to H. M. C. Fry of Mount Holly, N. J., who was mixed up in two "ringing" cases. The first was that of Ardent Joe, 2:13¼, alias Gypsy Lad, under which name it won a number of purses on the New Jersey Circuit. The horse, which was proved to be Ardent Joe, was expelled, and H. C. Longstreet, W. H. Fisher, I. Fisher, and H. M. C. Fry were all suspended for two years and until the illegal winnings of the horse are paid.

Fry was also found guilty of racing a bay gelding under the name of Reckon, which was identified as Dick Allen, 2:07¼. The board ordered that the winnings of the horse in question be distributed among the parties entitled, and Fry was suspended for two years.

F. O. Strause of Springtown, Penn., and Charles Opdyker of Bethlehem, Penn., were suspended until they return the funds won by Moonshine, 2:18¼, won at Nazareth, Penn. Moonshine was started in a slower class, and after the race the horse was found to have a mark of 2:18¼.

J. E. Connolly of Saginaw, Mich., who appealed his case of suspension on Oct. 25 at Rockport, Ohio, was denied. Connolly started the horse Storm in the 2:10 class, and was suspended for not winning. His suspension for one year will continue.

A speedy decision was reached in the case of E. J. Shem of Fulton, N. Y., who applied for a release from a fine of $200 imposed upon him for not starting in a race. The decision was in favor of the defendant, and the fine was ordered to be paid back to Shem. Shem had entered a horse in a special race and engaged a driver from a nearby town for the occasion. When the race was called the horse was ready to start, but the driver, who was coming to the track by automobile, was stalled and failed to put in an appearance. It is not often recorded in the proceedings of the association that fines are refunded, but the members of the board decided that the owner was not to blame.

The full board sitting at the meeting is: President, P. P. Johnson, Lexington, Ky.; Secretary, W. H. Gocher, Hartford, Conn.; F. O. Beal, Eastern District; J. Howard Ford, Atlantic District; William Russell Allen, Central District; John C. Welty, Western District, and J. H. Booth, Pacific District. The meeting will be continued to-day.

GIANTS WALKED OFTEN.

Official Records Give New York 514 Bases on Balls During Season.

Fred Snodgrass was the most patient batsman among the Giants last season and received 70 passes, according to the official strike-out and base-on-ball record issued by Secretary John Heydler of the National League. Fred Merkle led the team in strike-outs, fanning seventy times. The Giants and the Cubs were the only teams who fooled the pitchers often enough to get more bases on balls than strike-outs. The Giants drew 514 passes during the season and had 497 strike-outs, while the Cubs drew 560 passes and had 492 strike-outs.

Pittsburgh had the least number of passes, 420, while Cincinnati had the least number of strike-outs, 492. Sheckard of Chicago had the unusual high number of 122 bases on balls, while he had next to the highest number of strike-outs, 81. McDonald of Boston fanned more than any other player in the league, 91 times. Among the good walters at bat were Huggins, Titus, Moran, J. Smith, Paskert, Bescher, Bates, and Evers. Pitcher Rube Benton of Cincinnati failed to reach first base on a pass in 50 games.

Johnny Evers had only 18 strike-outs in 143 games, while Larry Doyle was a close second with 20 in 143 games. Heinie Zimmerman, the star batsman of the league, struck out 60 times and got only 38 passes.

The individual records of the New York and Brooklyn players, who played in more than 40 games, are as follows:

HEMPSTEAD AT HELM.

Vice President Will Represent Giants at National League Meeting.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 3.—H. N. Hempstead, son-in-law of the late John T. Brush, President of the New York National League Baseball Club, will depart Saturday for New York, where next week he will represent the team at the annual meeting of the league.

Mr. Hempstead is Vice President of the club, but never has taken an active part in the management of the team. He said that he would make no statement concerning the affairs of the late President until he becomes more familiar with the management. Until after the Brush will is probated Mr. Hempstead will say nothing regarding the rumored sale of the New York team, but his associates believe that the family will continue to hold control, placing the management in the hands of some competent person.

International League Meeting.

President Barrow yesterday issued a call for the annual meeting of the International League for Monday, Dec. 9, at the Hotel Victoria in this city. When the club owners voted to adopt the international title for their league last Fall they also voted a five-year term to President Barrow, so the league has no Presidential election this year, and only minor matters are on the business programme. President James McCaffery and Manager Joe Kelley of the Toronto club will give a dinner to their fellow-club leaders and the visiting newspaper men during the meeting to celebrate the Canadian club's victory in the 1912 pennant race.

Tip O'Neil Requested to Resign.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Announcement of what action he will take with reference to the recent request for his resignation as President of the Western League will be made by "Tip" O'Neil on Jan. 1. The veteran baseball player and executive made this statement to-day, but he declined to divulge the nature of his decision. At the meeting in Milwaukee recently the league voted, five to three, to ask for the resignation. This action grew out of a fight to have headquarters removed from Chicago to some Western city, which plan was opposed by O'Neil.

American Advertising Golf.

All arrangements have been completed for the annual Winter tournament of the Advertising Golf Association, which will be held at Pinehurst, North Carolina, from Jan. 13 to 20, 1913. W. E. Conklyn, who is Chairman of the Transportation Committee, has arranged for a special train to leave New York on the afternoon of Jan. 10. W. C. Freeman, who has worked so indefatigably for the success of these tournaments, is in charge of the tournament, and besides the qualification round for six sixteens, with a prize for the winner and a runner up in each sixteen, there will also be a prize for the winner of the beaten eight in each sixteen. There will also be eleven special events during the week, including putting and approaching contests, and special foursome events for men and women, besides the special tournament for the women guests of the members of the association. The Gold Cup presented by Rodman Wanamaker and now held by Z. T. Miller of the Dunwoodle Country Club will be competed for again. The prizes this year, which will be in gold, will be the most attractive ever given at any of these tournaments. R. R. Mamlok, Chairman of the Trophy Committee, and Louis De Veau, President of the association, have arranged for fifty-four prizes to be competed for.

CRACK RUNNERS FAST IN THREE-MILE RACE

Hannes Kolehmainen and Harry Smith as a Team Cover Distance in 12:29 3-5.

Hannes Kohlemainen, the Finnish runner, and Harry Smith of the Bronx Church House, the ten-mile champion, ran a three-mile exhibition team race at the monthly games of Company F of the Twenty-second Regiment Engineers at the armory last night, and covered the distance in 12:29 3-5, which is 5 2-3 seconds better than the best previous amateur record. The runners covered alternate laps, Kolehmainen beginning and finishing the race. The previous record was made by the same runners.

The half-mile exhibition walk between Fred A. Kaiser of the New York A. C. and Al Voellmeke, unattached, resulted in a dead heat. Kaiser led most of the way, but Voellmeke was right behind him all the time, and in the last few yards came abreast of the New York A. C. pedestrian.

W. A. Van den Dries, Jr., of the New York A. C., tried to make a new bicycle record for a mile, but his time was 2:26 4-5.

The sixty-yard handicap was won by T. Hand in 7 seconds, with J. Strube a close second. T. Buckingham won the 440-yard novice in 1:05 2-5 from W. Qurein. M. Skae ran a good race in the 440-yard run and won in 54 4-5 seconds.

B. Mann won two events, the one-mile walk and the one-mile run. A novelty event was the hippodrome race, in which the athletes' arms were tied in a sack. R. Schafer was most successful in climbing through the obstacles, and won by a large margin from H. Elkan. The summaries:

60-Yard Dash, Handicap.—Won by T. Hand, (12 feet;) J. Strube, (scratch,) second; W. Qurein, (5 feet,) third. Time—0:07.

440-Yard Run, Novice.—Won by T. Buckingham; W. Qurein, second; A. Cramer, third. Time—1:05 2-5.

One-Mile Walk, Handicap.—Won by B. Mann, (scratch;) J. Erwig, (scratch,) second; R. Schafer, (60 seconds,) third. Time—7:26.

Half-Mile Walk, Exhibition.—Dead heat between Fred A. Kaiser, New York A. C., and Al Voellmeke. Time—3:09 1-5.

440-Yard Run, Handicap.—Won by M. Skae, (5 yards;) W. Ritchie, (scratch,) second; H. Elkan, (16 yards,) third. Time—0:54 4-5.

One-Mile Run, Handicap.—Won by B. Mann, (55 yards;) B. Benfield, (55 yards,) second; H. Lightfine, (40 yards,) third. Time—0:50 3-5.

Hippodrome Race, 220 Yards.—Won by R. Schafer; H. Elkan, second; M. Skae, third.

The New York Stock Exchange indoor baseball team defeated the Company F team, the Military League champions, by a score of 6 to 1. The winners bunched their hits in the first two innings, and collected their tallies with the aid of the soldiers' errors. The score by innings:

Stock Exchange	0	1	0	0	0	0	1	6	4

Batteries—Stock Exchange, O'Brien and Tagney; Company F, Odell and Strube.

SEVENTH REGIMENT GAMES.

Winged Foot Athletes to Take Part in Sports of Guardsmen.

New York A. C. men who are affiliated with the Seventh Regiment will be on hand Saturday night to take part in the annual games of the regiment, which promise to be as interesting as any of former years. A big crowd of Winged Foot men will be in attendance, and the sports are expected to prove the best held by the guardsmen for some time past.

J. H. Browning is the hope of B Company for the ninety-three-yard dash, and is also entered for the 220-yard run and on the company relay team. Bonbay, who made the 300-meter record on the regimental floor last Spring, is expected to be among the competitors. The Tuter regimental relay race is to be one of the invitation events of the evening. The teams competing in this event are two squads from the Thirteenth and Seventy-First Regiments and one team from each of the Fourteenth and Twenty-second Regiments. Some of the men on these teams were competitors in the Olympic games.

Although the Seventh Regiment will not have a team in this race, their closed relay race will be at a similar distance, and they will be able to see by a true comparison what place they would have secured had they competed. After the games there will be dancing in the upper drill hall and a supper will be served in the mess room.

COLUMBIA "C" AWARDS.

Forty-three Athletes Receive Highest Honors for Competition.

'Varsity letters and monograms were awarded to Columbia's athletes yesterday for the work which they did in athletic contests during the last year. Forty-three 'Varsity "C's" were awarded to members of the crew, baseball and basket ball teams, and to the Captain of the 'Varsity swimming team. Four freshmen were winners of the "C." Not a single 'Varsity athlete doubled up and won his letter in two forms of sport. Those who received the 'Varsity "C" were:

Northwestern's Coach Quits.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Coach Charles E. Hammett of Northwestern University tendered his resignation as director of athletics to President Abram W. Harris last night. The resignation is to take effect in June, at the end of the scholastic year. Dissatisfaction with the non-success of the teams representing the university is said to have impeded Mr. Hammett's usefulness and to have caused him to take the step he did. President Harris, in accepting the resignation, declared that he did not like to see Hammett go.

"I think he has done much good work. He had no material on which to work, and other things made coaching hard for him," said Mr. Harris, who added that no one was in sight as his successor. Mr. Hammett's resignation was voluntary.

Stars in Bradhurst Meet.

More than seventy entries have been received for the three-mile novice run which will be the feature of the Bradhurst Field Club's athletic meet at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory on Saturday night. It is expected that it will be one of the biggest races of the indoor season in point of entries. Jim Duffy, the Canadian long-distance runner, will start in the twelve-mile team race with a local runner as partner. Twelve teams have already entered this event. Kolehmeinan and Smith are favorites in the long race. Howard Drew, the Springfield High School sprinter, has entered the seventy-yard event and will have several local stars as opponents, including Alvah Meyer. Several clubs have entered teams in the medley race, and among them are the Long Island Athletic Club, Mohawk Athletic Club, Morningside Athletic Club, Mott Haven Athletic Club, West Side Young Men's Christian Association, and the Sheridan Athletic Club.

AUTOS SMASH HEAD-ON.

Machine Badly Shattered at Auto Polo Game at Madison Square Garden.

Auto polo, with all its thrills, entertained two crowds of good proportions at Madison Square Garden yesterday afternoon and last evening, the final games until after the six-day bike riders finish up their strenuous grind in the big amphitheatre. The honors were evenly divided between the two teams engaged in the sport, Sterling and Jackson taking the afternoon game by the score of 11 to 10, while the evening session went to King and Ferriter by the score of 15 to 12.

The afternoon game was easily the best that has yet been played here. In the first period goals came often, but in the next three the play was very spirited and the points came but seldom. There was one near-accident during the game, coming in the third period, when the King-Ferriter machine turned turtle. Both occupants escaped serious injury by jumping, but Ferriter was badly shaken up in the fall and was not able to resume playing for two minutes. The teams were on even terms practically all the way, and the winning goal was scored just before time expired.

The evening game was marked by continual delays, and strung out almost three hours. The first two periods, which should have been completed twenty-five minutes after the start of the game, consumed one and one-half hours. During the first period of this game the two machines met head-on in the race to the centre for the ball, and the King-Ferriter machine was badly disabled. The wheels, axle, and part of the frame were badly bent from the force of the collision, and the auto had to be pulled off the playing surface.

The reserve auto, secured by this team after the accident, was in trouble continually, and the game was greatly delayed as a result. During one of the enforced intermissions Sterling came out for an exhibition spin with his car, evidently figuring that the crowd had not experienced enough thrills. He circled the track several times, cutting the corners sharply each time, and finally the machine turned over just in front of the goal posts at the Madison Avenue side of the building. Sterling managed to jump clear of the falling machine, and was soon busy piloting the machine around again the same way.

The Sterling-Jackson team looked like an easy winner at the start of the game, and at one stage led by the score of 9 to 4. King and Ferriter came back strong after the second period, tied the score at 11 goals at the end of the third, and in the next period blanked their opponents while they scored 3 goals. Each team got a goal in the final period, and the game ended 15 to 12 in favor of King and Ferriter.

It was announced before the final period was played that the game had proved strenuous enough to disable six machines during the four games played in the last two days and that when the game was again tried here—on Dec. 19—twelve cars would be at the disposal of the riders. These cars are now being built. With this reserve force such delays as marred last night's game will not occur.

Several well known society people were in the crowd at the afternoon session, the most prominent being Vincent Astor, who occupied a box close to the playing field and seemed much interested in the sport.

LONG ISLAND GETS VOTE.

West Side Tennis Club Decides to Move to Forest Hills.

The new courts of the West Side Tennis Club will be located at Forest Hills, on Long Island, according to the vote taken last night at the annual meeting of the club, held at Delmonico's. This decision was arrived at after an open and free discussion of the other properties offered. These included a portion of the Astor estate, the Morris Park estate, and another tract in Westchester. Three plots for the permanent location of the club and its courts were considered on Long Island—Kew, Laurelton, and Forest Hills, a part of the Sage Foundation.

As the club plans to purchase the property for more than $75,000 and to spend $50,000 in the establishing of courts, a clubhouse containing a swimming pool and a thousand lockers, there was considerable discussion before the vote was taken. The members first voted in favor of locating on Long Island by 186 to 126. Then the question of deciding in favor of either Kew or Forest Hills was taken up and the vote in favor of the latter was 200 to 100. It was made unanimous by motion at the close.

The new site, according to the survey made by Percy S. Hildreth, contains ten acres. This will allow of sixty-two courts, two indoor courts for Winter play, and three concrete courts. Work will begin at once in the preparation of the new field under the direction of the Board of Governors. It is planned to have the larger portion of the field ready early in 1914, so that the members may lose no time after the present courts at 238th Street and Broadway, are vacated at the close of next season.

The regular ticket for officers was elected without any opposition.

The Nominating Committee, consisting of Louis Bender, F. C. Newcombe, W. J. Clarke, Don L. Moore, and James S. Cushman, Chairman, prepared the following ticket to be voted on:

President, Oren Root; Vice President, Julian S. Myrick; Secretary and Treasurer, Lyle E. Mahan; Captain, G. A. L. Dionne. Board of Governors—Robert R. Perkins, Calhoun Cragin, Moses Ely, Raymond D. Little, Percy S. Hildreth, F. C. Newcombe, Howard Hildt, and Theodore Hetzler.

Fordham Opens Basket Ball Season.

Fordham opens its basket ball season at Princeton to-night with the Tigers in their first game. Sixteen other games have been arranged by Manager William A. Kearns, '13, for the Maroon quintet. Yale, Columbia, Princeton, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Catholic University, and Crescent A. C. appear on the schedule for the first time. Jack Flanigan, '13, will captain Fordham's team this year. He expects a successful season, as there are still six men in college who have won their "F" in basket ball. The game with Manhattan College on Feb. 1 is the principal game of the season, and it will be the second time in ten years that teams from these rival institutions have played together. Several games are pending. The schedule:

Dec. 4, Princeton, at Princeton; 11, Crescent A. C., at Fordham; 17, Columbia, at Columbia; 23, Princeton, at Fordham.

Jan. 8, Seton Hall, at Fordham; 11, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, at Troy; 15, Crescent A. C., at Brooklyn; 21, Yale, at New Haven; 24, Georgetown, at Fordham.

Feb. 1, Manhattan, at New York; 8, Army, at West Point; 11, Catholic University, at Washington; 12, Georgetown, at Washington; 15, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, at Fordham; 21, Catholic University, at Fordham; 27, Seton Hall, at South Orange, N. J.

A. A. U. Gives Permission.

W. W. Hill of the Amateur Swimming Union of Australia yesterday called on James E. Sullivan, Secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union, at his office, and after a conference with Gustavus T. Kirby, President of the Amateur Athletic Union, permission was given to Duke Kohanamoku to compete in the Austrlian swimming championships. The Amater Athletic Union officials wired to the Hawaiian association that the officials of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States were favorable to the idea.

Bon Ton A. C. Handicap Runs.

The six-mile cross-country handicap run of the Bon Ton Athletic Club of Mariners Harbor, Staten Island, will be held on Sunday, Dec. 8. It was postponed on Thanksgiving Day. In all a dozen prizes will be offered. Entries will close on Friday of this week.

Sub-Target Gun for School 62.

Felix Warburg, a Director of the Public Schools Athletic League, has presented to Gen. George W. Wingate, President of the league, a sub-target gun machine to be installed in Public School 62, Manhattan. This is the first gun machine to be used by elementary schoolboys.

POULTRY AND PIGEON SHOW IN FULL SWING

Cats and Canaries Will Make Their Bow To-day in Grand Central Palace.

Nominations in fur and feathers, in fancy rabbits and cavies marked the various numbers in the sixth annual exhibition of the Empire Poultry Association which had its opening yesterday at the Grand Central Palace, and was attended during the afternoon and evening sessions by hundreds of devotees of the birds and animals on show.

Supplementing the poultry and pigeon displays there will be seen commencing to-day the shows of the Cat Fanciers' Club and the New York Breeders of Fancy Canaries and Song Birds, which will be opened in the annexes to the main exhibition. To-day will mark the inauguration of the twenty-fourth exhibition of the song bird fanciers.

That the show is becoming one of size as well as of quality was shown from the fact that, including pigeons, there were nearly 4,000 beaks in the pens. Of single birds, including water fowl, 1,353 are shown, which does not include 354 bantams nor the 156 exhibition yards, each of five birds. Twenty-one of the yards were of bantams. In the poultry breed the Plymouth Rocks, which have the first row at the main entrance, lead in number with 210, sixty-nine being white and sixty barred, but all the types being seen. There were 218 Wyandottes, of which ninety-five were white; 168 Rhode Island Reds; 143 Leghorns, the white variety leading the browns for once, and of other leading breeds there were 123 Orpingtons, types leading being the buff, black, and white.

There were sixteen display pens adjacent to the entrance, one containing a "Happy Family" that unlike many so-called collections seemed to be really contented. Its members were a lamb, monkey, raccoon, cavie, guinea fowl, cat, two pullets, a parrot, two pigeons, and divers other sorts of flying or walking types. Two of the four pens of pheasants are entered by Master Thomas L. Wett of the Harlem clan, long conspicuous as exhibitors of Shetlands and owners of race horses. Of unusual interest from their cost and beauty was a pen of fourteen German runts, the oddly named mammoth of all pigeons, imported, except four bred this year, by A. G. Ibbekin of Harlem.

Millrose A. C. Games in January.

Gold, silver, and bronze medals, each studded with a diamond, will be awarded to athletes finishing first, second, and third in all open events at the "Diamond Meet" of the Millrose Athletic Association at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory on Jan. 18. In the relay events (the one-mile club relay, the two-mile M. A. L. relay, the one-mile C. A. L. relay, and the one-mile Y. M. C. A. relay) diamond pins will be awarded to the members of teams finishing first and second. In the Millrose road race ten prizes will be given. The first prize is a trophy of French art bronze. Trophies will also be awarded to the next four harriers to finish, as well as two fast-time prizes, two novice prizes, and a team prize—the first four men to count in the team prize. That the diamond prizes and the valuable bronze trophies are creating a great deal of interest among the athletes is attested by the fact that entries have already begun to pour in at the Millrose headquarters, 784 Broadway. Entry blanks can be procured at this address, from Dieges & Clust, and from A. F. O'Connor, Seventy-first Regiment.

Kilbane Says He Is Not Guilty.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 3.—Featherweight Champion Johnny Kilbane and Jimmy Dunn, his manager, accused of conspiracy and fraud at a boxing bout at Johnstown, Penn., on Oct. 29, to-day protested their innocence.

"We went to Johnstown to give an exhibition bout," said Dunn. "When we got there we found Tommy McGinty of Cleveland had been billed as 'Tommy Duggan of San Francisco.' We insisted that his real identity be made known, but when McGinty entered the ring he was introduced as Duggan. Rather than disappoint the crowd, I told Kilbane to sail in and finish him quickly. McGinty was knocked out in the fourth round."

Two New Yorkers Yale Captains.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 3.—Yale's annual Golf Club meeting to select a Captain for next season was held this evening, and Fred Beach Jennings, Jr., of New York City, was selected.

John Parkhurst Booth of New York City was to-night elected Captain of the Yale cross-country team for next season.

BILLIARDS AND POOL.

F. Henry, playing at nineteen points, defeated G. Ferguson in last night's game of the amateur handicap three-cushion carrom billiard tournament at the Broadway Billiard Academy, Sixty-fifth Street and Broadway, by the score of 19 to 10 in twenty-eight innings. Ferguson was handicapped at eighteen points, and each contestant made a high run of three. This evening T. Rossie will attempt to make sixteen points before F. Isherwood can tally fourteen.

Calvin Demarest repeated his performance of Monday by defeating two opponents yesterday in handicap matches at Keeney's Academy, in Brooklyn. In each contest Demarest agreed to score 300 points, while his opponents had to make only 200 to win. In the afternoon match Demarest defeated George Moon, Jr., by the score of 300 to 105 in twenty innings, which netted him an average of fifteen points. His best inning was the fifteenth frame, when he tallied 112 points. He also had a high run of 36. Moon's high run was 26, and his average 5 5-20. In the evening Demarest defeated J. M. Millette by the score of 300 to 84 in twenty-two innings, with high runs of 79, 54 and 43, and an average of 13 14-22.

Last night marked the beginning of the semi-final round of the amateur Class C. 18.2 balkline tournament at the Morningside Academy, 145th Street and Lenox Avenue. The ensuing contests will differ from the recent games in only one particular, as where it was necessary for the winner to score only fifty points in former games, he now has to tally one hundred before he can claim victory. The tournament is scheduled to end Thursday evening, and a silver cup will be presented to the winner. Last night's contest resulted in a victory for E. Dumahaut over B. Ottenger by the score of 100 to 70 in forty-six innings. The winner made a high run of eleven points, and averaged 2 8-46. Ottenger's highest run was eight points.

Two games were decided yesterday in continuation of the amateur pool tournament at Doyle's Academy. In the afternoon William Tilt, the New York Athletic Club expert, went down to defeat at the hands of Felix Olando, the score being 85 to 79. In the evening Edward Raynolds defeated Dr. William G. Howe by the score of 85 to 78. In the latter contest the possibilities of the new "open break" style of game were demonstrated when Raynolds made a high run of twenty-six without missing a shot. This is the highest run of the tournament to date.

Hoppe Defeats Slosson.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—Willie Hoppe defeated George Slosson to-night in the second game of the 18.2 balk line billiard tournament here by the score of 400 to 231. Hoppe had an average of 33 1-3 for the game. His highest run was 86. Slosson made an average of 19¼ and had a high run of 70.

New Yorker Beaten at Billiards.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 3.—Stanley Leschen of this city defeated Leo Magnus of New York 50 to 39 in a three-cushion billiard game here to-night in the National Billiard League series. Ninety-seven innings were played.

GIBBONS VS. McGOORTY.

Middleweights Ready for Important Clash at the Garden To-night.

With their long and hard training exercises a thing of the past, Mike Gibbons and Eddie McGoorty will await the gong which will start them off on their ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden to-night. Both men reported yesterday that they were in tiptop condition, Gibbons's sore nose being in a condition that does not give him any worry. Gibbons did some light work yesterday at the New Polo Athletic Association, and McGoorty finished his training at Johnson's Roadhouse, in the Bronx. Gibbons weighed 152 pounds yesterday, and McGoorty was at the middleweight limit, 158 pounds.

Although to-night's bout cannot be called a championship affair, it will have much to do toward settling a question that has been in constant dispute since Stanley Ketchel's death more than two years ago. McGoorty's recent knock-out victories over Dave Smith, the Australian champion, and Jack Harrison, the English champion, have put him to the front as best entitled to the honors, but he must prove this right by victories over Gibbons, Frank Klaus, and others who dispute all claims but their own. Gibbons has been coming along at a fast clip during the past year, and is generally recognized as one of the best boxers the game has ever produced. He has never before fought a man of McGoorty's ability and weight, and there is much interest in what he will be able to do against such a boxer.

MALONEY AND CONNORS DRAW

Wearisome Bout in the Twenty-third Street Club.

Tommy Connors and Tommy Maloney were the supposed top-liners last night at the Brown's Gymnasium series of bouts, and a wearisome battle was the outcome as the result of their struggle to wade through the ten rounds which the bout consisted of. By the time the men were through with their endeavors, which mainly consisted of missing, it was conceded that Bill Brown, the referee, had won the honors for doing the greatest amount of work, and that the victory was his for the consistency with which he fulfilled his duties of pulling the pair apart.

A good-sized crowd witnessed the struggles of the men, which were marked by their ability to miss each other. If any honors were to be accorded either these went according to the majority of the spectators to Connors, who tried to deliver the goods, despite the fact that he knew next to nothing about the game. Maloney made the usual ninth and tenth round rush in an endeavor to even up matters, but had to receive as good as he sent. At the end both men were on their feet and anxious to continue.

Kilbane Whips Monte Attell.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 3.—Spurred by the demands of his friends that he demonstrate his utmost ability, Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, to-night decisively defeated Monte Attell of San Francisco, brother of the former lightweight champion, in their twelve-round bout here. Attell was receiving such punishment that in the eighth round the police demanded that the bout be stopped, and the referee gave Kilbane the decision after one minut of fighting in the eighth round.

McFarland-Brewer Bout Off.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 3.—The boxing match between Packey McFarland and Harry Brewer, scheduled to be held here Dec. 10, was called off to-day because of a hitch in the financial arrangements with McFarland.

Notes of the Boxers.

The Forty-fourth Street Sporting Club has two bouts carded for Friday night. Johnny Lore is to tackle Joe Coster of Brooklyn. In taking on Coster, Lore will have to be fit, as the Brooklyn youngster has shown up well against good boxers such as Knockout Brown, Abe Attel, Johnny Coulon, and recently Charlie White. The other ten-rounder will be a return contest between Joe Jeannette and Big Jim Johnson. These two heavyweights boxed a few weeks ago at the same club, when Johnson almost put the knockout sign on Jeannette's chin in the third round.

Tom Gibbons, brother of Mike Gibbons, will make his bow before the New York boxing fans Saturday night at the Fairmont Athletic Club. Tom is booked for ten rounds with Tommy Nelson. Tom Gibbons weighs about 160 pounds. Mike, who will be in his corner, predicts that his brother has a bright ring future. In another ten-round bout Mickey Devine will box Artie Kaufman. Young Sparks boxes Tan Woods for six rounds, and Roy Marquard and Fred Wagner are also hooked for six rounds.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Lanterns for Out-Door Use Not Playthings—Other Decisions.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday decided that collapsible lanterns for decorating verandas and lawns were properly assessed under the act of 1909 at 45 per cent. ad valorem as manufactures in chief value of metal. Butler Brothers of Chicago asked entry at 35 per cent. on toys.

The Bausch & Lomb Optical Company failed to receive a reduction in duty on nickel alloy wire assessed at 35 per cent. ad valorem, under Paragraph 135 of the present tariff. The company contended for 6 cents a pound under Paragraph 185. The board ruled that a nickel alloy in the form of wire was not provided for in Paragraph 185.

Several percentages of wrapper and filler tobacco in bales were determined. Samuel I. Davis & Co., F. Lozano, Son & Co., Marcelino Peroz & Co., Carlos Garcia & Co., and Andras Via, importers presented claims which were sustained in part.

DRESS GOODS IN DEMAND.

A Good Call for Spot Merchandise in Evidence Here.

There was an excellent call reported for spot merchandise in the primary end of the local dress goods market in the last week, but business was hampered considerably by the paucity of supplies of the most wanted fabrics. Astrachans and chinchillas now command premiums in most quarters of the market, with available stocks of these goods at the lowest ebb in some time. The announcement yesterday that one of the largest producers in the country had practically sold up its entire production of women's wear chinchillas for next Fall caused some surprise in the trade, and at the same time justified previous predictions that these fabrics would continue in good standing for the coming season.

The bulk of the initial buying of Spring goods from the jobbers has now been done. Yesterday one large house reported road sales about $45,000 in excess of last year, and sellers generally had little complaint to make. The major part of the business booked was on staple goods, and few cancellations are anticipated as a result.

CLOAKS AND SUITS ACTIVE.

R. Sadowsky Reports a Fair Business, Considering the Season.

"Business continues fairly active, considering the season," said R. Sadowsky, a prominent cloak and suit manufacturer, yesterday, "and the outlook for the future is promising. Full length coats of all descriptions are being taken. In the West and throughout the Eastern States, chinchillas, boucles, plushes, and other rough fabrics are wanted. The interest in the Southern States centres almost entirely on mixtures. Orders are coming in all the time from all parts of the country, and customers are asking for general assortments. Garments for sale purposes are selling well.

"No disturbance of any kind is expected in this trade, and a healthy increase of business is looked for by the department stores generally. One of our men is still out on the road with Fall goods, and others will start shortly with the Spring lines. Business is opening up well, and conditions are as good, if not better, than ever before."

MEN'S WEAR FABRICS WANTED

Clothiers Looking for Fall (1913) Goods—The Jobbers Busy.

Although clothiers have made considerable inquiry as to what prices will be on Fall, 1913, men's wear fabrics, when the new lines are formally opened, as a rule manufacturers are not quoting anything but tentative figures. Some business is reported to have been put through on the new lines already, but the bulk of the advance business is being held back until later in the season.

Jobbers are now interested in Spring business, and orders are coming in nicely. Goods for immediate use are wanted and business in heavyweight suitings continue quite active. There is also a demand for overcoatings, but the primary market is well cleaned up on desirable merchandise of this kind. Chinchillas are much in demand, and manufacturers who have any of these goods on hand find a ready sale for them.

NECKWEAR MAKERS BUSY.

Holiday Orders for Women's Goods Heavy—Handkerchiefs Move Well.

Ladies' neckwear manufacturers are busily engaged at the moment with holiday orders, which continue to come in steadily. The larger retail stores are sending in heavy duplicate and open orders, in which the various style jabots and Robespierre collars figure largely. This is the first season that shadow laces have been used extensively on jabots, and manufacturers seem well satisfied with the way the trade has bought these goods. Domestic neckwear has sold exceptionally well this season, and many of the manufacturers have been obliged to refuse orders because of the well-sold condition of their production. In some instances, makers were sold up until the 20th of this month several weeks ago.

Wholesalers of handkerchiefs have apparently enjoyed one of the best seasons in years. Imported stocks have moved well, and, according to one representative dealer, the stock to be carried over this year will be the smallest on record, despite the fact that unusually large stocks were purchased at the beginning of the season.

PRINT CLOTH MARKET QUIET.

There was little activity noted in the print cloth market yesterday. Prices continued firm. The day's quotations follow:

Twenty-seven-inch, 56-52s, 3 5-16c; 27-inch, 56-56s, 3 7-16c; 27-inch, 64-60s, 3 13-16c; 28-inch, 64-60s, 3 15-16c; 28-inch, 64-64s, 4¼c; 28½-inch, 60-52s, 4¾c; 38½-inch, 64-60s, 5¼c; 38½-inch, 64-64s, 5⅝c; 39-inch, 68-72s, 6c; 39-inch, 72-76s, 6½c; 39-inch, 80-80s, 7⅜c bid; brown sheetings, Southern standard, 8@8½c; brown sheetings, 4-yard, 56-60s, 6⅛c; brown sheetings, 3-yard, 7¼c; brown drills, standard, 8@8½c; denims, 9-ounce, 14@16½c; tickings, 8-ounce, 13@13½c; standard prints, 5½c, and standard staple ginghams, at value.

BUSINESS NOTES.

According to figures issued yesterday by the local Custom House, exports, exclusive of specie, from this port in the week ended Nov. 30 were valued at $14,037,222, against $17,954,986 in the week previous. The heaviest individual shipments of the week went to England, and were valued at $2,203,086.

The Hayes Duster Company, 113 Leonard Street, has leased considerable space in the building at 83 Grand Street. The company expects to be fully settled in its new quarters by the middle of January.

Thomas O'Brien, formerly connected with the downtown branch of the J. E. Manix Company, 320 Church Street, is now at the uptown office, 1,270 Broadway, looking after the interests of several recently acquired accounts.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

Owing to the difficulty in obtaining strippers in this country, there has been a noticeable increase of late in the amount of tobacco stripped in Havana.

Duplicate orders on handkerchiefs are coming in nicely for the holiday season. One-corner effects are particularly wanted. Plain Irish point and Princess styles are also in good demand.

Fine French serges are in a very strong position in the local dress goods market. One prominent house reports an unusually large call for them for Spring.

Staple embroideries are moving fairly well for immediate delivery, but future business is not as heavy as in previous years at this time.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

The value of all the gold produced in the United States from 1792 to the end of 1911 is estimated at $3,358,463,500; the value of the silver at $1,629,972,000.

Domestic science instruction has become so important in Germany that a special domestic science dictionary has been issued for the use of teachers and others interested in education for the home.

A Reuter dispatch states that the exports from New Zealand during the month of October were valued at $4,638,758, as compared with $2,988,065 in October, 1911. Imports of American goods into that country for the quarter ended Sept. 30 totaled $528,646, an increase of $87,647 over the same period last year.

WEINTRAUB BROTHERS.—Schedules of Weintraub Brothers, clothing dealers, 41 Eldridge Street, show liabilities of $6,407 and assets of $3,201.

KLEIN & BASS.—Judge Holt has appointed Wilder Bellamy receiver for Klein & Bass, doing business as the Royal Cap Works, 599 Broadway, bond, $750.

THE STETSON CLOTHING COMPANY, 418 Broadway, has made a settlement with creditors at 30 cents on the dollar cash, and yesterday Judge Holt dismissed the petition filed against the company on Oct. 15. The liabilities were $36,000.

Out of Town.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Dec 3.—Simon Hirsberg, Brookline, who was petitioned into bankruptcy on the 16th of November last, has this morning filed his schedules of liabilities and assets. His liabilities aggregate $44,997, of which $516 is for taxes, $18,700 is secured, $24,426 is unsecured, and $1,353 is for accommodation paper. The schedule shows the assets as unascertained. There are about 75 unsecured creditors.

Edward E. Hedges, stock salesman, Wellesley, this morning filed a petition in bankruptcy. His liabilities amount to $38,290, of which $150 is secured, $1,240 is unsecured, and $37,000 is for notes for which the petitioner is liable as indorser. There are no assets.

Motor Boat Builders Bankrupt.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—The Atlantic Company, builders of motor boats, and having offices in Boston, New York, and Amesbury, Mass., filed an involuntary petition in bankruptcy to-day. The action was taken by Treasurer John S. Poyen, in response to a vote of the Directors taken on Nov. 26. The liabilities are given as $55,655 and the assets as $49,623.

COTTON EXPORTS GROWING.

Increase of 170 Per Cent., Against 120 Per Cent. Growth of Imports.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—American exports of cotton manufactures have increased 170 per cent. in the last fifteen years, and are growing, while imports of cotton manufactures have increased 120 per cent. during the same period.

Statistics of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce announced to-day show the imports this year will approximate $70,000,000. The exports probably will exceed $50,000,000. Imports are coming in at about the same rate as in 1910 and 1911, but exports are rapidly increasing.

The United States, producer of 70 per cent. of the world's cotton, exports two-thirds of its production, chiefly to England, Germany, France, and other European countries, from which the United States in turn imports large quantities of cotton manufactures, mostly of higher grades. Europe as yet takes only a very small proportion of American manufactured cottons.

Practically every civilized country is represented in the list of communities to which American cotton goods are exported, and while in some cases the totals are relatively small they are sufficient in size and growth to give promise of future expansion.

COURT APPOINTS RECEIVER.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—To represent New York and Boston creditors, E. B. Wilson of this city was appointed a receiver for Butler's, Gilchrist's, and Everybody's department stores by Judge Colt in the Federal Court to-day.

The stores were placed in charge of C. B. Weed and Milroy Gibson, as receivers, on Nov. 7, shortly after the suicide of William F. Butler, the Treasurer of the three firms.

Charles F. Choate, counsel for the receivers, informed Judge Colt that the total liabilities of the three concerns on Nov. 7 was $1,400,000.

JURY INQUIRY INTO GRAND TRUNK DEAL

Officials Thought Liable Won't Be Called, as Government Wants No Evidence for Immunity.

SECRET SERVICE MEN ACTIVE

New Haven Officials Were Summoned, but Dropped for the Next Move—Grand Trunk Official Testifies.

The Federal Grand Jury began yesterday an inquiry into the affairs of the Grand Trunk Railroad Company of Canada and its failure to carry out its plans for entering New England and especially the building of a line to Boston, which were interrupted by the loss of Charles M. Hays, President of the company, on the Titanic. The plan was dropped, it is understood, on account of an arrangement between President Chamberlin of the Grand Trunk, who succeeded Mr. Hays, and Charles S. Mellen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, by which trackage rights were granted to the Grand Trunk into Boston and similar privileges with regard to this city.

Subpoenas have been issued to officials of the New Haven line to appear before the Grand Jury, among them being Thomas E. Byrnes, Vice President, and Alexander H. Cochrane, a Director, and it was understood that all the Directors of the New Haven, including J. Pierpont Morgan and William Rockefeller, would be summoned to give testimony. However, this form of investigation was called off by orders from Washington on the ground, it was explained, that it was thought better to develop the facts if possible by an investigation through Secret Service agents, which would not involve the granting of immunity to any one in case prosecutions under the Sherman Anti-Trust act were considered necessary.

Though Judge Hough, in swearing in yesterday the December Federal Grand Jury, said that there was no business of special importance, as far as he knew, to be brought before it, it was noted that Assistant United States Attorney-General Jesse C. Adkins was in the courtroom. He was the special counsel assigned to the case when it was first brought up in Washington, and it was learned that as soon as the Grand Jury had retired the Grand Trunk matter was laid before it.

It became known, however, that of the four witnesses called before the Grand Jury one was E. H. Fitzhugh, Vice President of the Grand Trunk and President of the Central Vermont Railway, the Grand Trunk subsidiary, running south from Montreal to New London, which has given the Grand Trunk the opportunity to build lines east to the New England coast. Mr. Fitzhugh has been particularly associated with the New England Southern, the line from the Vermont Central to Providence, R. I. The cessation of construction work on this line has caused much of the present agitation in Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

It is understood that if necessary indictments will be handed up by the Grand Jury, and that consequently no one is likely to be asked to testify before that body who would gain immunity by so doing.

Assistant Attorney-General Adkins is being assisted in placing the Grand Trunk matter before the Grand Jury by Henry A. Guiler, one of District Attorney Wise's staff, and Special Investigator Benham of the Department of Justice.

TELEGRAPH STOCK DOUBLED.

Southwestern Makes Its Corporate Existence Perpetual.

ALBANY, Dec. 3.—Notice was filed with the Secretary of State to-day by the Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone Company that it had increased its capital stock from $20,000,000 to $40,000,000, extended its corporate existence to be perpetual, and increased its Directors from seven to fifteen. The territory covered by the company stretches from Saratoga and Albany to Austin and Galveston, Texas, taking in New York, Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Kansas, and Oklahoma and adjoining States.

The certificates were signed by Theodore N. Vail, U. N. Bethell, Charles H. Wilson, H. J. Pettengill, Royal A. Ferris, and J. C. Crowley.

SENT REBATE BILLS TO ROAD.

Wharf Clerk Testifies to Employer's Dealings with the Reading.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—C. W. Downing of Downing Brothers, retail coal dealers in this city, admitted in this afternoon's session of the inquiry into alleged excessive anthracite freight rates that he had coal cars weighed after receiving them from the Pennsylvania Railroad and found a discrepancy between the railroad's statement, on which basis he paid freight, and the actual weight. Although Mr. Downing seemed to be a reluctant witness, his testimony was a feature of the session. The inquiry was resumed this morning before the State Railroad Commission in the City Hall.

Mr. Downing admitted having put in a claim for $151,000 damages, but would not say whether it had been settled or compromised. He also admitted that the Pennsylvania Railroad weighed 3,000 cars to find out if the shortage claim was correct, but would not say what the result of that experiment was.

A sharp tilt between Mr. Pierson, who conducted the examination, and Mr. Downing marked the opening of the testimony. When a copy of a scale of weights made in Mr. Downing's office was shown to him, he asked: "Where did you get this?" Mr. Pierson retorted, "That's my business, my private business."

Interest was shown in the testimony of E. N. Johnson, a former employe of the Lehigh Valley Coal and Navigation Company, who said he had been a clerk on the Port Richmond wharves.

"Every month we got a bill from the Reading Railroad," he testified, "for the coal they shipped to us, and I made out a counter-bill for a rebate of 55 cents on every ton of coal we shipped out of here by water. That bill was sent to the Reading."

Questioned by Mr. Heebner, attorney for the Reading, Johnson said he did not know that was not legitimate. The charge of hauling coal which was to be shipped beyond the Delaware Capes was less than the charge for hauling coal to Philadelphia for local delivery, he explained.

"We called that bill a 'rebate bill;' that's all I know," said Johnson.

New Haven System Sends Check for Amount to Connecticut.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Dec. 3.—The extent of operations of the largest taxpayers in this State was indicated by the receipt at the State Treasurer's office this afternoon of a check for $1,538,802.67 in settlement of the statutory imposts on the steam and trolley lines of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, which controls practically all the steam roads, and, under the corporate title of the Connecticut Company, all the electric lines in Connecticut. The tax was divided as follows:

New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company	$974,161.24
Connecticut Company	292,244.59
Connecticut Railway and Lighting Company	207,574.34
Norwich & Worcester Railroad Company	46,792.32
Hartford & Connecticut Western Railroad Company	16,430.18
Western Shore Railway Company	1,100.00
Tolland Street Railway Company	500.00

To Increase Pacific Mills Stock.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—The capital stock of the Pacific Cotton Mills is to be increased from $3,000,000 to $12,000,000 if a recommendation to that effect made by the Directors to-day is accepted by the stockholders. The proposed increase will include $6,000,000 surplus assets, and $3,000,000 new stock.

TO MEET MONEY DEMANDS.

Congressman Levy Wants Government to Deposit $50,000,000 in Banks.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Representative Jefferson M. Levy of New York offered a resolution in the House to-day to direct the Secretary of the Treasury to make a deposit of $50,000,000 of Government funds in National banks throughout the country, "to relieve the continued stringency in the money market." The resolution was referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency and ordered printed.

Members of the Banking and Currency Committee did not care to discuss the Levy resolution, but indicated that they were not favorable to such action at this time. Secretary MacVeagh has been urged to deposit $25,000,000 of Government funds with the banks, but has declined to do so on the ground that there is no necessity for such action apparent as a result of his information concerning the situation. Members of the Banking and Currency Committee seem willing to allow the Secretary to handle the situation, as there is ample authority vested in him under the law to deposit Government funds with the National banks in a stringency.

"The Treasury of the United States," says the preamble of the Levy resolution, "has been absorbing the money of the people by taxation to the extent of $298,962,798 during the present fiscal year as against a collection the last fiscal year of $275,867,340—an excess of disbursements over receipts of $20,641,157. The surplus cash in the Treasury is $149,946,419, and the amount of disbursements out of the general fund of the Treasury for the Panama Canal—which is equivalent to cash—is $154,915,011, and is equal to a surplus cash balance in the Treasury of $304,861,431. The wonderful prosperity of our country, the enormous crops, the activity in all branches of trade throughout the country, and our large and expanding export trade has caused a sharp and active demand for money throughout the country."

The Controller of the Currency to-day issued a call for a staement of the condition of all National banks in the United States at the close of business on Tuesday, Nov. 26.

CANADIAN WHEAT ON OPTION.

Produce Exchange Votes to Start Trading in It Jan. 2.

The New York Produce Exchange voted yesterday afternoon to start trading in Canadian wheat in bond on Jan. 2, 1913. This decision resulted from the recommendations of a special committee, which advised the establishment of a market for option trading.

The action of the exchange is expected to attract to this port much wheat which otherwise might be consigned to other seaboard cities, and to bring to the Exchange considerable option trading which is now confined almost exclusively to Winnipeg.

TRANSFERS NOT TAXABLE.

Surrogate, in Yerkes Decision, Rules on Contracts Made Before Death.

Surrogate Robert Ludlow Fowler handed down a decision yesterday explaining the rules under which the inheritance tax appraisers should have proceeded in assessing taxes on the will of Charles T. Yerkes, traction promoter of Chicago and London. The attack on the method of assessing the tax was begun by Mrs. Mary Adelaide Yerkes after her husband's death in 1905. She has since died.

The Surrogate laid down the broad rule that property obtained from an estate under a compromise agreement after a claim to the property as a transfer during life was not taxable. He pointed out, however, the possibilities of fraud under the ruling and declared that the State Controller, collector of the inheritance tax, should be made a party to all such compromises to test their good faith. The question arose in the Yerkes estate when the widow declared that under a contract she was entitled to the house at 864 Fifth Avenue and its contents. Under a compromise agreement she got $432,011 from the executors, one-third of the amount realized from the sale of the personalty contained in the house. The appraiser taxed this and the Surrogate overruled him. Surrogate Fowler also ordered that a tax be assessed on funds set apart in the will for the founding of a hospital under certain conditions. On this point he said:

"The decedent provided that a certain part of his residuary estate should be set apart for the founding of a hospital. The appraiser found that the sum of $640,000 would be available for that purpose; but as the investment of this fund in the erection of the hospital was dependent upon other conditions and contingencies which might prevent the trustees from founding the hospital, the appraiser suspended taxation upon this amount, and the order contained a provision to the same effect. As the amount was not specifically bequeathed to the hospital, the suspension of taxation upon it was a concession made by the State, as the transfer tax law in effect at the time of decedent's death provided that when it was impossible to determine in whom property would finally vest, its transfer should be taxed at the highest rate which would be payable in any contingency.

"If this sum should be used by the trustees for the purpose of founding a hospital it would not be taxable; if it is not so used it goes, under the provisions of the decedent's will, to beneficiaries of the 1 per cent. class. Therefore, the appraiser should have reported as taxable at the rate of 1 per cent. the amount which might be available for the purpose of founding a hospital."

AUTO CONTEST BODY WILL INCORPORATE

Objects of Association Outlined—Boosters to Meet—Bragg Cleared in Milwaukee.

At a meeting of the Motor Dealers' Contest Association yesterday afternoon at George Rector's it was decided to proceed with the business of incorporation. Fifteen Directors from among the original stockholders, to serve until the first annual meeting early in January, were chosen as follows: J. C. Whetmore, George Robertson, Edward McShane, W. C. Poertner, I. M. Uppercu, J. C. Nichols, Emmanuel Lascaris, E. F. Korbel, H. M. Bronner, A. J. Inderrieden, Charles H. Larson, F. L. Sample, M. Worth Colwell, Charles A. Stewart, and George F. Hare. To fulfill the requirements of the State law, three incorporators were chosen, holding between them at least $500 of stock. Messrs. Uppercu, Nichols, and Lascaris were selected.

In the articles of incorporation the objects of the association are rehearsed, including the fostering of contests of all kinds for automobiles, aeroplanes, and hydroplanes. Power is also asked to hold exhibitions in this field. It was decided, in view of the absence of several of the charter members, to postpone further business to the next meeting, to be held at the Elks' Club on Friday evening, Dec. 13.

⁂

There will be a meeting of the Big Village Motor Boosters at the Automobile Board of Trade to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clck. At that time a date will be fixed for the beefsteak dinner which it is planned to hold in the first week of the January show.

⁂

All doubts as to the rights of the case—if there ever were any real doubts—in regard to Caleb Bragg and the question of entrance money at the Milwaukee Grand Prix race, have been settled by the statement issued by Emil Estberg, Vice President of the Milwaukee Dealers' Association, on behalf of that body. The statement clears Bragg absolutely. It reads:

> The Dealers' Association wishes the public to know the facts in relation to its dispute with Caleb Bragg, arising over the association's demand for the payment of his entry fee as a driver in the race. It has been discovered that Bragg, in no event, agreed to pay more than $500 as his entry fee. Upon the race being necessarily postponed, Mr. Wagner, the starter, told Bragg that if he would remain in Milwaukee and drive, his entry fee would be waived. At a later meeting the association volunteered to pay Bragg's expenses while remaining here, which, as it now appears, was intended to offset the waiving of the entry fee. Both sides have now agreed that the fair way to settle all differences, in view of all the conditions, is to permit Bragg to pay his original entry fee and deduct therefrom his expenses, as agreed, which has been done, to the mutual satisfaction of everybody.
>
> Statements contrary to or in addition to the foregoing are not in accord with the facts as they are found upon a complete investigation of them.
>
> Any statement or statements made public reflecting upon Bragg's observance of the rules of the sport of automobile driving do not express the opinion of the association. We know of no reason for making them.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Unsettled market conditions, attended by heavy trading, prevailed on the Stock Exchange most of the day. The sales for the five and a half hours of business totaled 82,170 shares, which represented the biggest day since Nov. 6 last. Included in this total were 5,980 shares transacted on the opening call in the half-hour before trading began elsewhere in Wall Street. Opening prices at 9:30 o'clock reflected general advances, compared with Monday's closings, but the firmness proved temporary, with a number of prominent stocks breaking sharply in the subsequent unsettlement. At the lower levels, however, there were indications that strong support was being extended.

COMMODITIES MARKETS.

Wheat Improved with Light Offerings Feeding Grain Firm—Cotton Rallies Well.

Wheat slowly improved on limited contract offering and general covering of shorts. Corn and oats also improved, with continued limited movement and maintained cash demand. Provisions were lower on the largest hog movement of the season. Cottonseed oil was quiet and steady. Cotton advanced on the strength of Southern spot markets. Liverpool cables were steady. Large speculative interests bought. Coffee was slightly higher with the foreign markets.

WHEAT.

The wheat market closed firm at the best prices of the session at net gains of ⅜ to ⅝c. The morning was uncertain, with trade small. Late in the session prices began to improve, and with very light offerings there was a good advance. The early heaviness was due to indifferent cables and absence of foreign demand. The Argentine weather reports were favorable, and the Argentine surplus was estimated at 124,000,000 to 136,000,000 bushels, against 100,000,000 bushels for the current year. Australian reports were excellent, and the Australian crop is estimated at 79,500,000 bushels, against 98,100,000 bushels last year. The political news had practically no effect. Receipts were smaller, particularly at Duluth, and there was a marked falling off in the Winnipeg movement. Bradstreet's visible showed an increase of 688,000 bushels east of the Rockies, an increase of 188,000 bushels west, a decrease of 2,271,000 bushels in Canada, a decrease of 400,000 bushels in Europe, making a total decrease of 1,795,000 bushels, against an increase a week ago of 12,146,000 bushels. The Produce Exchange figures on Canadian wheat stocks showed a decrease of 3,721,000 bushels. The fact that visible supply stocks decreased, in face of the enormous receipts, emphasized the extraordinary distribution this year.

Cash wheat was inactive and nominal. No. 2 red was quoted $1.06, free on board; No. 1 Northern 95¼c, No. 2 hard Winter 95¾c, and No. 1 Manitoba 94½c.

At a meeting of the Grain Trade of the Produce Exchange at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the amendments to the by-laws providing for the delivery of bonded Canadian wheat on contracts, was unanimously adopted. These rules will now go to the Board of Managers, and when approved will be officially posted for ten days. It is proposed to make them effective Jan. 2 next. The question has been most carefully studied by the special committee in charge of the matter, and it has been laid before the leading houses in the Canadian markets, and also in the American markets, receiving strong and encouraging indorsement from all interests. The delivery of Canadian wheat on contracts will make a hedging market at the seaboard, thereby greatly lessening the risks in forwarding and exporting Canadian wheat. At present there are millions of bushels of Canadian wheat at Eastern lake ports, with no market in which to hedge, excepting Winnipeg, to which the grain cannot be returned, excepting at prohibitive expense.

CORN.

The corn market was quiet but firm, closing at a net gain of ¼@½c. Offerings for forward delivery were limited, and acceptances by the country were also small. Actual receipts were a little larger, and the visible supply increased 1,093,000 bushels. Somewhat better export demand has developed, and there appears to be more evidence of foreign interest in the cash market. Weather conditions were still unsettled, although better than shown on Monday. Cash corn was quiet, with the export grade quoted at 54¼c, free on board; January-March, cost, insurance, and freight corn was quoted at 60c down to 55c, as to grade and delivery.

OATS.

The market was firm, closing at the best of the day. Offerings were light all day, and prices slowly improved, meeting very little resistance. The visible showed a decrease of 658,000 bushels. Cash oats were steady, with standard at 37@37½c; No. 2 white, 38c; No. 3 white, 37@37½c, and white clipped, 37@40c.

PROVISIONS.

Hog products showed a rather heavy tone, due to much larger receipts of hogs, the total amounting to 145,000 at all points, the largest of the season. The monthly statement of stocks showed a decrease in pork of 3,000 barrels, a decrease in lard of 28,000 tierces, and a decrease in ribs of nearly 5,000,000 pounds, but this was more than offset by the larger hog movement.

COTTON.

The action of the cotton market was reversed during yesterday's session, with a moderate rebound following the recent setback of about $2.50 per bale. Only trivial changes were disclosed at the outset, but a broadening in the speculative inquiry was apparent, with considerable absorption for the account of large local commission houses and for prominent Southern interests, who were active on the selling side during the preceding several days. Sentiment is more confused, and it is predicted that there will be quite a little irregularity prior to the Government estimate on ginning, which will be given out on Dec. 9, and the official crop estimate scheduled for the 12th inst.

The cables were quite steady, in view of our depression of Monday and the late weakness of the New Orleans market. Spot sales at Liverpool were in larger volume on the decline, amounting to 10,000 bales, and in certain quarters it was stated that the improved business at Manchester was in partial reflection of the clarified European political situation. A crop estimate was issued by A. J. Buston & Co. of Liverpool for a total production of 14,100,000 bales, and, in line with other English authorities, the opinion was expressed that a record consumption by American mills was likely this season. Some attention was attracted by the reports that the Egyptian Government had estimated the crop in that country at 7,750,000 cantars, against 6,500,000 last year, equivalent to an increased yield of approximately 245,000 bales.

A majority in the trade are anticipating a ginning report next week of close to 11,700,000 bales, but there remains the same divergence of opinion as to the amount of cotton yet to be ginned. F. C. Olds estimated the amount which had passed through gins to Dec. 1 at 11,738,000 bales, against 12,817,000 bales to Dec. 1 a year ago and 11,009,000 bales in 1908, when the crop, including linters, was 13,500,000 bales, and the percentage ginned to Dec. 1 84.1. There is no abatement in the number of Southern advices dwelling on the comparative scarcity of cotton in the field, although, of course, there are many who are imbued with the idea that the accounts of crop exhaustion are being exaggerated as usual.

Southern spot markets were officially reported unchanged to ¼c lower yesterday, and since the beginning of the week have receded slightly, but not in conformity with the reaction of futures. It was emphatically wired from numerous scattered points that holders were refusing to consider the reduced basis, but offsetting to a degree were other dispatches to the effect that the higher levels were restricting inquiry from trade sources. Meanwhile, the movement at the South is moderate. The port receipts yesterday were estimated at 98,000 bales, comparesd with 95,000 last week and 103,000 a year ago. Estimates to-day are for 65,000 bales, against 63,000 a year ago. Exports since Sept. 1 aggregate 4,005,000 bales, compared with 3,950,000 the previous season.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Prices scored small further advances, in response to the strength of crude oil at the South, but the large disparity between futures and the values which mills are receiving has not been corrected, to an important extent. Near deliveries, under the circumstances, are showing relative firmness, with some talk of an outstanding short interest. Refiners were sellers of these deliveries for a time, but other refining interests were identified on the buying side. It is stated that seed is now being held with very light offerings, despite the advanced quotations. Sentiment in speculative quarters is rather mixed, but there seems to be little disposition to press sales, pending a readjustment of seed and crude values, and the restoration of a normal basis for the local option market.

COFFEE.

Coffee opened 3 to 5 points up, declined to slightly below the previous close, but later rallied, and closed steady at top at a net advance of 5 to 8 points. Total sales, 110,250 bags. Havre was ¼ to ½f higher early, but lost part, and closed unchanged to ¼f net higher, while Hamburg was unchanged to ½ pfennig up. The world's visible supply showed an increase during November of 181,449 bags, compared with an increase last year of 345,389 bags. Receipts so far this season amount to 7,901,000 bags at Rio and Santos, compared with 8,992,000 last year. The Brazilian markets were unchanged to 100 reis lower.

METAL MARKET REPORTS.

At the Metal Exchange yesterday trading was moderately active with the tone irregular. Copper was about steady. Tin was down nearly ½c, fifteen tons of spot delivery selling at 49.65 and twenty-five tons of December at 49.62½. Lead was down 15 points in the bid and 10 points in the asking price and spelter was down 5 points.

The closing bid and asked prices follow:

	Tuesday.		Monday.
Standard Copper.	Bid.	Asked.	Bid.	Asked.
Spot	17.10	....	17.10	17.30
December	17.10	17.25	17.12½	17.37½
January	17.10	17.25	17.12½	17.35
February	17.12½	17.37½	17.12½	17.35
Lead	4.25	4.40	4.40	4.50
Spelter	7.25	7.45	7.30	7.50
Tin	49.50	49.80	49.95	50.25

The following table of prices obtained yesterday on the London Metal Exchange for spot and future deliveries of copper and pig tin. These figures compare with Monday's final prices.

	Tuesday.			Monday.
Copper, spot	76	13	9	76	17	6
Copper, futures	77	10	0	77	12	6
Pig tin, spot	227	5	0	228	15	0
Pig tin, futures	226	5	0	227	10	0

The market ended easy. Spanish pig lead was unchanged at £18 2s 6d and spelter at £26 10s; Cleveland warrants 67s 1½d, down 3d.

PROPOSALS.

NEW MEXICO STATE BONDS.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Loan Commissioners of the State of New Mexico will, at the office of the Treasurer of said State, in the Capitol Building, at the City of Santa Fe, New Mexico, on the 16th day of December, 1912, at the hour of 2 o'clock in the afternoon, receive sealed proposals for the purchase of $1,125,000 of bonds of said State of Series "C," which are to be issued in accordance with the provisions of Section Three of Article IX. of the Constitution of said State of New Mexico, and of an act of the Legislature of said State, which became a law on the first day of June, 1912, for the payment of the bonds and accrued interest thereof of Santa Fe County, which were validated, approved, and confirmed by act of Congress of January 16, 1897, and assumed by said State in Section One of Article IX. of said Constitution. Said bonds are to be issued in the denomination of one thousand dollars each, dated December 16, 1912, and will be in the form prescribed in Section 14 of said act of the Legislature of the State of New Mexico, and the principal thereof will be payable to bearer in gold coin or its equivalent in lawful money of the United States forty years after their date, and they may be redeemed at the option of the State at any time after ten years from their date. The interest on said bonds will be payable semi-annually, March 1 and Septemmer 1, and principal and interest will be payable at the office of the State Treasurer at Santa Fe, New Mexico, or at the Seaboard National Bank, New York City, at the option of the holder. The said bonds are offered for sale to the person who will agree to take the same at par and accrued interest to date of delivery, and at a rate of interest to be named in his bid, and said bonds or any part thereof will be awarded to the person offering to accept the same at par at the lowest rate of interest. Each bid must be sealed, marked "Proposal for purchase of bonds," and accompanied by a certified check for not less than two per cent. of the amount of the bid, as security for the faithful performance of such bid in case said bonds or a part thereof shall be awarded to the person making such bid, and as liquidated damages in case of the failure of the successful bidder to fulfill his contract, but no such check drawn upon a banking house making the bid will be accepted as such security. The Loan Commissioners reserve the right to reject any and all bids, and particularly specify that no bid will be considered unless it is an unconditional bid for the purchase of said bonds or a part thereof, not made dependent upon any contingency whatever. It is further distinctly stated that only so much of said bonds will be sold as may be necessary, at the price bid, to realize the amount of the indebtedness to be paid, which indebtedness does ont exceed the sum of $1,125,000. Intending bidders who may desire further information can obtain it by application to said Board of Loan Commissioners at Santa Fe, New Mexico.

W. G. SARGENT,

Secretary of the Board of Loan Commissioners.

DISSOLUTION NOTICES.

AT A SPECIAL TERM, PART I., OF THE Supreme Court of the State of New York, at the County Court House, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 28th day of October, 1912.—Present, Joseph E. Newburger, Justice.—In the matter of the application of the UNION FIRST MORTGAGE COMPANY, a Corporation, for Voluntary Dissolution.

On reading and filing the petition of Thomas J. Lewis, John T. Easton, and George Murray Brooks, a majority of the Directors of the Union First Mortgage Company, a corporation created under the laws of this State and having its principal office located in the County of New York, and the schedule thereto annexed, duly verified by the petitioners on the 17th day of October, 1912, from which petition it appears that the case is one of those specified in Section 170 of the General Corporation Law; and it further appearing, to the satisfaction of the Court, from said petition, that the stockholders of the Company deem it for the best interest of the stockholders that the Company be dissolved, and have so signified to the Directors, and that the Directors deem it for the best interests of the stockholders that the Company be dissolved, and on reading and filing notice of this application dated October 18, 1912, with proof of due service thereof, and of said petition and schedule and of a copy of this order on the Attorney General;

And after hearing John T. Easton of counsel for petitioners, and no one representing the Attorney General;

Now, on motion of John T. Easton, attorney for the petitioners, it is Ordered that all persons interested in said corporation show cause before this Court at a Special Term thereof to be held in Part I. thereof at the County Court House in the City of New York, Borough of Manhattan, on the 24th day of December, 1912, at 10:30 o'clock A. M. on that day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, why the said corporation should not be dissolved; and it is Further ordered that a copy of this order be published at least once in each of the three weeks immediately preceding said 24th day of December, 1912, in New York Law Journal and The New York Times, newspapers published in the County of New York. Enter,

REORGANIZATION OF
United States Motor Co.
ALDEN-SAMPSON MANUFACTURING COM'Y
BRUSH RUNABOUT COMPANY
COLUMBIA MOTOR CAR COMPANY
DAYTON MOTOR CAR COMPANY
AND
MAXWELL-BRISCOE MOTOR COMPANY

The Committee acting under the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization, dated October 10, 1912, announces that over 90% of the indebtedness of the companies above mentioned has been deposited subject to the Plan. In order to enable the creditors whose claims have not yet been deposited to participate in the benefits of the Plan, the Committee has determined to accept the deposit of additional debentures, notes and claims without penalty until the close of business on DECEMBER 9, 1912.

Notice is hereby given to the holders of certificates of deposit representing preferred and common stock of the United States Motor Company and of Columbia Motor Car Company that there has been called and is payable in New York funds on or before the close of business DECEMBER 9, 1912, $2.40 in respect of each share of stock of the par value of $100 represented by their certificates of deposit (a second installment of 10% of the amounts payable in respect to said shares.) Certificates of deposit must be presented at the time of such payment for notation thereon of the payment of said second installment. Failure to make such payment within the period limited as above will result as provided in the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization in the exclusion of the holder of such certificates of deposit so defaulting from the benefits of the Plan and the forfeiture of the stock represented thereby and all previous payments made in respect thereof.

A considerable amount of stock having been already deposited under the Plan, the Committee desires to give to the holders of undeposited stock a further opportunity to participate in the benefits thereof. Accordingly holders of preferred and common stock of United States Motor Company and of Columbia Motor Car Company may become parties to the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization by depositing their stock certificates, endorsed in blank for transfer and bearing all stamps required by the laws of the State of New York, on or before the close of business on DECEMBER 9, 1912, and at the same time making payment in New York funds on account of the amounts payable in respect of said stock, as provided in the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization, (a) $2.42 for each share of stock of the par value of $100 deposited, representing the first installment of 10% payable in respect to said shares on or before November 9, 1912, with interest thereon, and (b) the further sum of $2.40 for each share of stock of the par value of $100 deposited, representing the second installment of 10% payable in respect to said shares on or before DECEMBER 9, 1912.

All deposits of debentures, notes, claims and shares of stock must be made with, and all payments in respect of certificates of deposit and shares of stock must be made to, CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, the Depositary under the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization, at its office, 54 Wall Street, New York City. Proofs of claims, assignments and powers of attorney must accompany the deposit of all debentures, notes and claims. The secretary of the Committee upon application therefor will furnish copies of the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization and forms for proof of claims, assignments and powers of attorney.

NO DEPOSITS OF DEBENTURES, NOTES, CLAIMS OR SHARES OF STOCK WILL BE ACCEPTED AFTER THE CLOSE OF BUSINESS ON DECEMBER 9, 1912, EXCEPT WITH THE CONSENT OF THE COMMITTEE AND UPON SUCH TERMS AS IT SHALL IMPOSE.

Dated New York, November 15, 1912.

BROOKLYN UNION ELEVATED RAILROAD COMPANY.

Conversion of Stock of Consolidation.

To Holders of the Preferred Stock and the Common Stock of Brooklyn Union Elevated Railroad Company:

The agreement between the Directors of Brooklyn Union Elevated Railroad Company, Sea Beach Railway Company, and Canarsie Railroad Company for the consolidation of the capital stock, franchises, and property of said companies, each with the capital stock, franchises, and property of the others, under name of the undersigned, New York Consolidated Railroad Company, having been duly authorized and approved by the Public Service Commission for the First District, State of New York, and having been duly ratified, confirmed, and adopted by the stockholders of said three companies respectively, duly called for the purpose and held separately on November 7, 1912, was filed in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of New York and in the office of the Clerk of the County of Kings on November 30, 1912, and said agreement thereon became the agreement and act of consolidation of said companies, so that they were thereby consolidated into and became one corporation under name of the undersigned, New York Consolidated Railroad Company. The agreement so approved and adopted provides that the capital stock of each of said companies shall be converted into the capital stock of the undersigned, New York Consolidated Railroad Company, share for share.

Notice is, therefore, hereby given that the Certificates of capital stock, preferred and common, of New York Consolidated Railroad Company, are ready for immediate delivery and that, upon the presentation and surrender for cancellation of certificates of preferred stock or of common stock of the Brooklyn Union Elevated Railroad Company to the Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company, Stock Transfer Agent of the undersigned, at its office, No. 60 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, said transfer agent will issue and deliver to the holder thereof, in exchange therefor, certificates of a like par value, share for share, of the preferred stock, or common stock, as the case may be, of the New York Consolidated Railroad Company.

A certified copy of said agreement is on file with said transfer agent and may be inspected by the stockholders.

Dated, December 2, 1912.

The Element of Quality

To the manufacturer or merchant who would win the patronage of discriminating buyers, the element of quality in an article is a consideration of prime importance. Quality always makes a strong appeal to the man of forethought.

You, in the investment of your money, should always keep clearly in mind the element of quality. Quality is what counts—more than any other one thing—and no one competent to assume the moral responsibility of acting in an advisory capacity would influence an investor to think differently.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks More Active — Prices Irregular — Call Money Easier.

A distinctly easier tone in the money market would have been a more potent influence on the Stock Exchange yesterday had it not been for the confusion in the minds of traders regarding the effect which the Union Pacific decision is likely to have upon the affairs of the properties directly affected and upon others the legality of whose organizations has been called, or may be called, into question under the Sherman law. No one opinion on these questions prevailed throughout the day. The course of prices, on the contrary, reflected the varying opinions which at the moment are entertained regarding the probable bearing of this decision upon others which the Supreme Court will be called upon to render. There were those who saw in the pronouncement of the court in this case an indication that such an organization as the United States Steel Corporation, the dissolution of which is now being sought by the Government, is most likely to fall under condemnation. The heaviness in that stock and in such others as Amalgamated Copper and American Can, from which, however, they partially recovered, was attributed to the prevalence of this view.

The inconvenience or possible loss attaching to the breaking up of arrangements of long standing between railroads or industrial concerns would naturally vary greatly according to the circumstances of each case. For this reason some were disposed to find the more serious import of Monday's decision not in its effect upon the Harriman lines themselves, but rather in other dissolutions to which this decision was regarded as pointing the way. Uncertainty still prevailed over the effect on the Union and Southern Pacific systems of the separation of these two properties, for none of those in charge of the railroads' affairs was ready yesterday to indicate what form of readjustment was likely to be suggested to the Circuit Court, which must approve any plan for carrying out the decree before it can be made effective. The Directors of the company concerned will be bound by the broad lines of action laid down by the Supreme Court, but they are left free to formulate such plan as will accomplish the end with the least possible inconvenience to the security holders. The movement of the market would suggest that the Southern Pacific would be most inconvenienced by the readjustment forced upon the system of which it now forms an important part, but it does not seem at all certain that the inferences on yesterday's decline in that issue were reasonably drawn from the facts at hand. There was talk of the Union Pacific seeking another outlet to the Pacific Coast with much loss of traffic to the Central Pacific, owned by the Southern Pacific system. It does not seem likely, however, that with the Union Pacific having the right under the Supreme Court's decree to retain, if it can, control of the Central Pacific, that the owners of the line from Ogden to San Francisco would adopt such a stand as would force the Union Pacific to the use of some other line. The whole situation is necessarily left in a state of uncertainty until it becomes possible for the managers of the property to convey to the public a broad outline of the plan which will be proposed to carry out the decree of the court, but it is plain that every necessary step will be taken to safeguard fully the interests of all concerned. It is in this light that the financial district will view the formation of a committee to represent the Southern Pacific stock which is now held outside of the Union Pacific.

The call of the Controller of the Currency for a report of the condition of National banks as of Nov. 26 removes any inclination on the part of the National banks of the country to fortify themselves in anticipation of making this return, and this doubtless will tend to increase the amount of money which interior institutions will place at the disposal of this market. Call loans were renewed yesterday at 9 per cent., a decline of 3 per cent. from Monday's renewal rate, and later in the day there was some money loaned as low as 6 per cent. The tendency was downward, and the indications were that the next day or two would see a further drop in call rates, although firmness is almost certain to prevail until after the end of the year. The Secretary of the Treasury, in dispatches from Washington published yesterday, reiterated his belief that there was no occasion for increasing the public deposits in the National banks. The Treasury, however, would appear to be well advised if it were to take into consideration the probable extent of the demands which the money market will have to meet in the closing days of December. Those demands will normally be considerably larger than those which had to be met at the beginning of this month, and which proved sufficient to advance the call rate to 20 per cent. It would be wiser to try to prevent any undue strain at the turn of the year than to attempt to correct the situation at that time should abnormal stringency develop.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 6@9 per cent., with the last loan at 6 per cent. Most of the day's loans were made at 9 per cent.

Time money rates were 6½@8 per cent. for sixty days, 6¼@7 per cent. for ninety days, 5¾@6½ per cent. for four months, and 5½@6 per cent. for five and six months.

Commercial paper was quoted at 5½@6 per cent. for best names.

Clearing House exchanges, $490,753,555; balances, $26,968,784; Sub-Treasury credit balance, $168,580.

The local banks have lost $3,298,000 on their Sub-Treasury operations since Friday.

FOREIGN RATES.

Discount rates abroad yesterday were: London, 4⅝@4¾ per cent. for short bills and 4½@4 9-16 per cent. for three months' bills; Paris, 3¾ per cent., and Berlin, 5½@6 per cent. Money was 3½@3¾ per cent. in London and 5 per cent. in Berlin.

The Paris check rate on London was 25 francs 22 centimes, and the Berlin check rate on London was 20 marks 47½ pfennigs.

Foreign exchange rates at the points noted were quoted as follows at the close of business yesterday:

CABLE AND SIGHT RATES.

London—Cable, $4.8510; demand, $4.8460.
Paris—Cable, 5.20 plus 1-32; check, 5.20 minus 5-64.
Berlin—Cable, 94⅝; check, 94⅝ plus 1-32.
Switzerland—Cable, 5.22½ plus 3-32; check, 5.22½ minus 1-32.
Holland—Cable, 40.14; check, 40.10.
Belgium—Cable, 5.22½; check, 5.23⅛.

SIXTY AND NINETY DAY BILLS.

London—Bankers', sixty days, $4.80½; ninety days, $4.78¾.
London—Commercial, sixty days, $4.80¼; ninety days, $4.78½.
Paris—Commercial, sixty days, 5.24⅜; ninety days, 5.25⅝ minus 1-16.
Berlin—Commercial, sixty days, 93 9-16; ninety days, 93 3-16.

DOMESTIC EXCHANGE RATES.

Boston, par; Chicago, 10c discount; St. Louis, 10c premium; St. Paul, par; San Francisco, 10c premium; Montreal, 46⅞ discount.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

More Pay for the Firemen.

At least one of the seven railroad Presidents who are acting for the Eastern lines in the negotiations with the unionized employes favors granting increased wages to the firemen voluntarily. "If justice were done," says this President, "the increased pay exacted by the brakemen some months ago would be taken away from them and given to the firemen." As this man served in both capacities in the course of his rise to his present position, he knows the amount of work and responsibility borne by both classes.

⁂

Harmonious Committees.

There was a joint meeting yesterday noon of the Executive Committees of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, called, presumably, to discuss ways of complying with the Supreme Court's decree. Afterward a story went around that the Harriman Directors had almost come to blows, the Southern Pacific Executive Committee holding out for a dissolution plan favorable to that company, while the Union Pacific representatives thought their company should be favored. A credulous broker to whom this story was told hunted up the two roads' reports to learn who sat on the two committees. For the Union Pacific Judge R. S. Lovett is Chairman, and there are associated with him Otto H. Kahn and Mortimer L. Schiff of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; William Rockefeller, and F. A. Vanderlip. Judge Lovett is likewise Chairman of the Southern Pacific's committee, the other members being Messrs. Kahn, Rockefeller, Schiff, Vanderlip, and two others—H. W. De Forest and Ogden Mills.

⁂

"Bigger Than the Canal."

With the whole world sounding the praises of the engineers who are building the Panama Canal; with thousands of sightseers journeying to the southward to see the big ditch before the oceans are allowed to meet, and with almost every citizen of prominence being quoted on the changes in the commerce of the United States which may be expected to occur with the opening of the new waterway, the humble Erie rises to announce that there is something bigger than the Panama Canal, from a traffic standpoint, right here in our midst. That something is the Erie Railroad. "Listen!" begs the Erie's passenger department in a picturesque little book just being issued. "The Erie carries millions of tons more freight every year than the Panama Canal will accommodate, and serves more people than the canal will ever serve. The canal is fifty miles long. Experts announce that for the first year or two the annual movement of traffic through it will be 10,500,000 tons, probably reaching 17,000,000 tons by 1925. In 1912 the Erie carried 136,471,000 tons of freight the length of the Panama Canal. To float this tonnage would require 27,294 vessels of 5,000 tons each, or nearly five times the tonnage capacity, steam and sail, of all the merchant fleets of all the nations of the world. Last year the Erie carried over 25,000,000 passengers—a far greater number than the combined population of Peru, Colombia, Chile, Venezuela, Guatemala, Ecuador, Panama, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Salvador, and Honduras."

⁂

On Government Deposits.

When news of Congressman Levy's resolution calling upon the Treasury Department to deposit $50,000,000 of Government funds in National banks reached the financial district some uncomplimentary things about the average Congressman's knowledge of banking matters were said by those who have been advising Secretary MacVeagh that there is no occasion for bringing Government money here. The President of a big institution which has figured in the recent call money market said that the real test of money conditions was the price paid by merchandisers and manufacturers. There has been plenty of money for "legitimate" business needs, and comparatively little has been loaned at the high rates recently quoted on the Stock Exchange. With gold arriving from Europe simultaneously with a lessening of the demand from outside points, the local money market should soon enjoy an easier tone.

Curb at Odds with Exchange.

Until the Curb Association was formed, a few years ago, to overcome the objections to the outside market found by the Hughes Investigating Committee the Curb brokers' chief dread was to do anything which might offend their powerful friend, the Stock Exchange. The present organization, which is patterned as closely as possible after the big board, was unofficially approved by the Stock Exchange authorities, and friendly relations have since been maintained in the same unofficial way. There had never been a move made by the Curb brokers until the recent ruling on commissions which could in any way offend a Stock Exchange house, but now, apparently, the Curb men have decided that they are strong enough to stand on their own feet, and refuse to exempt members from the common rule because they happen also to be allied with Stock Exchange firms. The Curb Association, like the Stock Exchange, has endeavored to close all loopholes through which the payment of established commissions might be evaded. One of the largest of these was the practice among a number of the Stock Exchange houses of transacting their Curb business through salaried employes instead of paying commissions. The Curb authorities have now ruled that after Jan. 1 Curb brokers must not do this business on salary, but must stick to the regular schedule of commissions. There are about 350 Curb brokers, and only about twenty of these are employes of Stock Exchange firms. The majority argue that it is manifestly unjust to allow this small minority to evade the commission rule, by which the others must abide. Some of the Stock Exchange houses doing a large business in outside stocks are not taking this new move calmly, and there was some talk yesterday of organizing a movement among the Stock Exchange members to do their business on the Curb exclusively among themselves. The Curb authorities feel, on the other hand, that the market outside has grown too broad to allow this limitation.

⁂

Other Railroad Mergers.

When the United States Supreme Court ordered the Union Pacific to dispose of its Southern Pacific stock, on the ground that the two lines had been competing when the merger was effected, attention was at once directed to other possible dissolutions. Vice President Byrnes of the New Haven said in Boston that the decision would have no bearing on that company's ownership of the Boston & Maine, on the ground that these roads were never competitors. Friends of the Reading likewise predicted that the Harriman case would have no effect on that company's control of the Central of New Jersey. In the anthracite case, however, one of the Government's allegations was that the two companies had competed for business before the union.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Continuance of Activity in Braden, with Price at New High Level on the Curb.

The upward movement in Braden Copper continued on the Curb yesterday with increased activity, the stock reporting transactions of 16,000 shares against Monday's 10,000. After opening at 9⅞, even with the previous close, the price advanced to 10⅛, and closed at that level. The tobacco issues also continued their activity, and United Cigar Stores passed Monday's high level of 117⅝. After opening at 116¾, which was ⅞ above the previous close, the price rose to 117¾, and closed at 117 after sales of 7,500 shares. The low level of the day was 116, ½ point above Monday's lowest. British-American did not equal Monday's active market of 9,000 shares, and failed to touch that day's high level of 25⅝. Transactions of 7,500 shares were reported between 24⅞ and 25⅝, the close being at 25, ⅛ point below the opening. Tobacco Products preferred opened at 102, even with Monday's high level, but on sales of 650 shares sold off to 100⅞. In contrast with Braden, other established coppers were weak. Giroux sold off from 3⅞ to 3⅜, and closed at 3⅜ after sales of 3,000 shares. Greene-Cananea lost ⅛, closing at 9⅝. The Braden convertible bonds shared the rise in the shares, the 6 per cents. rising from 199 to 205 and closing at 203 after sales of $42,000.

THE TREASURY STATEMENT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The Treasury statement issued to-day gives receipts and expenditures for yesterday and for the elapsed period of the month and of the fiscal year as follows:

	Dec. 2.	Month.	Fiscal Year.
Customs	$439,387	$439,387	$142,139,526
Internal rev.	641,156	641,156	134,079,083
Corporation tax.	1,746	1,746	2,175,096
Miscellaneous	116,248	116,248	21,767,622
Total receipts	1,198,539	1,198,539	300,161,329
Expenditures	2,914,836	2,914,836	299,803,943
Surplus	*1,716,297	*1,716,297	357,386

*Deficit.

These figures exclude Panama Canal and public debt transactions.

The condition of the United States Treasury at the beginning of business to-day was: Working balance, $94,212,338; in banks and Philippine Treasury, $31,608,848. Total of general fund, $148,204,867.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Near Eastern Situation Regarded Pessimistically by Traders in London.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Dec. 4.—The London Times in its City article says to-day:

"The demand for money was sufficient to enable lenders to obtain 3¾ per cent. for day-to-day advances during the early hours, but the rate fell away rapidly later. An attempt was made at the opening to stiffen discount rates in expectation of gold wanted for export to Egypt; but bills were scarce, and, as most houses were more or less anxious to secure a few, the rates soon became weak.

"The stock markets opened with a dull tone. Prices generally fell away slightly during the first hour, the reason assigned for the dullness being that some members were inclined to interpret the morning's news regarding the foreign political situation as rather less favorable.

"When the Paris Bourse reported quite cheerfully, though there was no expansion in the volume of business, quotations in most departments recovered the small losses established in the morning. The Paris Bourse, occupied with settlements, did very little beyond sending small buying orders for Rio Tinto and a few of its favorite South African shares.

"The interest in the American market centred in the Harriman stocks. At first the decision of the Supreme Court in the merger case was taken as a bull point for Union Pacific, but Wall Street, after further consideration of the matter, did not appear to take the same view, and Southern Pacific and Union Pacific shares closed weak. Gilt-edged securities maintained their recent rise. Grand Trunk Railway junior securities were in renewed request."

PARIS, Dec. 3.—Prices were firm on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 90 francs 30 centimes for the account.

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—Trading was quiet on the Börse to-day owing to the Imperial Chancellor's speech in the Reichstag yesterday and the unfavorable weekly bank return.

Adjusting Income to Meet New Conditions

That is what all intelligent investors are endeavoring to do. They all are trying to make their money earn more than heretofore, yet with due regard to the safety of their principal. They are compelled to pursue this policy because of present prices of the necessaries of life. The 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock of one of the Public Utility companies that we have developed, control and operate, with our long experience as engineers as well as bankers, helps investors to solve this problem.

Philadelphia, Pa., December 2, 1912.

To the Holders of the First and Second Mortgage Bonds of THE CENTRAL COLORADO POWER COMPANY and Holders of First Mortgage Bonds of the LEADVILLE LIGHT & POWER COMPANY:

In view of the default by THE CENTRAL COLORADO POWER COMPANY in the payment of coupons due December 1st, 1912, on its First Mortgage Bonds and the default in the payment of the sinking fund of THE LEADVILLE LIGHT & POWER COMPANY bonds, it is evident that the holders of the above bonds should unite in prompt and concerted action for the protection of their interests. At the request of the holders of a large amount of these bonds the undersigned have consented to act as a committee for the bondholders. A protective agreement has been prepared. Holders of bonds are requested to deposit the same in negotiable form, with December 1st, 1912, and subsequent unpaid coupons attached, before December 31st, 1912. Deposits should be made with the Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Co., 60 Broadway, New York, or the Commonwealth Trust Co., 30 Congress Street, Boston, Mass., the depositaries named in the above agreement. Certificates of deposit will be issued for all bonds deposited. For further information and for copies of said agreement when prepared apply to members of the Committee, the depositaries, or the Secretary.

Capital Wanted.

A recently incorporated advertising, merchandising, sales and promotion organization wishes to interest capital to the extent of $7,500, but this must come only from those in full sympathy with the standards and objects of the company. If an active interest is logical and consistent with sound business there are openings. If necessary, payment of stock may be deferred.

Seven per cent. is the minimum for the first year. The connection with proper people is as important as your money. If seriously inclined we can do business. You'll find me a gentleman, clean-cut, honest, with perhaps an enviable record of past training for my work, ambitious, sober, married, still young and turning down some tempting offers because the ultimate stakes are not in keeping with what the new company can produce. This is the one and only effort to interest you. If you are desirous of giving the proposition serious consideration address Capital, P 261 Times Downtown.

SURROGATE NOTICES.

WIELANDT, OSCAR A.—THE PEOPLE OF the State of New York, by the grace of God free and independent, to HEDWIG ANNA BENZ, Ernestine Yerg, Elsie Wielandt, Hedwig Wielandt, Mathilda Wielandt, Ernestine Wielandt, Ferdinand Wielandt, George W. Wielandt, Paul Wielandt, Julius Wielandt, Oscar Mork, the heirs and next of kin of OSCAR A. WIELANDT, also known as OSCAR WIELANDT, deceased, send greeting:

Whereas Simon J. Stroh of the City of New York has lately applied to the Surrogates' Court of our County of New York to have a certain instrument in writing, relating to both real and personal property, duly proved as the last will and testament of Oscar A. Wielandt, also known as Oscar Wielandt, late of the County of New York, deceased; therefore you and each of you are cited to appear before the Surrogate of our County of New York, at his office in the County of New York, on the 30th day of December, one thousand nine hundred and twelve, at half past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend the probate of the said last will and testament.

And such of you as are hereby cited as are under the age of twenty-one years are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof we have caused the seal of the Surrogates' Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed. Witness, Hon. John P. Cohalan, a [L. S.] Surrogate of our said County of New York, at said county, the 1st day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twelve.

CRUISES to the West Indies AND Panama Canal

The Hamburg-American Line desires to announce the withdrawal of its ORIENT cruise scheduled for January 28th.

The war and present unsanitary conditions in Constantinople and vicinity make this necessary.

The extraordinary demand for transportation to the WEST INDIES and the PANAMA CANAL this season indicates that our present schedule of 10 cruises and our weekly sailings by "Prinz" steamers will be inadequate.

We have therefore decided to dispatch the "S. S. CINCINNATI," of 17,000 tons, on a 29 Days Cruise to the WEST INDIES, PANAMA CANAL and VENEZUELA, leaving NEW YORK February 1st. Largest ship visiting the West Indies.

In addition there will be the following cruises in this service from New York:

S. S. MOLTKE (12,500 TONS)

16 DAYS	JAN. 4	$145 up
28 DAYS	JAN. 23	$175 up
28 DAYS	FEB. 25	$175 up

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Building Syndicate Buys Block in Port Morris Section of the Bronx—Another Fifth Avenue Lease—Private Dwellings in Good Demand—$300,000 Apartment for Park Avenue.

An unusual degree of real estate activity has been apparent in the Borough of the Bronx recently, several of the deals having both a speculative and investment import, evidently based on important improvements to come with the completion of the new subway lines. Following the big block front sale by the Burtons, on 162d Street, between Grant and Sherman Avenues, on the preceding day, the developments yesterday resulted in the sale to a building syndicate of an entire block.

The property is bounded by Southern Boulevard, Jackson Avenue, 138th and 139th Streets, with frontages of 64.10 by 231 by 201 by 205 feet. The 138th Street frontage is 64.10 feet. The block is on the line of the new subway, and is in a growing section of the borough.

The sale was made for the Barney Realty Company, by Arnold, Byrne & Baumann. It has been held at $100,000.

$400,000 Fifth Avenue Lease.

An important Fifth Avenue lease, which has peculiar interest, as it involves a building opposite the new Lord & Taylor site, between Thirty-eighth and Thirty-ninth Streets, was taken yesterday by Dempsey & Carroll, on the sixth-story loft at 431 Fifth Avenue, on a lot 21.1 by 100. The lessees now occupy the store and basement, having leased that portion in August, when they left Twenty-third Street. For the entire structure the annual rental is about $20,000, and as the term is 21 years, it approximates $400,000. Pease & Elliman negotiated the lease for the owner, Walter E. Maynard.

The Private Dwelling Market.

Frederick H. Reed has sold to a client of B. Flanagan & Son 52 West Ninety-seventh Street, a four-story high stoop dwelling on a lot 19 by 100.11.

Negotiations are pending for the sale of 35 East Seventy-second Street, a four-story dwelling on a lot 22 by 102.2 owned by Lucetta B. Makepeace.

Joseph Harzig is reported to be the buyer of 33 West Eighty-eighth Street, a four-story dwelling on a lot 20 by 100.8, owned by the estate of William H. Montayne.

Investors Buy Tenements.

An investor has purchased from Rebecca Lerneman 61 East 106th Street, a five-story double tenement, on a lot 25 by 100. Jacob Sado was the broker in the transaction.

Urgo & Bracco have sold to Mr. Granatelli for investment, 205 and 207 East 106th Street, two four-story tenements and stores, on plot 40 by 100.11, located just east of Third Avenue.

Bronx.

Ernst & Cahn have resold for a client to the Reliable Construction Company, Israel I. Wolf, President, the plot on the south side of 179th Street, between Belmont and Hughes Avenues, 73.53 by 95 by 59.21 by 96.07.

The plot 73.6 by 95 on the south side of 179th Street, between Belmont and Hughes Avenues, has been resold by Ernst & Cahn for a client to the Reliable Construction Company.

John W. Vaughan has sold a lot on Cedar Street, 300 feet east of Old Boston Road; also a corner of Chester and Birch Streets.

Deal Pending for "Bishops Court," L. I.

Negotiations are pending for the sale of "Bishops Court," the home of Bishop William B. Derrick of the A. M. E. Church, at State and Prince Streets, Flushing, L. I. The reported buyer is J. Jennings of Manhattan, who stated yesterday that no papers had been signed as yet in the transaction. The property is valued at about $40,000, and has a frontage of about 263 feet.

$300,000 Park Avenue Apartment.

The 929 Park Avenue Company, of which Alexander Herzog is President, filed plans with the Building Department yesterday for a twelve-story apartment house at that address, from plans by George & Edward Blum, who estimate the cost at $300,000. The building will occupy a plot 53.3 by 81, adjoining a fourteen-story apartment house on the north, and will provide suites for thirteen families.

New Theatre for Williamsburg.

The Williamsburg Amusement Company has signed contracts for the erection of a high-class theatre on Broadway, Brooklyn, near the Williamsburg Bridge. The new structure will cover a plot 125 by 150, and will contain 2,200 seats. A high-class stock company will be provided to produce Broadway successes.

Public Hearing on Brooklyn Streets.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment is considering the advisability of instituting proceedings to acquire title to the lands and premises required for the opening and extending of Maple Street, from Throop Avenue to Utica Avenue, in the Borough of Brooklyn. The board will consider the proposed area of assessment at a public meeting to be held in the Borough of Manhattan in the City Hall on Dec. 12, at 10:30 A. M.

Midtown Plot at Auction.

Bryan L. Kennelly will offer at public auction to-day in the Vesey Street salesroom the property 106-112 West Fiftieth Street, running through to 109 West Forty-ninth Street. The property is leased to Park & Tilford at $12,000 per year until Jan. 1, 1914.

Mr. Kennelly will also offer 225 East 127th Street, a five-story tenement; 333 and 335 East Eighty-fifth Street, two four-story flats, and 2,347 Jerome Avenue, Bronx, a two-family dwelling with store.

$25 Square Foot Rental on 125th Street.

Porter & Co. have leased for D. & J. H. Tonjes to the Edwin Cigar Company the store at the southwest corner of 125th Street and Eighth Avenue. This store was leased for a term of years at a figure which will average over $25 per square foot.

Dwelling Leased.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. have leased for John S. Melcher 5 East Fifty-first Street, a five-story American basement house, 30 by 80 by 100, to Moses Taylor of the firm of Kean, Taylor & Co., bankers.

Passavant Building Loan.

In the report yesterday of the making of a $750,000 loan on the Passavant Building, Fourth Avenue and Thirtieth Street, it was made to appear that the money was obtained for Solomon Schinasi. He, instead, made the loan to the owners of the property, who built the structure as an investment, and it is not for sale.

Commercial Leases.

Frederick Fox & Co. have leased for William Vincent Astor the entire building at 279 Bowery and 93-95 East Houston Street, for a long term of years to Abraham Avidan.

Pease & Elliman have leased for Oswald G. Villard to John J. Holfelder and Charles Meyer, for a term of years, the store 26 Vesey Street, adjoining The Evening Post Building. The premises will be opened as a bakery lunchroom. Seton Henry and Douglas Gibbons were associated as agents for the landlord.

Taylor, Sherman Company has leased the building 37 East Nineteenth Street for a term of ten years at an aggregate rental of $45,000. The building will be altered and occupied by Henry J. Wollenhaupt for restaurant purposes. The same firm was the broker in the leasing of the property 131 West Fifty-eighth Street for J. T. Hambay for a term of twenty-one years, at an aggregate rental of $42,000. C. H. Lang, the lessee, will alter same into stores and apartments.

Results at Auction.

Yesterday's offerings in the Real Estate Salesroom, 14 and 16 Vesey Street, resulted as follows:

REAL ESTATE AT AUCTION. REAL ESTATE AT AUCTION.

Mr. Frank Tilford
of PARK & TILFORD thinks Lakewood is a good place. He is going to make an investment amounting to several Hundred Thousand Dollars.

TURN THE KEY in the door---and the LAKEWOOD HOTEL is ready for the immediate reception of guests. Everything is in readiness, table linen, silverware, glassware, the rooms are ready, the beds are made up. What an opportunity for a hotel man or a man who wants to invest in a fine hotel property. It is a remarkable fact that, notwithstanding this hotel has been closed, it has been kept up in a high state of efficiency. Go down and see for yourself.

I have been instructed by the owners to sell at ABSOLUTE AUCTION SALE to the HIGHEST BIDDER, WITHOUT RESERVATION, NEXT SATURDAY, at 3 o'clock P. M., rain or shine, on the premises, the LAKEWOOD HOTEL, WITH FURNITURE AND EQUIPMENT, situated in the midst of the world-famous pine woods of Lakewood, N. J.

The property to be offered consists of a five-story brick modern hotel, fitted with every up-to-date convenience, containing 336 handsomely furnished bedrooms and 106 baths. There is a special building for the help, stable suitable for automobile garage, 'buses. A full installation of Hydrotherapy and Electric Baths. An artesian well supplies the purest of water, which is suitable for bottling. Complete ventilating and heating system; electric light. Lawn Tennis Court, Squash Court, Bowling Alley; all in the building—in short, everything necessary to make a complete hotel.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The weather has become unsettled over the Western districts, and Tuesday night disturbances were central over Southern Texas, Lake Superior and the Northern Rocky Mountain region. These disturbances have already caused rains.

Temperatures are generally lower throughout the Atlantic States, and have risen decidedly in the Central Valleys and the Northwest.

There will be rains Wednesday in the Gulf and South Atlantic States, and Wednesday night or Thursday in the Middle Atlantic States, and New England.

Rains and snows are also probable in the Northwest, while in the Southwest the weather will be fair Wednesday and Thursday.

Colder weather will overspread the Northwest Wednesday, but temperatures will not change materially over the East and South during the next forty-eight hours.

Winds along the New England and Middle Atlantic Coast will be moderate variable, becoming south; South Atlantic Coast, moderate east and southeast.

Steamships departing Wednesday for European ports will have moderate south winds and overcast weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York—Fair Wednesday, except unsettled extreme north portion. Thursday, local rains; moderate south winds.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Increasing cloudiness Wednesday, probably followed by rain late Wednesday night or Thursday; light to moderate east and southeast winds.

New England—Fair Wednesday. Thursday, unsettled, moderate south winds.

Western New York—Cloudy, probably local rains Wednesday. Thursday, fair, moderate south winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1911.	1912.		1911.	1912.
3 A. M.	33	50	4 P. M.	42	48
6 A. M.	34	44	6 P. M.	42	47
9 A. M.	36	42	9 P. M.	39	48
12 M.	40	47	11 P. M.	36	44

The thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 46; for the corresponding date last year it was 38; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 37.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 41; at 8 P. M. it was 47. Maximum temperature, 52 degrees at 2 P. M.; minimum, 41 degrees at 8 A. M. Humidity, 67 per cent. at 8 A. M., and 59 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.10 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.12 inches.

EDUCATION NOTES.

The Board of Education has approved the action of the Committee on Care of Buildings in reducing the compensation of John J. Ludin, janitor of Public School 52, Queens, for the care of the temporary building located on the grounds of said school, from $264 to $120 a year, taking effect Sept. 1, the use of this building for school purposes having ben discontinued.

Terrence McSpirit, janitor of Public School 67, Glendale, Queens, has been assigned to the temporary care of Public School 70, Middle Village, Queens, at $636 a year less $221.

The Board of Education has granted to Frederick E. Berthold, janitor of Public School 79, Whitestone, Queens, $43.33 for extra services performed during October.

Percy G. Bostock has been appointed as janitor, (with a knowledge of steam heating,) in Public School 14, Navy and Concord Streets, Brooklyn, with compensation at the rate of $1,212 a year, his name having been selected from the eligible list furnished by the Municipal Civil Service Commission.

A meeting of the Graduates' Club was held at the City Club last evening. The topic of discussion was the Panama Canal. Among the speakers was District Supt. Albert Shiels of the Board of Education, who was American Consul at Panama when De Lesseps was in charge of the canal construction.

President Egerton L. Winthrop, Jr., of the Board of Education and City Supt. Maxwell will attend the hearing on the budget to-morrow.

The Committee on Elementary Schools held a meeting at the Board of Education Hall yesterday afternoon, and listened to the views of a large number of Principals on the subject of organizing savings banks in the public schools.

An interesting appeal will be considered by the Board of Superintendents at its meeting to-morrow. There is in the public school system what is cumbrously called "the substitute additional teacher." This teacher is not on a salary, but is paid $3.50 for each day he works. For every day he is not called upon to do substitute work he receives not one cent. It often happens that, although he holds himself in readiness all the time to answer a call from the school authorities, the days of his employment during the school year are so few and far between that he can not make a fair livelihood from his profession as teacher. The name "substitute" is not liked by those who do this work, and they have formed what they call the Additional Teachers' Association. Through its officers the Board of Superintendents has been requested to form a plan whereby the substitute additional teacher will receive a salary whose maximum will be $1,020 a year, and also be entitled to the benefits of the retirement law. Action in the matter is expected at the board's meeting to-morrow.

Associate City Supt. Stevens said yesterday that there was considerable misapprehension on the part of the press and public as to what point had been decided by Justice Rudd of the Supreme Court against Corporation Counsel Watson in the latter's suit to prevent State Commissioner of Education Draper hearing the appeal of City Supt. Maxwell from the order of the Board of Education directing him to place on the promotion lists of teachers of the highest elementary grades the names of holders of License No. 1. Mr. Stevens explained that ever since 1838 the law has been that an aggrieved member of the supervising or teaching staff has the right of appeal to the State Superintendent. It was as an aggrieved City Superintendent that Dr. Maxwell appealed to Dr. Draper. It is the same right an aggrieved teacher has to appeal to the State Superintendent from the action of a Principal of a Superintendent or the Board of Education. It enables the aggrieved teacher to make the appeal without the cost he would be put to if he instituted regular legal proceedings. The Corporation Counsel's contention was that Dr. Maxwell was not an aggrieved party. Justice Rudd rules that he is aggrieved, and therefore, according to the law in force so many years, he has the right to appeal to State Supt. Draper for a hearing. It is only as a judicial officer Dr. Draper is going to act in the matter, Mr. Stevens said, and it is therefore absurd to say, as some newspapers have done, that the State Superintendent, by Justice Rudd's decision, is made the ruler of the New York City Board of Education.

The modern language teachers' division of the High School Teachers' Association will meet on Saturday morning at the High School of Commerce building. Colman D. Frank of the De Witt Clinton High School will preside. The speakers will be W. W. Lamb of the Boys' High School, Robert B. Marvin of the Commercial High School, Marie M. Diedrich of Mirris High School, Erwin M. Roessler of the High School of Commerce, and Carl Krause of the Jamaica High School.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

City.

The following reports of Mr. Fuld of his investigations in the matters specified have been adopted by the Municipal Civil Service Commission:

Chief Examiner, Bureau of Fire Prevention—Recommends that the list be promulgated and that the certification clerk notify him in writing when the sixth name is certified.

Alienist—Recommends that the list be promulgated.

Prison Keeper, Fourth Group—Recommends that the certification clerk notify him in writing when the thirty-sixth name is certified.

Inspector of Plastering, Third Group—Recommends that the certification clerk be directed to notify him when the twenty-sixth name is certified.

Medical Inspector (Supplemental)—Recommends that the disqualification appearing against the name of Dr. Joseph Rosenthal be removed, the examiner who rated the papers having reported that he gave this candidate no credit for his statement that he was a member of the Academy of Medicine.

Assistant Engineer, Grade E (Supplemental)—Recommends that the report be filed.

Laboratory Assistant, Vaccine Laboratory (Supplemental)—Recommends that the report be filed.

Deputy Medical Superintendent (Supplemental)—Recommends that the report be filed.

Automobile Engineman (Supplemental)—Recommends that the report be filed.

Medical Inspector, Fourth Grade (Supplemental)—Recommends that Dr. Leopold Miller Rohr be summoned to show cause why his name should not be removed from the list.

Recommending that Dr. Philip Liebling, 742 Kelly Street, Bronx, be marked qualified on the list of medical inspector.

United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination, for men only, at the New York Custom House to-day, to fill a vacancy in the position of scientific assistant in the Lighthouse Service for duty in the Third Lighthouse District at Tompkinsville, N. Y., at a salary of $1,500 a year, and vacancies in positions requiring similar qualifications as they may occur. The duties are similar to those of assistant in the testing laboratories of scientific and technical institutions. The appointee should be familiar with general and special photography. He should be able to install apparatus and establish chemical laboratories and make chemical tests of materials, including paints, varnishes, rubber, coal, oils, iron, steel, and composition metals, and to assist in the preparation of specifications for the same; to install modern apparatus for making photometric tests; to make photometric tests of illuminants and optical tests of apparatus used in the Lighthouse Service, and to assist in the investigation of different illuminants and devices.

Competitors will be examined in the following subjects, which will have the relative weights indicated: General chemistry, 20; general physics, 30; elementary questions in mathematics and mechanics, 15; education, training, experience, and fitness, 35. An educational training equivalent to that required for a bachelor's degree from a scientific or technical school or college of recognized standing is a prerequisite for consideration for this position. Applicants must have reached their twentieth but not their thirty-fifth birthday on the date of the examination, which is open to all male citizens of the United States who meet the requirements.

An open competitive examination, for men only, will be held on Dec. 6 at the New York Custom House to fill a vacancy in the position of opener and packer, at $900 a year, in the offices of the Appraiser of Merchandise, Port of New York, and vacancies as they may occur requiring similar qualifications. Competitors will be examined in the following subjects, which will have the relative weights indicated: Spelling (twenty words in ordinary use,) 8; arithmetic, (simple tests in addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division of whole numbers and United States money,) 8; letter writing, (a letter of not less than 100 words on some subject of general interest. Competitors may select either of two subjects given,) 8; penmanship, (the legibility, rapidity, neatness, general appearance, &c., of the competitor's handwriting in the subject of copying from plain copy,) 8; copying from plain copy, (a simple test in copying accurately, in the competitor's handwriting, a few printed lines,) 8; training, experience, and fitness, 60. Credit will be given for experience in opening and packing general merchandise, and special credit will be given for packing fragile articles. Physical ability to perform the duties of an opener and packer is a prerequisite for consideration for this position. Applicants for this examination must measure not less than 5 feet 6 inches in height in bare feet and weigh not less than 150 pounds. Age, 18 or over on the date of the examination, which is open to all male citizens of the United States who meet the requirements.

Censored Want Advertisements

"Only advertisements fit to print."

"The best part of advertising in THE TIMES," said an advertiser of Furnished Rooms recently, "is that inquirers are not only numerous, but of the same fine class that you see reading THE TIMES everywhere—in the subways and on the elevated."

To advertise to more residents of the metropolitan district than buy all three other morning papers popularly classed with THE NEW YORK TIMES as to quality of circulation—telephone an advertisement to 1000 Bryant.

The type used for "Wants" is called agate. By counting seven words to the line in small type or four words if set in capitals, you may readily estimate what your advertisement will cost by consulting the following table:

ARSON CONFESSION GIVEN TO A JURY

Ex-Detective Describes Method as Defendant Rothenberg Told It to Him.

CLOCKS AND CHEMICALS USED

Combustion Was Premature, but Burned Out New York Frame and Picture Company's Store.

Testimony containing a description of the method used in setting fire to buildings was given before Justice Goff, in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, yesterday during the trial of Bruno Rothenberg, a real estate agent, who is being tried for arson in the first degree on the charge that on June 12 last he set fire to the store of the New York Frame and Picture Company, at 142 Fulton Street.

This testimony was given by Inspector Rufus D. Pitcher of the Fire Patrol, who was formerly Assistant Superintendent of the Pinkerton Detective Agency. It was largely through the efforts of Mr. Pitcher that Rothenberg was arrested. All of the testimony given yesterday is corroborated by Samuel Kohler, a prisoner in the Tombs, who was present at the time Rothenberg made his confession, which was repeated by Mr. Pitcher yesterday.

After some negotiations, Rothenberg agreed to tell all he knew about the fire.

He said that three weeks before the fire he met Isidor Horowitz, a brother of Charles Horowitz, President of the company, who asked him how much he would take to set fire to the building. Rothenberg asked what insurance there was on it, and after being told that it amounted to $20,000 agreed to set fire to the place for $1,000. A week before the fire Horowitz's brother again called on him and told him to burn down the place on June 12, and gave him three alarm clocks. Three days before the fire, Rothenberg asked Isidor Horowitz for $20 with which to buy chemicals and gasoline, but was told to buy them out of his own money.

Rothenberg then went to Newark, N. J., where he bought some gasoline, which he had placed in a five-gallon bottle, and three chemicals, which when mixed would cause combustion. A key to the New York Frame and Picture Company was then given to him, and on the night of June 12 he entered, and going to the cellar placed one of the alarm clocks on the floor. He then placed a glass plate under it and poured some of the chemicals out on it. He then placed another one of the chemicals in a receptacle, which he attached to the thumb screw of the alarm clock. The floor was then sprinkled with gasoline and several rows of fuse were stretched from the clock to inflammable materials lying about.

Rothenberg then went up stairs and repeated the same operations. All the clocks were set to go off at 10:30 o'clock that night. Something went wrong, however, for the fire started before the time Rothenberg had reckoned on and by 10:30 o'clock the whole building was afire. Rothenberg also stated that on two different occasions he had set fire to stores owned by Isidor Horowitz and had always been paid well. He said he only got $55 for setting fire to the New York Frame and Picture Company, however.

After Pitcher had finished testifying, Samuel Weimer, a former clerk in the employ of the concern, was called and testified that on the day of the fire he left some valuable paintings at the head of a flight of steps at the request of Charles Horowitz, the President. James W. Osborne, who is prosecuting the case asked him to identify several pictures, which were brought into court. The witness did this and it was later learned that these pictures were removed from the building just before the fire, but that their loss had been mentioned in the claims against the fire insurance companies. The trial will be continued to-day.

PLEAD GUILTY TO ARSON.

Father and Son Confess Setting Fire to Stable for Insurance.

Morris Greenberg, a gray-bearded man, 55 years old, and his son David, 22, of 345 Blake Avenue, Brooklyn, pleaded guilty to arson before Judge Dike in the County Court yesterday. With Louis Evans and Hyman Wasserman, the two Greenbergs were caught by Fire Marshal Thomas Brophy after a fire was started in a stable at 363 Johnson Avenue shortly after midnight on Aug. 14. They will be sentenced on Monday.

The arrest of the four men followed a discovery by the Fire Marshal of a plot to burn the stable and seven horses to collect $2,000 insurance. Old horses were substituted for good animals, and two of those in the stables on the night of the fire were found to have been covered with kerosene oil. One of the horses was totally blind, and was purchased for $6. The other was bought for $18.

FIRE PANIC AMONG GIRLS.

Block Fire Escapes and Stairs Rushing Away from Factory Blaze.

A girl employe of Guttman Brothers, makers of women's underwear, on the fifth floor of 462 and 464 Broadway, at the corner of Grand Street, opened a door into the hall yesterday afternoon and a cloud of smoke swept in on her. Instantly she set up a cry. It was taken up by other girls and soon every person in the building knew that the place was on fire.

Terrified women and girls blocked the fire escapes, fought to enter the elevators which were kept running or crowded each other on the stairs, striving to reach the street. Everybody got out safely, but for several minutes there was a panic among occupants of the building.

The firemen were called and put the fire out after a few minutes' work. It is believed that some one was smoking a cigarette in the hall of the fifth floor, heard some one approaching and, because smoking is prohibited, tossed the cigarette into a corner, where it started a blaze.

THROWN MATCH SET FIRE.

Investigation Made at Tenement Where One Was Killed and Many Hurt.

Investigation yesterday of the fire in the five-story tenement at 2 East 112th Street early yesterday morning which caused the death of one man besides causing injuries to a dozen or more persons, persuaded the fire authorities that some one had carelessly tossed a lighted match into a baby carriage beneath the stairs on the ground floor. It was there the fire started.

The blaze spread rapidly, and when the firemen had assisted dozens of men, women, and children from the roof and fire escapes they searched the house. They found the body of Louis Levy, a rabbi, dead in bed. He had been smothered apparently and then had been burned.

William Day, a waiter, who boarded in the house, was reported missing after the fire was out, but no trace of his body was found and it is believed that he escaped and was taken in by friends.

Flames swept the building from the ground floor to the roof, and did about $15,000 damage.

BLIND MAN HIT BY AUTO.

Boy Who Was Guiding Him and Didn't See It Coming Also Hurt.

David Soren, 60 years old, of 321 Crimmins Avenue, the Bronx, is almost blind, and is helped on his way home every night by his eight-year-old son Edward from the place downtown where he is employed in making badges. Last night they got off the Third Avenue elevated together at the 143d Street Station, and started to walk toward Crimmins Avenue. At Willis Avenue the boy saw that the street was clear in one direction, and began to lead the old man across.

Coming up the street, however, was a machine on the other side of his father which the boy did not see. It struck the father, knocking him to the pavement, and threw the boy twenty feet, but without hurting him seriously.

The injured man was taken to the Lincoln Hospital, where it was found that he was suffering from concussion of the brain and many cuts and bruises. The driver of the car, Thomas Ferriss of 1,556 Washington Avenue, was arrested on the charge of operating a machine without a license.

FALL LOOSENS HIS TONGUE.

Boy's Accident Cut the Cord Which Hindered His Speech.

Robert Ecke, the son of Capt. Albert Ecke, lawyer, of 182 Lincoln Avenue, East New York, now speaks clearly and easily as the result of having fallen on a brass tube, one end of which he was holding in his mouth. The tube tore into the under part of his tongue, cutting a cord which had prevented him from speaking clearly by holding the tongue to the bottom of his mouth.

The child had been blowing on the tube in imitation of his father, who is a cornet player. As he ran, the lower end of the tube struck against a door and the lad was thrown down. The tube cut deeply into the underside of his tongue. Dr. Evans Johnson of 61 Richmond Street was called and pronounced the wound not serious. Then, to the surprise and delight of the mother, Robert, still tearful, announced he wanted his "Grandpa Becker," not his "'anpa 'Ecker," as formerly.

Dr. Johnson discovered the cord that impeded the action of the child's tongue had been slit as neatly as though it had been done with a surgeon's scalpel. With the passing of days his speech became more easy.

LEFT $19,000 TO CHARITIES.

Value of Estate of Ferdinand Hermann Is Not Stated.

Ferdinand Hermann, a member of the banking firm of Speyer & Co., at 24 Pine Street, until his death on Sept. 23, left $19,000 to charity, according to his will, which was filed yesterday for probate in the Surrogates' Court. The amount of his estate was not given, the petition merely making the formal statement that he left more than $10,000 realty and more than $10,000 personalty.

He donated $2,500 each to the United Hebrew Benevolent and Orphan Asylum Society, the New York Society for Ethical Culture, the United Hebrew Charities of the City of New York, the Visiting Guild for the Crippled, the Mount Sinai Hospital and the Montefiore Home for Chronic Invalids. St. John's Guild of the City of New York and the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor each are to receive $2,000.

He left $50,000 to his sister, Bertha Bernheim; $5,000 less any indebtedness to Heinrich Bernheim; $5,000 and $15,000 after the death of Clara Speyer to Charles Speyer; $7,500 less any indebtedness to Ernest Hermann, and the income of $15,000 for life to Clara Speyer. All remaining goes to his widow, Sara Hermann.

SEEK HER NEGRO ASSAILANT.

Trenton White Woman Found Dying in Field—Big Posse Out.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 3.—A big posse of police and citizens under Prosecutor Crossly and Chief of Detectives Clancy are searching the outskirts of the city to-night for a negro who attacked and almost killed Miss Luella Marshall, a white woman, to-day. The woman is in the Mercer Hospital and is said to be dying.

She was found by another woman who heard groans coming from a field beside the Pennington Road. Miss Marshall was unconscious there, and when a physician who was summoned aroused her she was able to give only her name and to say that a negro had attacked her.

Bazaar for Widowed Mothers' Fund.

The Bazaar for the benefit of the Widowed Mothers' Fund Association will be opened by Borough President George McAneny on Saturday evening at the Waldorf-Astoria. Adolph Lewisohn will deliver an address. The bazaar will remain open for a week. The Directors of the association have arranged many features, among them a concert of professional talent and a moving picture show where films of the Balkan war will be shown. Max Heidelberg and Mr. Siedele of the Metropolitan Opera House have arranged the booths on the plan of the streets of an Oriental city. Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 11, has been reserved for Club Women's Day, and the following women have been asked to speak: Mrs. William Grant Brown, Mrs. Clarence Burns, Mrs. Nelson H. Henry, and the Baroness Von Suttner of Vienna.
